JAPAN PLEDGES "OPEN DOOR" IN REPLY TO U. S.

But Insists Chinese Conditions Change.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 15.—The Chinese government is considering the advisability of severing diplomatic relations with the Tokio government as a result of Japan's move to continue its extension area in Manchuria.

The Chinese government also probably will request the league of nations to apply economic sanction provided under article 16 of the covenant. Chinese officialdom is considering requesting the government to adopt the soviet system of paying officials of every grade $25 monthly.

TOKIO, Jan. 16.—[Saturday]—(AP)—Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa replied today to Secretary of State Stimson's recent note calling attention to American rights in Manchuria and China under the nine-power treaty. The reply was delivered to American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes by the foreign minister. The Japanese note follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your excellency's note of Jan. 8, which has had the most careful attention of this government.

"The government of Japan is well aware that the government of the United States could always be relied upon to do everything in their power to support Japan's efforts to secure full and complete fulfillment in every detail of the treaties of Washington and the Kellogg treaty for the outlawry of war. They are glad to receive this additional assurance of the fact.

Pledges to Respect Open Door.

"As regards the question which your excellency specifically mentions of the policy of the so called open-door, the Japanese government, as has so often been stated, regard that policy as a cordial feature of the politics of the far east and only regret that its effectiveness is so seriously diminished by the unsettled conditions which prevail throughout China.

"In so far as they can secure it, the policy of the open door will always be maintained in Manchuria as in China proper.

"They take note of the statement by the United States government that the latter cannot admit the legality of matters which might impair the treaty rights of the United States or its citizens or which might be brought about by means contrary to the treaty of Aug. 27, 1928.

Says Conditions Have Changed.

"It might be the subject of an academic doubt, whether in a given case the impropriety of the means necessarily and always voids the ends secured, but as Japan has no intention of adopting improper means that question does not practically arise.

"It may be added that the treaties which relate to China must necessarily be applied with due regard to the state of affairs from time to time prevailing in that country and that the present distracted and unsettled state of China is not what was in the contemplation of the high contracting parties at the time of the treaty of Washington. It was certainly not satisfactory then: But it did not display that disunion and those antagonisms which it does today.

Cannot Affect Treaties.

"This cannot affect the binding character or the stipulations of the treaties: But it may in material respects modify their application, since they must necessarily be applied with reference to the state of facts as they exist.

"My government desires further to point out that any replacement which has occurred in the personnel of the administration of Manchuria has been the necessary act of the local population. Even in cases of hostile occupation—which this was not—it is customary for the local officials to remain in exercise of their functions.

"In the present case they, for the most part, fled or resigned: It was their own behavior which was calculated to destroy the working of the apparatus of government.

"The Japanese government cannot think that the Chinese people, unlike all others, are destitute of the power of self-determination and of organizing themselves in order to secure civilized conditions when they are deserted by the existing officials.

"While it need not be repeated that Japan entertains in Manchuria no territorial aims or ambitions, yet, as your

BILL EXPECTED TO BECOME LAW BY NEXT WEEK

200 Million Limit Is Set on Loans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan 15.—[Special.]—By a vote of 335 to 55, the house of representatives today passed the administration's reconstruction finance corporation bill to provide banks, railroads, building and loan associations, mortgage loan companies, and farm credit associations with two billion dollars of government guaranteed credit.

By early next week the measure will be in conference of the two houses, the senate having passed a companion bill last Monday. Little delay is expected there, and it is probable that the president's signature will be affixed and the measure made law before the end of the week.

As passed today by the house, the essential pattern of the bill closely follows that approved by the senate.

Closed Banks Aided.

Among the principal differences is that the house bill provides that loans may be made to the receivers of closed banks, whereas the senate bill specified closed banks "whose assets are adequate to permit of restoration to solvency."

One difference which the conferees will have to thrash out is that the senate bill prohibits the federal reserve banks from purchasing or discounting the obligations of the corporation, while the house bill permits this practice.

The house bill limits the loan to any one institution, its subsidiaries and affiliates to 200 million dollars, while the senate bill carries no such limitation. The house bill specifies that the principal office of the corporation shall be in Washington, with branches where necessary.

Preference to Agriculture.

Both bills carry provisions giving preferential treatment to agriculture. The senate excepts agriculture and live stock credit corporations and federal land and joint stock land banks from the prohibition that loans by the corporation shall not be used to expedite new ventures. And it carries a clause authorizing an additional appropriation of $50,000,000 to be loaned directly to farmers, with crop liens as securities.

Such an amendment was attempted in the house but was ruled out of order, and the house farm advocates were forced to content themselves with an amendment earmarking $50,000,000 of the 500 million dollar capital stock to be subscribed by the federal treasury, and 150 million dollars of the one billion 500 million dollars which the corporation may raise through the issuance of federally guaranteed bonds for the use of intermediate credit banks and other institutions furnishing farm credit.

31 Amendments Defeated.

As the measure passed through the committee of the whole house today it was submitted to a hailstorm of amendments. In all, 34 were showered upon it. All but three of them were defeated, principally through being ruled out of order by the chairman, Representative Warren [Dem., N. C.].

Amendments cutting down the loan to a single corporation to 100 million dollars, prohibiting loans in aid of mergers, setting aside 20 per cent of the corporation's credit facilities for loans to small banks, making reclamation and irrigation projects eligible for loans, prohibiting loans to banks loaning to institutions engaged in short selling, prohibiting reloans to chain stores, permitting the issue of currency instead of bonds, permitting loans to shipping lines—all these amendments and more were ruled out of order or voted down.

A final attempt by Representative McFadden [Rep., Pa.] to have the bill recommitted with instructions to bring out a substitute measure requiring the secretary of the treasury to purchase one billion dollars worth of gold and 200 million dollars worth of silver and to issue currency in that amount was ruled out of order and the bill voted triumphantly through.

The three amendments which did gain adoption were one providing that no commissions should be paid any intermediary in obtaining loans from the corporation, one that bonds of the corporation should be legal investments for trusts and public funds, and one providing a penalty for any officer or employé who should use information gathered in office for the purpose of speculation.

Royals Is Guilty; Gets 25 Years

FIGHTING EVERYTHING EXCEPT THE FIRE

Long Term for Boy Slayer of Mrs. Lavander

Vernon Royals, 17 years old, was found guilty of the murder of Mrs. Agnes Lavander by a jury in Judge Walter Stanton's Crimial court late last night. His punishment was fixed at twenty-five years in the penitentiary.

As the jurors filed out of the courtroom and into the corridor a few minutes later the young slayer's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Royals, confronted them. Before any one could interfere she rushed toward the jurors hysterically.

"Why didn't you get Al Capone?" she screamed, waving her fists. "Why send my boy to prison?"

Husband Seizes Mother.

The jurors broke in confusion for an instant, but Mrs. Royals was seized by her husband, Rankin A. Royals, and others and escorted to another section of the corridor. There was no further demonstration.

Young Royals, described by police as a juvenile giant because he stands more than six feet in height and weighs nearly 170 pounds, received the verdict calmly. He stood in the rear of the courtroom, handcuffed to a bailiff, over whom he towered by a head. His brother, Jack, 19, sitting in a front row burst into tears as the verdict was read.

The jury's edict was regarded by Assistant State's Attorneys Harry S. Ditchburne and Harry P. Gabel as a warning to prowlers and others who, in recent years, have terrorized women in the lonely sections of the city. They pointed out that the vicinity of the slaying of Mrs. Lavander, near the Forest Glen railroad station, had been the scene of previous criminal outbreaks.

Deliberate on Penalty.

The jury, led by Foreman William H. McKinley, 847 Judson avenue, Evanston, retired at 1:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon. About fifteen ballots were taken before unanimity on conviction was reached. That was at 3:30 o'clock. On punishment, seven of the jurors favored the death penalty. This position was modified until it stood eleven to one for twenty-five years imprisonment. The lone holdout voted for fourteen years, the minimum.

Finally, after almost nine hours of deliberation, this juror consented to the majority sentiment and the verdict was read at 10:15 o'clock. A motion for a new trial was made and set for hearing on Feb. 5.

Confession Is Introduced.

Throughout the trial, which started last Monday, Royals denied the murder. The state succeeded in introducing a confession in which he admitted the crime. The prosecution also produced the revolver which, by corroborative evidence, they said, was the one used by Royals in slaying Mrs. Lavander. Boy friends of Royals testified he had boasted of the slaying and uncovered the gun.

Royals denied the confession, alleging it was beaten out of him by Irving Park police. On Royals' denials his attorney, W. W. O'Brien, pleaded with the jury yesterday for a verdict of "liberty or death."

Mrs. Lavander was shot near the Forest Glen station on the night of Feb. 18, 1930. Her killing was attributed to a moron. It was not solved until last Oct. 22, when Royals, seized for questioning concerning a rape in the same vicinity, confessed to Sergt. Thomas Harrison and Policemen John Cilke and Philip Doherty of the Irving Park station.

"Needed Some Money."

"I needed some money," he said at the time. "I stopped Mrs. Lavander. I ordered her to walk down the tracks, and she did for a short distance, but then started to run. I caught her, and was about to hit her on the head. She lifted her hand, and I put the gun to her head and fired. Then I took her purse."

Following the slaying, citizens of the Forest Glen district formed vigilante groups to patrol the streets and escort women and even men home. Last October a woman was raped near the place Mrs. Lavander was killed. Royals was nabbed near the scene, and identified. Questioned about the Lavander killing he confessed.

PROSECUTOR IS NAMED AS RUM GANG PLOTTER

Defendant Aids U. S. in Trial Surprise.

1—A former policeman tells federal court how he transported alcohol and how a state's attorney was concerned in rum traffic.

2—Chief of Crusaders presents figures to show that prohibition has cost the United States 10 billions.

3—Members of the W. C. T. U. hold their victory dinner in celebration of the success of prohibition.

Charges that a respected state's attorney was a prosecutor by day and booze conspirator by night were made yesterday before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley in the trial of the $12,000,000 middle west alcohol conspiracy case. The disclosure was a surprise move by Assistant United State's District Attorney Daniel Anderson, who placed one of the 49 defendants on the stand as a government witness.

DANIEL ANDERSON. [Mayo Photo.]

The witness was Clarence [Sonny] Ebsen, a former Elgin motorcycle policeman, who for three years was an alcohol runner for the syndicate. He named State's Attorney Vincent Bell of Whiteside county as a member of the liquor ring. Bell's name had not been mentioned previously in the trial, nor had it come out in the 18 months' investigation preceding the trial.

Accuses Prosecutor of Plot.

Ebsen testified that Bell plotted to put him in prison on a false murder charge because of his knowledge of the operations of the syndicate and its leaders. He told how Bell smuggled him from the Whiteside county jail when the government obtained a writ of habeas corpus for him as a witness in the investigation.

He also told how he was released from the jail a second time by Mike Blumberg, alleged head of the ring, known as the "Al Capone of Iowa." Blumberg himself went to the jail, turned the lock of Ebsen's cell with a key and told him to "beat it," the witness said.

Prosecutor Anderson said he expected to seek an indictment against Bell on charges of conspiracy.

Offers to Testify for U. S.

For three days Ebsen had been pointed out by various witnesses as the man who collected alcohol from various storage points of the alleged booze ring on farms in Illinois and Iowa. At an adjournment he sought the prosecutor and said, "I'm tired of taking the raps while the others sit back and laugh. I'll tell all I know."

Ebsen asked that the prosecutor recommend probation for him. He changed his plea from not guilty to guilty and took the stand at the resumption of the trial. There was a hurried conference of defendants and their attorneys when he was called.

Ebsen said he met Mike Blumberg in 1925 while he was still a member of the Elgin police force. He said he was lured by Blumberg's tale of big money to be earned in running alcohol.

Rum Traffic in 4 States.

At first, Ebsen said, he transported the alcohol in a car to cities in Illinois, Iowa, North Dakota, and Minnesota. Later, at the suggestion of Blumberg, he said he purchased a truck and continued to run alcohol in 1926, 1927, and 1928.

He said Blumberg usually gave him the money for the alcohol in an envelope. He turned the envelope over to men in charge of stills and took the liquor, generally in 900 gallon lots, to destined cities. Stills near Elgin, in Whiteside county, and near Aurora, supplied him with alcohol, he said.

In his testimony Ebsen named many of the defendants. At the head of the ring he placed Blumberg, Tony Cinquinna, a Capone henchman; Mike Meyers of Aurora, and Sam Dolff, George Stein, and Arthur Cooper. Ac-

FILES CHARGES TO HELP THIEF WITH CONSCIENCE

Robert Erickson, 22 years old, who used to live at the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 936 South Wabash avenue, walked into the Grand Crossing police station last night.

"Arrest me," he said. "I stole $24 last Monday and my conscience hurts. I want to pay the penalty."

The police called Wayne Rogers of the Hyde Park Manor hotel, 5510 Hyde Park boulevard, the victim, and asked him if he had lost any money on Monday.

"Yes," said Mr. Rogers, "I met a fellow named Erickson on New Year's eve. He was down on his luck, so I invited him to come and stay in my home and let him have carfare to go around looking for a job. On Monday morning when I got up Erickson was gone and so was my $24."

Mr. Rogers added that he hadn't bothered to make a complaint.

"We have Erickson here," said the desk sergeant. "He asks to have a complaint against him so he can pay his penalty."

"In that case," replied Mr. Rogers, "I'll have to accommodate him."

A few minutes later he signed a complaint against Erickson.

FORMER KAISER'S STRENGTH GONE; OLD AND FEEBLE

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany is broken physically and was under close medical observation before he contracted the chill which led to the attack of bronchitis from which he now is suffering, the London Daily Mail correspondent at Doorn, Holland, said today.

Whether the former emperor will recover, the correspondent added, will depend largely on the weather.

"He has changed beyond belief since he came to Holland 14 years ago," the Mail dispatch said. "Then he was strong and vigorous; now he is old and enfeebled. "Although he maintains a dignified bearing his face is heavily lined and his eyes are deep sunk over projecting cheekbones."

Horse Age Word Routs Finalists in Spelling Bee

Arkansas City, Kas., Jan. 15.—(AP)—A horse age word has broken up a motor age spelling bee. All three final contestants in a Rotary club spelling match took the count on "surcingle," two of them brazenly admitting they had never heard of the word.

To save looking it up—surcingle, according to the dictionary, is a "belt, band, or girth passed over a saddle or other load on a horse's back to bind it fast."

Los Angeles Sees Snow, 2 Inches of It

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Los Angeles woke up this morning to find its rose bushes, palm trees, outdoor patios, and movie location sites buried under a mantle of real standard, North Dakota blizzard variety of snow.

The oldest inhabitant failed to remember such a sight as two inches of snow on the city hall lawn, but there it was. Photographers took pictures of it, and sharps for the exact verities even measured the depth of the downy with foot rules.

Breaks Record of Years.

No snowstorm has ever been recorded as depositing even a perceptible snowfall in downtown, low lying Los Angeles. In fact, it was fifty-four years ago since real snow last fell in recordable quantity in the metropolitan area of the city, according to report from the flabbergasted weather bureau.

The snowfall was accompanied in some districts by sleet and hail and was preceded by high winds.

It is the second time within ten days that snow has fallen within Los Angeles city limits, but the first snowfall was brief and patchy and occurred only in some of the foothill and outlying areas of the 452 square mile city area. Today's snow, according to Federal Forecaster H. B. Hersey, was "just a good old fashioned winter snowfall."

Blames It on Movies.

One stanch supporter of the glorious climate refused to be shaken. She knew last summer's 45 days of 85 or above was due solely to unusual spots on the sun; the Christmas fortnight of cold, driving rain was manufactured somehow by San Francisco and this was some other miracle. She telephoned a Hollywood paper and asked what the movies were "doing now, putting a snow scene all over my front yard."

The melting flakes put the city on a skiddy surface of slush which within a few hours brought police reports of 100 automobile accidents.

The snow gods rode into the city on high winds which were accompanied by the lowest temperature in several winters, a minimum of 34 degrees at dawn.

Classes at Hollywood High school, Los Angeles High and other city schools were delayed or interrupted in the morning, while boys and girls by the hundred gathered on the school sidewalks and lawns and engaged in snowball fights and the universal practice of forcible face washing.

East Promised Cold.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The east's April weather in January is gradually coming to an end.

It will be but a memory and table talk over most of this section by tomorrow if cold winds sweep down from the north tonight as forecast by the weather bureau, bringing freezing weather as far east as Pittsburgh and Buffalo.

It was 78 in Washington at 2:15 p. m. today, an all time January high mark, and was the third successive day that the temperature has been 75 or above.

The weather bureau can't find anything like it in its books.

FRED IS KICKED IN THE FACE BY HIS OWN HOME BREW

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Fred Agglang of Kinistino, near here, was wont to boast of the excellence of his home brewed beer.

But he is not so loud in his praises today, following his experience of a few days ago when a concoction of his own making blew a metal cap down his throat as he was opening the bottle with his teeth.

He was brought to a hospital here and the cap removed. Now Aggland uses a bottle opener.

2,000,000 Pray at Shrine of Saint; Claim Many Miracles

GOA, Portuguese India, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The embalmed body of St. Francis Xavier was replaced in its silver sarcophagus today, after having been exposed for forty days, during which 2,000,000 pilgrims from all over the world filed past it and kissed the feet in the Church of Bom Jesus. Thousands of miracles were reported to have occurred during the forty days, and the church officials will publish a full list of them after verification.

cording to the prosecutor, members of the ring paid tribute to Capone to insure unmolested operation of their territory.

Prosecutor Anderson interrupted Ebsen in his testimony to ask, "Do you know Vincent Bell?"

Ebsen answered that he did, and added that he had delivered alcohol to the home of Bell, the Whiteside county prosecutor's home at Fulton. He said that the ring bought alcohol from Deputy Sheriff Jerry Kelly of Whiteside county.

"Were you ever arrested?" Prosecutor Anderson asked.

"Yes," Ebsen answered. "I was arrested in Fulton on a charge of murder and taken to the Whiteside county jail at Morrison on October, 1930. I was arrested in connection with the Carr murder case."

Ebsen said he was arrested on a false charge. He asserted that charge was brought against him by Blumberg and Bell because they feared he might turn over evidence concerning the ring to the government.

Taken from County Jail.

"On the fourth day in jail," Ebsen said, "State's Attorney Bell and Deputy Sheriff Kelly came to the jail and took me out. They put me in the bottom of Bell's car so I wouldn't be seen and drove me to the garage of Clarence Baker in Fulton.

"In the garage were Blumberg and three men. They said they wanted to get me out of the way as the district attorney's office in Chicago was looking for me. They fixed up some sort of bond and Blumberg told me to get over the river and stay out of sight.

"Bell said that if I ever opened my mouth he'd kill me. I went. Two days later Blumberg reached me in Clinton, Ia., and told me to come back to Morrison because they were having trouble about the bond. I returned and was held in jail two days.

"On the second day Blumberg came to my cell alone. He put a key in the lock and told me to come out. He said, 'Now get back over the river and stay there.' I went."

Sought for U. S. Quiz.

Prosecutor Anderson said that while Ebsen was in jail the first time he sent word to State's Attorney Bell to hold Ebsen until a writ of habeas corpus could be issued to bring Ebsen to Chicago for questioning. The Whiteside county prosecutor was notified Oct. 14, 1930, Anderson said. That night Ebsen was smuggled out of the jail to the garage, according to his testimony.

Anderson said when he obtained the writ he was told by Bell that there had been some mistake and the prisoner had been released on bond. The release was a move to defeat the investigation, Anderson charged.

The trial was adjourned until Monday before Ebsen completed his testimony. He will be recalled to the stand when the case is resumed.

Wife of Defendant Heard.

Mrs. Irene Kane of Sterling, wife of Henry Kane, one of the defendants, who obtained a severance and testified for the government, identified Paul Cinquinna, one of the principal defendants, earlier in the day. She said she had seen him and John Carsella at the large still in Whiteside county. The still was seized by agents several months ago.

She was asked to step from the witness chair to identify Cinquinna. She walked up to him and was about to put a hand on his shoulder when Cinquinna with a scowl pushed her aside.

"I want to call your honor's attention to the defendant's action," Prosecutor Anderson said. "I ask you to reprimand him."

"I may do more than that at the end of the trial," the judge said.

Mrs. Kane also told of seeing former State's Attorney Robert W. Besse of Whiteside county, also a defendant, at the same still several times. She told of a meeting between her husband and Arthur Cooper, another defendant, at which the latter told Kane to meet a truckload of alcohol.

Agents Tell of Raids.

Einer Anderson, a prohibition agent, testified to a raid on a recooking plant at 4712 Malden street. In connection with the seizure he mentioned William Schroeder and Irving Chapman, defendants, who were arrested.

Robert Richardson, a prohibiton agent, testified to a raid on a still at 4631 West Harrison street. Agents seized a 400 gallon still and 40,000 gallons of mash. Richardson identified Elmer Schroeder, Kenneth S. Clattenberg, and Tony Romano, defendants, as having been in the place at the time of the raid.

The still was on the second floor of a garage at that address owned by Thomas Harrigan, head of the Harrigan Motor Sales Corporation of Oak Park. Harrigan's attorney's said Harrigan had no knowledge of the still and that the space had been rented without his knowledge by Harrigan's secretary. Harrigan is a defendant.

Richardson described the buildings, saying that traces of the mash had dripped to the first floor and that parts of the still were found in the storeroom of the garage on the first floor.

KILLS HIMSELF AT HOME.

Walking out upon the rear porch of his home, John Micka, 49 years old, 2140 South Trumbull avenue avenue, shot himself in the head last night. He was dead when his wife, Kate, found him.

COST OF 12 YEAR DRY REGIME SET AT TEN BILLIONS

Col. Reeves Gives Some Birthday Figures.

Prohibition's 12th birthday today induced the preparation of some figures yesterday. Col. Ira L. Reeves, regional manager of both the Crusaders and the Association Opposed to Prohibition, figured that prohibition, born in Washington alongside the pork barrel and the rolling log, has cost the American taxpayers $10,000,000,000 to date.

Col. Reeves estimated that the average annual cost to the taxpayers of enforcing the Volstead law with shotguns and courts, together with the loss in revenue, is now approximately $950,000,000, which, he said, almost equals the total revenue received by the federal government from individual income taxes, which in 1929 were $1,095,541,172.

U. S. Would Be Richer.

"The government would be ten billion dollars richer today if prohibition had never been born," Col. Reeves said. "But it does give employment to nearly 3,000 prohibition agents, which is something in these days.

"Of course this country still spends about $3,000,000,000 a year to prove its right to be called the land of the free. The public spends those $3,000,000,000 a year for its liquor by giving it to bootleggers and such who in turn pay a billion and a half dollars a year to grafting officials.

"So, during the twelve years of this era we have spent, say $30,000,000,000, to be conservative, for our booze and we have contributed $15,000,000,000 toward corrupting our public servants, who furnish what they call protection.

Killings Set at 1,500.

"For the benefit of those who wish to dwell on the good accomplished by prohibition, let us set the figure of killings by agents and officers and of agents and officers at 1,500, one of which recently caused laughter and applause on the floors of congress when it was reported.

"This figure by no means takes into account the number of murders committed in the gang wars for booze and beer territories. In New York and Chicago they exceed in number the total deaths on the field of battle during the eight years of the American revolution. In other words, prohibition has already cost more lives in a futile attempt to enforce it than it cost to win our independence.

$5,000,000 a Year in Fines.

"Again, on the side of the benefits, the government takes in about $5,000,000 a year in fines from violators and the twelve year total is about $50,000,000. How many men and women went to jail for infractions of this law? Figures are not available, but today more than 1,000 persons a month are haled before federal courts for prohibition offenses, and no one knows how many go before other courts.

"Every state in the Union has increased its jail and penitentiary capacity and most of them are now crowded because of prohibition offenders. About 70 per cent of the people in jails and penitentiaries today are there because of violation of liquor laws.

"The capacity of the Keeley Institute at Dwight, Ill., has been increased several times and is now so full it has been found necessary to reject women patients. Many hospitals now have the facilities for taking care of inebriates.

"Cases of alcoholism have increased 317 per cent since 1920."

No Figures on Padlocks.

Col. Reeves hadn't time to get statistics on the number of places padlocked during the past twelve years, the value of the buildings and stores thus affected, the amount of property destroyed by raiders, the number of stills and breweries seized and confiscated, or the value of the equipment dismantled and junked.

He and several secretaries were busy for several days searching official records, getting information from New York and Washington. The files of the Crusaders and of the Association Opposed to Prohibition, which recently merged in Chicago, were at hand for him and his aides as they prepared to furnish financial headaches in celebration of prohibition's 12th birthday.

List U. S. Appropriations.

National appropriations for prohibition enforcement were listed as follows:

1920	$ 3,100,000
1921	7,100,000
1922	7,500,000
1923	9,250,000
1924	9,000,003
1925	11,341,770
1926	11,050,000
1927	13,272,445
1928	13,320,405
1929	13,752,060
1930	14,985,744
1931	15,000,000

Allowing a small portion of the appropriations for narcotic agents and unspent portions of the allotment, Col. Reeves used the figure of $125,000,000 as the approximate cost of the prohibition bureaus for twelve years.

In compiling the estimate of costs the fact that the coast guard is used in liquor law enforcement was taken into consideration, but Col. Reeves cited only the appropriations for this service since 1924, when the guards became rum chasers. The present annual appropriation is about $15,000,000 for this branch, his tables showed.

Adds to Yearly Cost.

Taking the annual cost of the customs service at $20,000,000 and assuming that one-fourth of this budget is chargeable to prohibition enforcement and prohibition snooping, Col. Reeves therefore added $5,000,000 yearly to the actual outlay for prohibition enforcement. Then, in consideration of the share of the work of the department justice made necessary by the Volstead law, he adds $13,000,000, which his documents show to be the increase in the appropriations for this department from 1919 to 1929.

The combined cost sheet then shows:

Average annual enforcement appropriation	$ 15,000,000
Coast guard service	15,000,000
Portion of customs service	5,000,000
Excess in department of justice	13,000,000
Less amount of fines	5,000,000
Yearly cost	$ 43,000,000

This yearly cost is then reduced in the calculations to $40,000,000 for conservatism. Added to that is the amount estimated as the government's loss in revenue, which he sets at $861,000,000 annually. Then the sum of $50,000,000 taken from cities, counties and states is added and the annual cost of prohibition is computed by Col. Reeves to be $951,000,000.

The figure of $861,000,000 is reached through a table prepared by the association from government documents based on the average per capita consumption of various kinds of liquor for the five year period from 1910 to 1914, and on the basis of the tax per gallon fixed in the 1918 federal revenue act. Taken from records previously printed, the table is as follows:

ESTIMATED FEDERAL REVENUE.

WINE.

22,884,000 gallons at 20c	$ 4,576,800
11,442,000 gallons at 50c	5,721,000
Total	$ 10,297,800

MALT LIQUORS.

28,368,221 barrels at $3.00	$ 84,624,663
9,402,740 barrels at $6.00	56,416,440
Total	$141,041,103

SPIRITS.

83,526,600 gallons at $8.50	$709,976,100
Grand total	$861,315,003

Concerning his figure that cities and counties are deprived of $50,000,000 revenue yearly, Col. Reeves said this is a small figure when it is remembered that Chicago's revenue from saloon licenses was $7,000,000 a year. In the estimate of the amount of liquor on which an internal revenue tax would be paid, Cal. Reeves explained that consideration was given to the fact that by 1920 thirty-three states had adopted state prohibition of varying degrees of severity. Therefore, he asserted, the per capita consumption was estimated on pre-prohibition records concerning only the fifteen states that would have remained wet had not the 18th amendment been added to the constitution.

W. C. T. U. Voices Victory and Fears After 12 Dry Years

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The victory luncheon given by the Cook County Woman's Christian Temperance union in the Morrison hotel yesterday was touched with a quality of mournfulness which all the cheers, songs, and waving of white ribbons did not entirely dispel.

To the uninitiated it was not made clear what victory the luncheon celebrated until the chairman, Mrs. R. H. Brucer, president of the Cook County W. C. T. U., said:

"Now I've got a surprise for you. Our Mrs. King has baked us a wonderful cake, which you see before you with 12 candles, because the 18th amendment is 12 years old. Mrs. King, come right on up here and cut this cake."

This was followed by little impromptu demonstrations. At one table the ladies arose and proposed a toast to the 18th amendment, "a toast in water." Shyly they clinked their glasses, but only a faint tinkle was heard in the room, and some of the members looked as if they didn't quite approve of any drinking toast, even water.

Another group of white ribboners then arose and, waving their ribbons on high, cried in high, timid voices: "What's the matter with King? She's all right!"

Other members failed to join in, however. The jollity lapsed.

Praises Women's Work.

The chairman then introduced Alonzo E. Wilson, secretary of the American Business Men's Prohibition foundation. She said she wished she could tell the ladies just what a wonderful bunch of men they were. Mr. Wilson arose.

"Madam Chairman, friends, and countrymen," he began, "we are under a debt of obligation to you women who have devoted not only your time and attention but your prayer to this cause. We know, ladies, that local prohibition did not solve the problem, nor county prohibition, nor state prohibition. None of them were effective. No, it had to be national."

"I myself haven't seen a drunken man for—well, for three months," he added. "I'll bet the whole crowd of us here—all you women—haven't seen more than a hundred drunken men in the last three months—maybe no more than 50—maybe not more than 25."

The chairman then called on Capt. John C. Wallace, a lawyer with the bureau of industrial alcohol and an adviser to E. C. Yellowley of the prohibition forces here.

When the Drys Slept.

"This is a family group," Wallace said, "and I can criticize a little. Of course it was a victory when the drys put over the 18th amendment. But as soon as it was passed the drys went to sleep. Immediately politicians had wet directors appointed in the prohibition department, and ex-saloonkeepers, bartenders and many with police records were made inspectors.

"Now, whose fault was it? The drys'. Wayne B. Wheeler was opposed to putting agents under civil service regulation. Well, thank God, they are now, and I want to say there are mighty few men left in the service today who are amenable to bribery or not in favor of the 18th amendment.

"The liquor traffic isn't dead yet—not by a long shot. There are 33 dry organizations and they have five or six paid workers in Washington, yet they let a few dentists get a regulation through recently to get six quarts of liquor a year. In a few weeks we had 4,000 applications."

Sings of Straying Sheep.

"Now we'll be favored by a solo by Mrs. James Wilmont," the chairman said with a bright smile. She sang of a sheep which had "wondered astray" and was left on the dreadful desert to die from thirst without "his shepherd's tender care." But even in the song the desert was robbed of its victim and the sheep was rescued.

"Now I want to see all the preachers who are here today. Stand up, all of you," the chairman said.

Six men stood up. The chairman said that was splendid, and the entire membership chanted:

White ribbon, white ribbon, white ribbon!
Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah!
Preachers, preachers, preachers!

A resolution was adopted asking congress to defeat any amendment providing for resubmission of the question.

Before going home the women, to the tune of "John Brown's Body," sang a song of their own; not a song of victory, however, but of battle. The first verse and the chorus follow:

Observance and enforcement—Prohibition—not repeal;
Send the slogan o'er the nation with Jehovah's righteous zeal.
Ring the challenge to the people, never more must manhood reel—
Observance and enforcement, not repeal.
On, ye drys, with inspiration!
On, ye drys, with information!
On, ye drys, with education!
Observance and enforcement, not repeal.

Soon the session ended.

Machado Frees Ex-Chicago Man from Cuban Prison

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Jan. 15.—George Reno, native of Chicago and for the last 16 years chief of the bureau of technical information in the department of agriculture, was released today after serving three months in prison. He was charged with demanding of the United States financial intervention and a congressional investigation of President Machado's political and economic policies in a letter to Senator James J. Davis. Reno is a former newspaper correspondent.

BANDITS SEIZE 2 AUTOS, KIDNAP THREE VICTIMS

O. K. Morgan, a radio salesman, was kidnaped last night by three robbers who found him sitting in his automobile in front of the Fairfax hotel at 1369 Hyde Park boulevard, where he lives.

For more than an hour the trio kept him a prisoner in the car while they drove through south side streets, discussing the possibilities of success in projected holdups. They looked over the Piccadilly theater, which has been held up several times, and decided that an attempt against it would be dangerous.

Finally the bandits forced the car of Jesse Geissman, 5542 Ingleside avenue, to a curb near 55th street and Cornell avenue. Compelling Geissman and his wife to accompany them, the robbers drove both cars into Jackson park. There the three victims were left with Morgan's car. Geissman's car was driven away after the radio salesman had been robbed of $55 and Geissman of $10.

British Police Are Kicked by Mob of Jobless Rioters

ROCHDALE, Lancashire, England, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Police were struck, kicked, and otherwise injured during disturbances tonight by unemployed demonstrators. The trouble started when the police arrested a man who was addressing the jobless from the steps of the town hall.

ROME, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Italy's unemployed totaled 982,000 at the end of 1931. December brought an increase of 104,000.

SEIZE ARKANSAS STILL ON HALF ACRE PLATFORM

Marked Tree, Ark., Jan. 15.—(AP)—A huge liquor still, erected 25 feet above the St. Francis river flood waters on a giant platform, has been seized by prohibition officers.

The platform, with an area of half an acre, was constructed on pilings in the river bottoms ten miles northeast of here.

A thousand gallon copper still, containers for thousands of gallons of mash, and complete living quarters and a commissary for employés, were built on the scaffold.

The moonshiners escaped in a boat.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—A proposal to dress the British soldier in plus four golfing knickers and open necked tunics was advanced by Lieut. Gen. Sir Harold Fawcus, director general of the Royal Army Medical service. Knickers, Lieut. Gen. Fawcus says, are more hygienic, while the existing tight-fitting collar predisposes boils. The proposal rather suggests the baggy uniform of the French Moroccan troops.

RADIO MEDICAL ADVICE FOR MAN HURT IN ARCTIC

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Medical advice was requested and furnished today over more than 3,000 miles of arctic land and sea.

The master of the trawler St. Keverne, operating in Davis strait, between Greenland and Baffin island, flashed a wireless message to the operator of the department of marine station at Resolution, asking for instructions in treating a man "with half his scalp torn off and a fractured jaw, having been washed through scupper door."

The message was relayed to the office of Commander C. P. Edwards, director of the radio branch, who got in touch with a physician. Within an hour the answer had been transmitted, referring the master of the trawler to the chapter and page in the medical manual carried by all sea captains.

A later message from the trawler said it was heading for Reykjavik, Iceland, to land the injured man. His name was not given.

HUNT MILWAUKEE WAR VET.

Chicago police were asked yesterday to search for Thomas B. Foley, 812 North 12th street, Milwaukee, a disabled war veteran, who wandered away from the Waukesha hospital on Jan. 3.

SEIZE MANGANO AND CLEMENTI IN DYE MURDER

Suspects Offer Alibis in Rosenberg Death.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Malchester Reeves and Henry Hines, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Robert Amicello, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Russell Wilson, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush.

Philip (Flukey) Mangano and Louis (The Louse) Clementi, west side hoodlums who have recently been active with acid bombs and blackjacks to establish supremacy for the Capone crime syndicate in the cleaning and dyeing industry, were arrested yesterday as the principal suspects in the murder of Benjamin Rosenberg, independent cleaner.

They were arrested about 2:30 p. m. by Sergts. Daniel Healy and John Peyton at Washington boulevard and Leavitt street. Two blond girls, believed to have been with the hoodlums, walked away as the detectives leaped from their car. Healy and Peyton had been watching the neighborhood for several hours before Mangano and Clementi appeared. Both men were searched for weapons, but were unarmed.

Hurried to the detective bureau, they were subjected to questioning by Assistant State's Attorney Edwin C. Dufficy of the racket bureau and Lieut. Frank Johnson, in charge of the police investigation of the Rosenberg killing. Both offered glib alibis.

Mangano gave his age as 28 years, his address as 1516 Taylor street, and his occupation as a "butcher." Clementi said he was 28 years old, resided with his parents at 909 Sholto street, and was in the grocery business with his father.

Clementi at the Movies.

"Where were you, Clementi, last Monday night between 7 and 9:30 p. m.," Prosecutor Dufficy demanded, referring to the approximate time of Rosenberg's death.

"In McVicker's theater with a girl," said Clementi.

Q.—What's the girl's name? A.—I don't know. She was just a pickup.

Q.—Where were you between the same hours the night before? A.—At a movie in the Roosevelt theater.

Q.—With the same girl? A.—Same girl.

Mangano Offers Alibi.

Mangano declared that at the hour of Rosenberg's death he was in a restaurant at 1525 Adams street and suggested that if his word was doubted the police could ask the proprietor, whose name, he said, was "Bunk."

"Yes, Bunk," Prosecutor Dufficy commented bitterly.

"Take it or leave it," Mangano shrugged. "I'm through talking. If you want any more answers, see my lawyer, Roland Libonati."

Both men were asked whether they knew Rosenberg. Both swore they had never seen him, this despite the fact that Rosenberg had appeared against them in court and was to be the complaining witness at their trial, Jan. 29, on a charge of sabotaging trucks of the International Cleaners and Dyers company of which Rosenberg was manager.

Lawyer Already in Court.

Despite his demand for legal advice, Mangano was locked up for the night in a cell apart from Clementi's. His lawyer, Libonati, meanwhile, was engaged before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher in the Criminal court, asking a writ of habeas corpus for Clementi's younger brother, Patsy, and for Joseph Price, previously arrested in the Rosenberg case. The writ was made returnable at 10 o'clock this morning.

Another outstanding development in the campaign to purge the dyeing industry from racketeering was the announcement from Morris L. Kaplan, attorney for the Cleaners and Dyers Institute, that the New Drexel Cleaners and Dyers, 4722 Cottage Grove avenue, would be expelled from membership.

The New Drexel concern, in which Murray Humphreys, Capone lieutenant, holds a partnership, was engaged in a private trade war a few months back with the International concern, as a result of which, police said, Rosenberg was intimidated and his plant drenched with acid. Humphreys is being sought.

Robins Gives Self Up.

Al Robins, former driver in both the International and New Drexel concerns and sought for questioning after the license number of his nephew's car had been found in the dead Rosenberg's pocket, walked into the detective bureau last night. He had read of the search for him, Robins said, and wanted to spare the police trouble.

Questioned by Prosecutor Dufficy, he said he knew Rosenberg well and had always been on friendly terms with him. He formerly owned his own cleaning shop in Evanston, he added, but labor trouble and the depression forced him to the wall, whereupon he went to work for Rosenberg and later for the New Drexel concern. Dufficy turned him over to police of Maywood, where Rosenberg was slain.

BANK WATCHMAN AND COMPANION HELD AS ROBBERS

Raymond E. Reich, 27 years old, of 3079 Elbridge avenue, a private watchman for a bank, and Nelson Thornbley, 44, of 119 West Erie street were arrested early this morning as alleged bandits 15 minutes after William Rindquist, 506 South Clark street, reported he had been robbed of $5 at Division and Wells street. Both men were found near that intersection.

Rindquist identified both and pointed out Reich as the man who held the revolver. Reich was armed when arrested. He also carried a membership card in the Illinois Police association. Chicago avenue police said Reich and Thornbley had been drinking.

LOS ANGELES TAKES ITS SNOWSTORM WITH A WINTRY SMILE

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The Los Angeles Times for tomorrow morning will print the following editorial:

"IT SNOWED; WE ADMIT IT."

"It is now evident the celebration of the British surrender at Yorktown should have been deferred, at least the incidental music. When the British troops marched out of the trenches before Christmas a hundred and fifty years and some weeks ago, they played 'The World Turned Upside Down.' The tune would have been still more appropriate for this week, which has seen a temperature of 95 recorded in Ohio and real, genuine honest-to-goodness snow all over Los Angeles—more than an inch of it. The oldest subscriber to the Times says he doesn't remember a similar occurrence.

"It is not uncommon to have snow within the city limits of Los Angeles, the boundaries of which include mountains which would be called high back east, and there have been flurries downtown—a few flakes which melted as they fell. But yesterday morning's snowfall was a real one, which persisted well into the day. The weather man was all apologies, but there was no escaping the fact.

"Los Angeles can take the inevitable joshing in good part, confident of being able to return the compliment ten for one. The city should be especially pleased at the opportunity to give Chicago a hearty laugh. The lake front metropolis, which was barely able to give its school teachers two weeks' back pay for Christmas and hadn't paid them before since last May, has not been very cheerful this winter."

How Miami Gloats.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Miami Herald makes following editorial comment on Los Angeles snowstorm:

"What, more snow? Yes, sir, it snowed again in California yesterday. In Los Angeles and Hollywood hills. Snow on the palm trees and on the orange groves. Beautiful snow. Horrid snow. All nasty and wet snow."

HEAVY RAINFALL FLOODS STREETS IN NORWOOD PARK

Heavy rains in the early morning hours yesterday flooded some of the streets in Norwood Park when an old tile drain system failed to work. Overhill and Summerdale avenues were under 4 feet of water and a house at 7520 Foster avenue was isolated by the flood.

Today, according to the forecast, will be cloudy or partly cloudy. The temperature, it is expected, will be a little lower than it was yesterday, when the average was 34 degrees. Last night the murcury fell below freezing.

Police Start Second Hunt for Suspect They Set Free

The Chicago police started again last night on a search for John Lawrence, 34 years old, whom they released a week ago after seizing him in his apartment at 4715 Sheridan road on suspicion. When arrested he explained that the pistol in his suitcase was one he had in the army. Robbery victims failed to identify him and he was released, but now police have received information that Lawrence is wanted in Chester, Pa., for the murder of a policeman, and also for wounding a policeman in New York City.

COLLAPSE OF LEVEE PERILS MANY LIVES; OTHERS WEAKENING

Swan Lake, Miss., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Grassy lake levee, five miles north of here, collapsed late today. Fear was expressed that many lives would be lost.

The particular danger from the three major breaks is due to the rapid rise of water. Many of the Tippo basin residents have not been informed of the danger.

Other Levees Failing.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The town of Glendora, Miss. and all of Tallahatchie county tonight faces the greatest peril since it became menaced by flood. In the town proper, levees are rocking and water is spouting through cracks. Even the higher residential section is surrounded with water. Stores in the business section are flooded.

Citizens, convicts and refugees are fighting to save the levees east and west of the Tallahatchie river. Four miles from Sharkey the big crevasse at Seawright on the east bank of the Tallahatchie is widening and the Tippo basin is being reflooded.

CHARGE WOMAN MANAGER STOLE $75,000 IN 5 YRS.

New York, Jan. 15. — [Special.] — Mrs. Loretta Kelly, who in the five years as manager of the adjustment department at Russek's made herself one of the most trusted and popular employés of that store, was today accused of stealing between $75,000 and $100,000 from her employers. Magistrate Michael A. Ford held her in $5,000 bail for the grand jury on a charge of forgery.

According to officials of the store, Mrs. Kelly is married and lives with her husband, Robert; a married daughter and a son-in-law in Yonkers.

They said she had made a confession admitting thefts of $7,000, and asserting in explanation that her husband and son-in-law were out of work and she had to support the whole family.

FUNERAL UNION WILL LET OWNERS DRIVE OWN AUTOS

Promise State's Attorney to Obey Injunction.

Officials of the funeral car chauffeurs' union agreed yesterday to stop their efforts to keep private automobiles out of funeral processions. They made the agreement at a conference called by State's Attorney Swanson, who was himself one of those barred from the cortege at the funeral Wednesday of James J. McComb, veteran Republican leader.

The union officials attending the conference were Edward "Gold Tooth" Reilly, president, and W. J. Kerrigan, secretary-treasurer, of the auto livery chauffeurs' union, and L. G. Goudie, president of the joint council of the teamsters', chauffeurs', stablemen's and helpers' union. Assistant State's Attorney Edward Markham was also present.

Ordered to Obey Injunction.

The union heads told the state's attorney that their members had been instructed to obey the injunction issued by Judge Robert E. Gentzel in the Superior court. The injunction restrains the union officials and members from "directly or indirectly molesting or in any wise interfering with any one in a funeral procession, or in charge thereof."

"The undertaker in charge of a funeral will act as an arbiter," Reilly said, "and our drivers have been instructed to abide by his decisions."

"You must be extremely careful in your attitude," Mr. Swanson warned him. "Decisions in this matter touch the strings of human emotions."

Court May Take Action.

At the McComb funeral, the union drivers had announced that they would refuse to proceed if any private cars joined the procession. The mourners were requested by the clergyman in charge to avoid a scene by going to the cemetery by some other route. Whether such suggestions to the clergyman or undertaker at a funeral come under the ban set by Judge Gentzel on "indirect interference" is a matter to be presented to the judge for interpretation.

Police Commissioner Allman, who also attended the McComb funeral, promised coöperation in the fight against the union edict. It was suggested that police arrest union drivers who refuse to proceed at a funeral because private cars are following them on charges of blocking traffic.

WEALTHY WIDOW FOILS ROBBER AS CAR IS HELD UP

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anna May Earle, wealthy Detroit widow, outwitted two robbers who held up her and her escort, T. W. Klett, as she was driving home after midnight. Klett was ordered from the car, while one robber with a gun on Mrs. Earle, started to get in, ordering her to give him her rings. Mrs. Earle, who had her car in gear, suddenly pressed her foot on the accelerator, and the robber was flung off balance and slipped from the running board. The bandits jumped in another automobile and chased Mrs. Earle, who headed for a police station. They followed her to the lights of the station. Klett was untouched.

Mrs. Earle was wearing $12,000 in gems.

RAIL CHIEFS GET LABOR DEMANDS AT WAGE PARLEY

Historic Session Opens After 3 Delays.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Railway labor's plea for better working conditions and for relief of unemployment was fully outlined yesterday before the joint conference of rail union leaders and a committee of railroad presidents.

The presidents on their part presented a formal request for the employés to accept voluntarily a 10 per cent wage cut for one year, but this subject was barely mentioned in the proceedings.

Unions Present Program.

The conference got under way at 2 o'clock in the ballroom of the Palmer house and practically the entire session was devoted by the conferees to listening to an espousal of the unions' program, advanced by David B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association.

The scene of the conference, which is held to be of great significance in the relations of capital and labor, and for that matter in the economic structure of the nation generally, was deemed worthy of its historical importance.

A long wide table, covered with linen and placed in the center of the spacious ballroom, beneath glittering crystal chandeliers, separated the representatives of capital and labor.

Nine Rail Heads Present.

On one side sat the nine railroad presidents authorized by all the other principal railroads in the country to negotiate the issues with the labor leaders. In the center of the line of presidents sat their chairman, the white haired Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

On the other side of the table sat the 21 presidents of the railway union brotherhoods, and in the center of this line, facing Mr. Willard directly, was Chairman Robertson.

In a circle around those seated at the table was gathered a group of about 170 union representatives, who had been selected by the various brotherhoods to sit in on the conference as observers.

Public Barred at Meeting.

The cameras of news photographers recorded pictures of the event, and then all outsiders were invited to leave the room and the negotiations began. Until 5:30 o'clock the doors were barred, but a résumé of what had transpired was given to the newspaper men by Mr. Robertson and Mr. Willard.

At the outset the two chairmen presented a statement of the extent of the authority they held to negotiate, on behalf of what roads and what organizations.

Then President Willard submitted the request of the railroads, a typewritten statement so cryptic as to read like a railway telegram. It was headed: "Proposition Submitted on Behalf of the Railroads by the Committee of Nine Presidents," and the text of the statement followed:

"Ten per cent to be deducted from each pay check for a period of one year. Basic rates to remain as at present. This arrangement to terminate automatically twelve months after the plan becomes effective unless extended by mutual agreement."

Argues Point by Point.

Mr. Robertson then took up the discussion of the plan advanced by the unions and, point by point, he argued each phase of the program. Railway labor asks the railroads, Mr. Robertson said—as he repeated it after the meeting—to stabilize employment, insuring steady work to a definite number of employés and a minimum of work to another group of workers.

"We also asked the president's committee," explained Mr. Robertson, "to join with us in perfecting plans to take care of diminishing employment. The committee was told, as of course they know without being told, that due to the invention and use of machines and improved methods, a third less employés are handling the same volume of traffic today as was the case 20 years ago.

"We believe that since the individual value of each worker has so increased, the working day of railway labor should be changed from 8 to 6 hours, so that men thrown out of employment with the advent of machines may be reëmployed.

Want a Living Wage.

"The railroad presidents were asked to cooperate with us also in seeking to establish a wage scale which will provide a reasonable living for the workers, and also to adopt other methods to relieve unemployment."

Mr. Robertson added, in response to a question, that he had told the presidents' committee that it would be well, if the railroads' request for a 10 per cent wage cut was to be seriously considered, for the roads to meet the union men half way in their reasonable requests.

The plea of Mr. Robertson, an intelligent leader and a talented orator, inspired President Willard to comment later to the effect that labor's cause had been presented "with the finest statesmanship." Both sides displayed an air of jollity as they left the conference.

Today Mr. Willard will deliver a speech in which the arguments in support of the proposed 10 per cent wage cut will be presented. Afterwards the negotiators will get down to cases, debating back and forth on each separate issue.

Difficulty Laid Aside.

Although no public announcement was made explaining the situation which had caused three postponements of the conference, two on Thursday and one yesterday morning, it was learned that the difficulty encountered had not been settled, but had been laid aside for the present.

The railroad presidents sought an agreement with the union forces that in the event of a failure in the negotiations over the wage cut the present conference would not be considered as a proceeding carried out under the United States railway labor act.

Under that act, when a change in the prevailing wage scale is sought, certain steps are prescribed, the first of which is a notice of the proposed cut, to be followed by negotiations between the roads and the unions. If the negotiations fail, mediation may be tried. And if this does not succeed, then the parties may agree to arbitrate. If either side refuses to arbitrate, and the railroads then seek to enforce a wage cut, the President is empowered to intervene and to appoint a commission to study the controversy while a status quo is preserved.

15 Per Cent Cut Sought.

The railroads have served notice on the unions calling for a 15 per cent cut, which they intend to press if the present conference fails, but they did not want to consider the conference as part of the procedure under the railway labor act. They preferred, it was learned, to treat the conference as a separate proceeding, and if it fails they wanted to commence individual negotiations, each railroad with its own union employés. The union leaders refused to agree to this, insisting that they wanted the conference to come under the act, and that, if it fails, the railroads must then go to mediation immediately, passing the opportunity to negotiate individually with the employés. In this course the unions seek to maintain their united front, considering that they could wield greater strength thereby.

When the railroad presidents were unable to bend the unions to their view of the conference they waived the question for the time being, and it will be dealt with as a legal question if necessity arises.

MELLON, BY COUNSEL AND PAPER, ANSWERS IMPEACHMENT THREAT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—A statement dictated by Secretary Mellon in which he denied the allegations of Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], who is seeking to impeach the secretary because of his ownership of stocks in various corporations, was read before the house judiciary committee today by A. W. Gregg, counsel for Mr. Mellon.

The treasury department head said that he met President Olaya of Colombia at one of the usual social functions in Washington, but he denied that he had in the course of the conversation suggested that President Olaya interest himself in the so-called Barco oil concessions which were later granted to the Colombian Petroleum company, a subsidiary of the American Gulf Oil interests.

Mr. Gregg, former counsel for the internal revenue bureau, made a broad denial of all the Patman charges in his appearance before the committee.

Fire Causes $10,000 Loss in West Side Dress Shop

The entire stock of dresses and coats in Leibow's Dress shop at 3252 West Roosevelt road was destroyed by fire late last night. The loss was estimated at $10,000. Hundreds of patrons leaving nearby theaters watched the blaze. Neither Chief Thomas Maher of the 28th battalion nor H. Leibow, 3235 Potomac avenue, owner of the store, knew how the fire started.

Russia Asks Non-Aggression Pact.

MOSCOW, Jan. 16 [Saturday].—(AP)—Alexandre Troianovski, soviet ambassador to Japan, asked the Japanese premier about the possibility of complating a Russo-Japanese nonaggression pact when he conferred with the premier on Jan. 12, the Tass News agency announced today.

Maxim Litvinoff, soviet commissar for foreign affairs, according to the authorized Tass statement, in the proposal dwelt on the enormous importance of concluding such an agreement at a moment when "certain adventurous circles abroad" are speculating on the possibility of the interruption of friendly relations between the U. S. S. R. and Japan.

The foreign commissar directed Yoshizawa's attention to nonaggression negotiations by the soviet government and its western neighbors and remarked that Japan was the only neighbor country not included in the program.

SHOOT BURGLAR, SEIZE HIS 2 BOY PUPILS IN STORE

An adult burglar was shot in the head early this morning and his two boy pupils were captured when they were routed out of an Atlantic & Pacific Tea company store at 1453 West Chicago avenue. In the trio's attempted escape, a detective was knocked down and kicked.

The man shot, believed by police to have been the tutor, was taken to the Bridewell hospital where it was said he might die. He gave his name as William Myers, 43 years old, of 5823 N. Clark street. The boys seized are Joseph Kanzulak, 15 years old, of 1221 Fry street, and Henry Kalzmuck, 14, of 541 North Ashland avenue.

Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, North Racine avenue police received a report burglars were in the tea company store. Two squads were sent to the scene. Detective Einer Erickson concealed himself in the rear and Patrolman Crabtree stood farther back. Police ordered the burglars to surrender. There was a sudden dash from the rear basement of the store and three figures emerged on the run. Two bowled over Erickson. The other kept on running but was dropped by a bullet from Crabtree's revolver. Erickson and other policemen held on to the other two.

EDUCATOR WINS APPEAL AGAINST HERESY CHARGE

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Prof. Duplessis of the Steelenbosch Theological college of the Dutch Reformed church today won an appeal from a conviction of heresy, ending a trial which had stirred religious feelings in South Africa for many months.

He was charged with heresy on the ground that he taught that the Bible is inspired in its main purpose, but not in its details.

ACCUSED KILLERS WAIVE HEARING IN HAWAII COURT

Grand Jury Will Act on Massie Case Next Week

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

HONOLULU, Jan. 15.—The preliminary hearing in the case of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two naval enlisted men charged with killing Joseph Kahahawia last Friday, which had been set for tomorrow in District court, is likely to be abandoned. Montgomery Winn, defense counsel, said today he was prepared to waive this formality.

J. F. Gilliland, city attorney, said he would not be ready for a hearing tomorrow and planned to ask another continuance.

Mr. Winn's announcement means the defendants probably will not appear in court until they are arraigned on indictments by the Honolulu county grand jury, which was organized and charged today by Judge Charles S. Davis.

Judge Cautions Jurors.

Judge Davis urged the jurors to "refrain from heeding well minded individuals who at times attempt to influence the action of the grand jury and the administration of justice."

The jury considered only routine criminal cases today and probably will take up the Kahahawai case next Thursday.

Details of the police reform bills to go before the special session of the Hawaiian legislature next Monday, made public today, reveal that the measure would create a new machine for the enforcement of law and order in Honolulu and on the island of Oahu. Swift passage of the bills is assured, their sponsors said, and will become law within a week after they are offered for first reading.

To Create Police Board.

A decision has been reached to create a police commission of five members, the original appointments to be made by the governor for terms of one, two, three, four and five years, and succeeding appointments will be made by the Honolulu mayor for terms of five years each. No member of the commission may be a salaried officer of the territory or its divisions. The vote of three commissioners will be necessary for the appointment or removal of the chief of police.

All powers which the sheriff now holds in connection with the administration of the police department will be transferred to the chief of police.

Will Quiz Cabinet Members.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—A special report on conditions in the Hawaiian islands, written by Gov. Lawrence M. Judd and cabled to Secretary of Interior Wilbur, will be read tomorrow by the secretary before the senate committee on territories and insular affairs. The report is expected to be a defense of the federal administration.

Five witnesses, Secretary Wilbur, Secretary of Navy Adams, Secretary of War Hurley, Attorney General Mitchell, and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, have been summoned by Chairman Hiram Bingam [Rep., Conn.], to give the committee information regarding crime conditions in Honolulu.

Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson expects to leave for the west coast tomorrow on his way to Hawaii, where he will conduct a first-hand investigation of law enforcement conditions.

Reveals How Gov. Judd Tried to Smash Crime in Honolulu

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—Gov. Lawrence M. Judd of Hawaii has emerged as one of the storm centers in the investigation into Honolulu's crime situation, which was climaxed by the raping of a naval officer's wife and the subsequent abduction and killing of one of the accused attackers.

LAWRENCE M. JUDD. [Harris & Ewing.]

Gov. Judd was appointed to his post by President Hoover in April, 1929. The appointment was confirmed by the senate in May and he took office on July 5 of the same year.

The territorial governor was born in 1887, the seventh son of the former chief justice of the kingdom of Hawaii. As such, he has been described as a member of one of the three or four first families of the islands. One brother is now one of Honolulu's leading lawyers, another is a surgeon, another is chief forester, and still another is a clergyman.

Following his graduation from the University of Pennsylvania, Judd returned to Honolulu and there engaged in business, becoming general manager of one of the largest trading and mercantile houses. He also entered politics, ran for the territorial senate, was elected, and served two terms. He was chosen president of the senate in his last term.

Following his appointment to the governorship, and because of a growth of crime in the poorer quarters of Honolulu, Gov. Judd appointed a commission of inquiry. The commission recommended a thorough reorganization of the police system. This Gov. Judd in turn recomended to the legislature. The legislature, however, refused to adopt the recommendation.

Gov. Judd's appointment by President Hoover had the support of Senator Hiram Bingham, [Rep. Conn.] himself born in Hawaii and a life long friend; James P. Winnie, Republican national committeeman from Hawaii, and Victor S. K. Houston, delegate from Hawaii in the house of representatives.

"Gov. Judd is one of the finest men I know," Senator Bingham commented tonight. "I am glad that I recommended his appointment. Had the legislature concurred with his recommendation for a reorganization of the police, these recent troubles might have been averted.

"I am informed that the leaders in both houses of the legislature have given Gov. Judd their assurance that at the coming session they will do what should have been done before. That may be remedy enough, or it may be necessary to make some amendments in the islands' basic law."

CHECKER CAB DRIVERS FORM UNION GROUP

Battle lines were drawn in the taxicab strike yesterday by the 1,700 striking Checker drivers when they completed the formation of the Chicago Taxi Drivers' Protective association. This morning the application for a charter will be forwarded to Springfield by Attorney Emmanuel Eller.

Indication that the drivers expect a long fight was seen in the formation of a relief committee and creation of a program to care for the families of destitute drivers. About $30 was given to drivers yesterday by the relief committee, using funds collected from the entire body of drivers.

The following officers were elected by the drivers: Victor Hirsch, president; Abe Golden, vice president; Edward Goepner, secretary and Harry Hoffman, treasurer.

The company closed all offices and stands as an economy measure and indicated they would wait out the drivers.

SOVIET THEATER CHIEF FIRED AFTER DANCER GIVES HIM A BEATING

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Artistic temperament flourishes even under the five year plan and the story is just getting around about how the director of Moscow's most prominent theater lost his job in a row with his premiere danseuse.

B. S. Arkanov, the director; Victorina Krieger, 40 year old ballerina, who holds the coveted rank of "people's artist," and other officials of the Balshoi theater, were talking over the company's affairs.

The dancer took exception to what she regarded as aspersions cast on her dancing by Arkanov. She seized an inkstand full of red ink and brought it down on Arkanov's head. The local union of theatrical artists expelled her, but so numerous were the protests that she was restored. While Arkanov was still in the hospital he learned that he had been fired.

BEN FRANKLINS TO GIVE ANNUAL LUNCHEON TODAY

The Benjamin Franklins, Chicago club of men whose given names are those of the early American statesman, philosopher and inventor, will give their annual luncheon today in the Chicago club. Tomorrow will be the 226th anniversary of the birth of Franklin.

Prof. Benjamin Franklin Bailey of the engineering school of the University of Michigan will be the principal speaker at the luncheon. His subject will be "The Services of Franklin as an Inventor and Scientist." Following the luncheon the members will go to Lincoln park and place a wreath on the Franklin statue there.

The Benjamin Franklins was organized to encourage discussion of the great contribution Franklin made to his generation and to posterity. Benjamin Franklin Affleck, president of the Universal Atlas Cement company, was organizer of the club.

STATE RESTS IN MITCHELL GEM ROBBERY TRIAL

Society Folk and Servants Identify Four.

Prosecutors of the four youthful gangsters brought to trial at Waukegan for the robbery last Nov. 21 of the William H. Mitchell home at Lake Forest, rested their case at 8:30 o'clock last night following a night session in the courtroom of Judge Ralph J. Dady. The defense will begin presentation of its evidence this morning.

W. MATHESON.

Frank McDonnell, chief defense attorney and his associates, Sidney Block and Former Judge Claire C. Edwards, have indicated that they will base their hopes of an acquittal on alibis.

Late yesterday, after identification of all four defendants by the Mitchells, their guests of that evening, their servants and members of the police department, the defense approached State's Attorney A. V. Smith concerning concessions for pleas of guilty.

State Rejects Proposal.

During the recess a law clerk from the defense side suggested to Prosecutor Smith that pleas of guilty might be entered in consideration of a sentence of from one to ten years. Conviction in the trial carries a penalty of from one year to life. Col Smith refused to discuss the proposal.

Three more witnesses at the evening session pointed out one or the other of the defendants as having participated in the robbery, making a total of sixteen identifications of from one to all four of the youthful gangsters alleged to be members of the notorious "42" gang.

Betty McKillipp, a maid, Margaret Stangard, the cook, and Fred Kazer, Chicago salesman, who was visiting the Mitchell butler, were on the stand. The women identified Paul Ross and Kazer was equally sure of Nick Maentanis.

By agreement with the defense, the state this morning will be permitted to put on the stand Lieut. Willard Malone, Chicago policeman who captured Frank Tufano, the five foot alleged leader of the gang, in a gun battle in Chicago.

Testimony of Mrs. Mitchell.

Testimony of Mrs. Mitchell, whose experiences in the holdup were particularly harrowing, and of her chauffeur, William Matheson, who risked his life to telephone the police, featured the sessions yesterday. The trial attracted such a throng that not only was every available seat in the court room occupied throughout the day, but the standing room gave out and the aisles were thronged with interested spectators.

Despite this demonstration of interest in the socially prominent victims and in the four prisoners, admonitions from the bench kept this audience well in hand. There were a few giggles at some of the sallies by attorneys, but for the most part the crowd was closely attentive and well behaved as the testimony moved rapidly along.

Only once did the self-possessed prisoners lose universal bravado of manner. Joseph Perello, identified by Mrs. De Koven Phelps as the man who held a gun on her and took her pearl necklace, crimsoned to the ears as he was asked to stand and face his accuser.

Identifications Are Repeated.

One after another the members of the Mitchell party, guests at the home of the investment banker, and the servants took the stand and gave the details of that evening of terror when five men invaded the house, each with a gun in his hand and a handkerchief to his face, threatened their lives, and departed after firing shots that by the merest luck failed to find a human mark. Identifications of the members of the gang were positive.

Concisely and emphatically, Mrs. Mitchell sketched the events of the robbery, her story being told at somewhat greater length than the others and corroborated in various details by the other witnesses, separately.

Describes Bandit's Pistol.

Outwardly quite calm, she betrayed the extent of her emotion on the witness stand when she attempted to demonstrate the length of the pistol turned on her by one man while two others, with guns at her back, followed her upstairs and forced her to hand over all her jewelry.

"It was about that long," she informed the court, measuring with her hands, and then apologized, "I'm sorry—my hands are shaking so."

Matheson, one of the first witnesses, was responsible for the arrival of the police at the home and the rout of the bandits, who in their flight left their loot in the pocket of an overcoat which caught on a fence as they fled. It is estimated to have amounted to approximately $150,000, of which all but $250 in cash was recovered.

Matheson's daring in darting upstairs when the servants were being herded into the living room to join the guests, and phoning police headquarters, probably would have cost his life but for the fact that he dropped under a bed just as the robber who raced after him smashed in the door and tore out the telephone, his testimony revealed.

It was related how Mrs. Mitchell was then marched upstairs by three of the gang, and into the same room, but the search for Matheson was unsuccessful.

William McCormick Blair, who, with Mrs. Blair, was among the guests of the Mitchells, was questioned sharply by Attorney McDonnell when he first identified Perello as the first bandit to enter and Tufano as the second, and later asked permission to reverse that order on a closer inspection of the two.

These two, Tufano and Perello, were picked out by the Blairs, Mrs. E. A. Cudahy Jr., Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, and Mrs. Mitchell. Leslie Wheeler was certain about Ross only, and Mrs. De Koven Phelps about Perello. Maentanis was named by Mr. Mitchell. Arthur Metzger, night watchman, and Matheson.

Kin of Ex-Sheriff, Broke, Defeats Creditors in Court

John D. Erickson, 45 years old, who resides in a 20 room home at 93 Crescent road, Glencoe, and is the beneficiary of a $200,000 trust fund left him by his late father, John T. Erickson, a wealthy merchant, yesterday appeared in the county court of Judge Charles T. Allen as an insolvent debtor.

Erickson, the son-in-law of Chief Deputy Charles W. Peters in the sheriff's office, sought to escape jail and payment of a $6003 judgment which had been granted last October by Superior Judge Charles Bristow in a suit brought by Theodore J. Kiggins, an attorney who represented 34 heirs of a small estate. Erickson was recently seized on a capias which was issued with the judgment and placed under a $12,000 bond.

Lists Property at $75.

In his petition yesterday, Erickson avowed that his property, aside from quarterly payments under the trust, amounted to $75. He listed it as 4 suits, 1 topcoat, 1 overcoat, and a quantity of shoes and linen. The $25,000 worth of furniture in his home, the house itself, and the real estate, he asserted, belonged to his wife, Hazel. They were gifts to her by her father, Deputy Peters, who himself twice held the office of sheriff, and by his own father before his death.

The nature of the trust fund, he said, made it impossible that any of his creditors could ever obtain any of the money. He listed 74 creditors, literally including "the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker," to whom he owed an aggregate of more than $10,000.

"This man is a menace to society," Attorney F. A. Garlepy, who represented Kiggins, charged. "He is able to get credit and make purchases, but afterwards his creditors whistle for their money. We want the court to tie up the income from the trust to pay our debt. If not that then allow us to sell the furnishings in his home.

Took Proceeds of Sale.

"Our judgment was granted when Erickson admitted that he had calmly pocketed the proceeds of the sale of a trust deed and mortgage on a little bungalow which belonged to Mrs. Elizabeth Banks. She died in 1928 and left the place to many different heirs. Erickson, who knew Kiggins, offered to sell the deed and he succeeded but we never got the money."

The attorney also charged that Deputy Peters had obstructed his efforts to serve Erickson with writs through the sheriff's office. This was denied by Peters, who appeared in court. He admitted, however, that he, too, was one of his son-in-law's creditors, saying that Erickson owed him $13,000 and had given him a chattel mortgage for $5,000 upon the household furnishings.

Judge Enters Ruling.

Judge Allen then ruled that Erickson should be released, saying that he was unable under the law to direct the payment of the trust income or to hold Mrs. Erickson accountable for her husband's debts.

Attorney Garlepy announced that he would appear before Probate Judge Henry Horner in an effort to obtain a conservator for Erickson.

SEIZE LIQUOR IN RAID.

Agents from the office of A. E. Aman, deputy prohibition administrator, bought drinks yesterday in the Miami club, 3811 Broadway, and immediately raided the place. They found 200 pints of Canadian beer and a quantity of gin. John Conroy, the owner, and George Dundee, bartender, were arrested.

REVEAL $12,700 CHECK CASHED BY TIM CROWE

State Begins Evidence on Bank Accounts.

Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district board during 1927-'28, received a $12,700 check from Eugene Byrne, former assistant superintendent of a district department, who headed a dummy concern which did more than $100,000 worth of business with the district during that period. This charge was made yesterday during the graft conspiracy trial of Crowe and seven of his former associates in the district administration. The trial is being held before Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court.

The tender of the money, according to a statement by First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who is in charge of the prosecution, was covered up by having the check made out to John Flanigan. The prosecutor said in court that he could prove by a handwriting expert that Crowe not only wrote his own indorsement on the check, but that the name of "John Flanigan" appearing just above was also written by Crowe.

Resume Trial on Monday.

Testimony on the check was held in abeyance pending further evidence to be produced by the prosecution when the trial is resumed on Monday.

Prosecutor Northup said that he can show by bank records that the cashier's check in question, drawn on Oct. 30, 1928, at the First National bank of Oak Park, which was then controlled by Crowe, was deposited by Crowe in opening a new account at the Columbia State Savings bank on Nov. 1, 1928. The account of the City Machine and Engineering company, the concern operated by Byrne, showed a cash withdrawal of $5,200, virtually closing out the account, on the same day that the cashier's check was issued.

The production of the check yesterday was the start of bank account evidence, which Prosecutor Northup said will be put before the court on Monday afternoon or Tuesday. The records will show the bank accounts of Crowe and the other defendants.

Witness Spurns Summons.

Byrne, now a county employé at the county hospital, defied the prosecutor and the court when he failed to appear yesterday to take the witness stand for examination concerning the dealings of his company and the $12,700 check. Prosecutor Northup said he had asked Byrne several times to appear, and that he had not. The prosecutor said subpoenas were also served on Byrne, who scorned them. At noon yesterday he was again notified to appear at the afternoon session of court and he promised to be there at 3 o'clock.

The judges, prosecutors, defense attorneys, and defendants sat around for an hour, waiting for Byrne to appear, but he did not. After an hour had been wasted in waiting for him the court adjourned.

Payments to Contractors.

The other testimony yesterday showed further excessive payments by the district to contractors. Evidence was produced to show that a contract for the repair of pumps was given to the Evers-Sauvage company and that this concern turned the work over to the General Electric company. The General Electric company charged the Evers-Sauvage company $5,521.03 for the work and the latter concern in turn charged the district $10,099.25. Other testimony of similar overcharges was introduced.

John J. Phelan, 1233 Glenlake avenue, testified that the trustees paid $69,432.17 to the General Outdoor Advertising company and that on the signs throughout the county the names of the trustees up for reëlection were in large red letters.

The court will move to the $1,068,000 cinder bridle path adjoining the north shore channel road at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning. Judge Fisher and his associates, Judge James J. Kelly and Judge John Prystalski, who are sitting in an advisory capacity, will inspect the path.

FOUR BANDITS ROB WASHINGTON BANK IN ARMED HOLDUP

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Four men, armed with sawed-off machine guns, held up the Mechanics' Savings bank at Ninth and East Capitol streets this afternoon and escaped with $14,000 in cash. No shots were fired.

Three men entered the bank shortly after 3 o'clock, the fourth remaining outside in an automobile. They forced the cashier, three clerks and three customers, two of them women, into a rear office, where they ordered them to lie on the floor.

The bandits then ransacked the cages and vault, gathered up all available cash, and made their escape through the front door of the establishment. Entering the waiting car, they sped north on Eighth street.

The Mechanics Savings bank is located in a section of the city in which little commerce of any sort is carried on. Residents in the neighborhood said the first intimation of the robbery they had was when the speeding car nearly overturned in making its getaway.

OBEY REQUEST OF WILL FOR BURIAL IN A PLAIN BOX

The directions for his funeral made in the will of Abraham Heilbrownn, 72 years old, 5551 Blackstone avenue, a mechanic, who died on Thursday, were being carried out yesterday while the testament was being admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the Probate judge.

The directions read: "I wish when I pass away to have no funeral, no sermon, no flowers. I wish to be taken out to Oakwoods cemetery in a plain wooden box."

The lawyers who filed the will explained that Heilbrownn had determinted not to have any of his $7,000 life saving spent in an elaborate funeral. The estate was left to his niece, Bella Feldstein of Denver, Colo.

Welling, Okla., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Log cabin days? They're back again. Both Indians and whites in this eastern Oklahoma country, unable to buy milled lumber and what goes with it, are fashioning crude but comfortable winter homes from oak logs, using red clay for plaster. Its easy, they say.

ROSENWALD WILL GIVES 11 MILLION TO CHARITY FUND

Family Corporation Will Carry On Work.

The philanthropy of Julius Rosenwald is to continue under the terms of his will, which was drawn in the last weeks of his life. The will, filed yesterday in the Probate court, leaves the bulk of his estate to his five children and charges them with the duty of carrying on his philanthropies in an $11,000,000 gift to the Rosenwald Family association, a charitable corporation organized shortly before his death.

The will was admitted to probate by Probate Judge Henry Horner. In an application for letters testamentary the value of the estate is estimated to be "in excess of $20,000,000" with real estate holdings of $250,000. The exact amount has not been determined, though close associates have estimated Mr. Rosenwald's holdings in Sears, Roebuck & Co. at 1,000,000 shares, which have a market value of $33,000,000. He was known to have other holdings.

Aids Industrial Museum.

Announcement of the creation of the family corporation was made on Christmas eve, thirteen days after the will was drawn. The will provides that a portion of the $11,000,000 be used for the Museum of Science and Industry, which Mr. Rosenwald founded. Executors are allowed two years to turn over the fund.

The remainder of the estate is to be divided equally among the five children, Lessing Rosenwald, Mrs. Adele R. Levy of New York, Mrs. Edith R. Stern of New Orleans, Mrs. Marion R. Stern of Highland Park, and William Rosenwald of Elkins Park, Pa. No provision is made for Mr. Rosenwald's second wife. Other provisions had been made for her in a prenuptial agreement, the will states. It was reported that she received $1,000,000 at the time.

The will was drawn by Leonard M. Rieser and Hugh Sonnenschein of the law firm of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson, and Morse. The attorneys and Dr. Herbert Pollack, who attended Mr. Rosenwald, were the witnesses. Attorney Rieser and the law firm of Lederer, Livingston, Kahn & Adler filed the will. The document consisted of three pages.

Daughter and Son Executors.

The executors are Mrs. Marion B. Stern and Lessing Rosenwald. Mrs. Stern and Attorney Reiser appeared before Judge Horner with the will. The judge granted them a private hearing in his chambers. After Mrs. Stern told of her father's death on Jan. 6, and testified as to the drawing of the will at his order, it was admitted to probate.

The executors are to be bonded for $40,000,000. The widow and the children filed their consents to the probate of the will and expressed satisfaction with its terms.

The family association is distinct from the Julius Rosenwald fund, created by gifts of the philanthropist. The latter fund at one time had $30,000,000. It is conducted by a separate body of trustees.

HANGS SELF IN HOME.

Supposedly despondent over the failure of his invention, John Kral, 42 years old, a laborer, hanged himself last night in the attic of his home at 3042 South Crawford avenue. He wrote a letter in which he stated he was "disappointed because he couldn't get his patent through."

TERRIFIC BLAST WRECKS HOME IN CHICAGO HEIGHTS

An explosion believed to have been a dynamite bomb of extraordinary power, yesterday demolished the bungalow of Mariano Angelotti, a contractor, at 1232 Wilson avenue, Chicago Heights. So violent was the explosion that steel window frames and other debris were hurled 300 yards, and nothing was left standing except the stone and brick arch of the front door.

Angelotti, his wife and daughter were away at the time, having gone to Chicago to spend the night. Only the fact that the bungalow was in an isolated position on the outskirts of the suburb saved others from injury by the blast, police said.

Angelotti said that he had no idea who had bombed the place. He had no enemies, he asserted. He advanced the theory that the explosion might have been due to gas. He said he had smelled escaping gas about the house for several days. Fire Chief Malcolm S. Phillips of Chicago Heights, however, said that an explosion so violent could not have been caused by gas. He believes that a dynamite bomb was placed inside the house, on the first floor.

Angelotti's contracts are largely for the construction of schools. He built one recently in Hazelcrest, and has another job under way at Steger.

DEMOCRATS LINE UP CANDIDATES FOR STATE RACES

Shouse Warns Leaders Against Overconfidence.

BY PARKE BROWN.
(Picture on back page.)

As Illinois Democrats took the first step toward their state compaign yesterday they were warned by Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of their national committee, that the greatest danger for the party this year is overconfidence.

JUDGE HENRY HORNER.

Chairman Shouse pronounced what was referred to lightly as the invocation at the opening of the state conference held under the direction of the state central committee at the Hotel Sherman. He spoke briefly, but his appearance and remarks brought into the gathering some of the spirit of enthusiasm which marked the victory dinner of the night before.

Names for State Offices.

The principal business before the meeting was the presentation of the names of candidates for state offices. This program went off in an atmosphere of complete calm. Not a speck of factional difference appeared. Most of the names were presented without extended remarks, the only prepared speech being that of Judge Ross C. Hall in submitting the name of Judge Henry Horner for the governorship. Other names presented for this office were those of Michael L. Igoe, Chicago; Bruce Campbell, East St. Louis, and Clayton F. Smith, Chicago.

In his talk to the group of about 100 party leaders, Chairman Shouse said that the Democratic prospect for victory this year "surpasses anything that any political party in fifty years has had the opportunity to contemplate." He said he had only two points to make.

"First," he said, "let me urge you not to devote yourselves to internecine warfare but to fighting Republicans from now until election day. If you do that you will make Illinois a Democratic state. There is no doubt of it.

"Second, let me warn you that the most serious danger in Illinois as well as elsewhere is that of overconfidence. Let's go at this thing with the conviction that the Democratic party must fight this year as it never has fought before. If you think you can win the state easily by 50,000, go out to make it a victory by 500,000."

List Candidates Presented.

The candidates whose names were presented in addition to those submitted for the governorship were the following:

United States senator—Congressman William H. Dieterich, Beardstown, and Scott W. Lucas, Havana.

Lieutenant governor—Tom O'Connor, Peoria.

Secretary of state—Charles P. Power, Cantrall; Joseph C. Halpin, Peoria; Thomas J. Cody, Peoria, and Joseph E. Hopkins, Peoria.

Auditor—Edward J. Barrett, Chicago.

Attorney general—Charles C. Craig, Galesburg; Martin Brennan, Bloomington; Senator J. Le Roy Adair, Quincy; Representative Truman A. Snell, Carlinville, and James Welch, Waukegan.

Treasurer—Senator George M. Maybole, Chicago; John A. Steele, Bloomington, and John C. Martin, Salem.

Congressman at large [two to be nominated]—Peter A. Waller, Kankakee; V. Y. Dallman, Springfield, and Walter Nesbit, Belleville.

There were no names presented for the clerkship of the Supreme court. And there was some comment that the name of Senator Thomas J. Courtney was not submitted for the attorney generalship. This was believed explained when P. A. Nash, chairman of the Cook county committee, was granted permission to present at a later date the names of candidates indorsed by the local organization.

At a meeting of the county committee next week a subcommittee of five will be named to confer with a subcommittee of the same size that State Chairman Thomas F. Donovan was authorized to appoint, but up to this time the local committee has not indorsed any candidate.

Judge Hall Lauds Horner.

The interest of participants in the meeting centered largely around the submission of gubernatorial candidates' names. Judge Hall was the first speaker and he read a statement describing the qualifications of the man he proposed, Judge Horner.

"Judge Horner," he said, "is a native Illinoisan and is now 53 years old. His grandfather was an Illinois pioneer, coming to Chicago in 1842.

"He is a man of education and broad experience in state affairs. His court is the largest Probate court in the world. His office handles more than $200,000,000 in business annually. During the 17 years he has held that office, not a breath of scandal or criticism has been directed against him or the conduct of his office.

"When he runs, even in Republican years, he leads the county ticket. In 1930 he was reëlected for the fifth time by a majority of almost 400,000 votes. Seven hundred thousand voters in Cook county voted for him.

Has Confidence of State.

"He has had for many years the indorsement of every outstanding citizen, newspaper and civic and business organization in Cook county. He has the confidence of Chicago and Cook county and Illinois.

"He is a great organizer, a man of fine ideals, and is intensely practical in civic and political problems. He knows the problem of the farmer, the merchant and the laborer. The problem of the widow and the orphan have been his for 17 years. He is broad-gauged in his understanding of every problem affecting our state and our nation.

"He is a true American type. He will give every portion of the state a square deal."

William Kells, committeeman from the 7th congressional district, presented the name of Clayton Smith without comment. John J. Hallihan, city commissioner of East St. Louis, submitted Campbell's name in the same way. And Igoe's name was presented by J. Earl Houston of Peoria, who said he did so at the request of voters of the 16th district, which he represents on the committee.

SUICIDE THREAT OF WIFE FAILS TO SAVE HUSBAND

Mate Is Jailed in Bank Hearing.

A plea for clemency by a wife for her husband, who had just been sent to jail for ten days, failed to move Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday. The judge had committed Samuel Gordon, 918 Lafayette parkway, to jail for contempt of court.

SAMUEL GORDON.

"I'll commit suicide if you don't give my husband back to me," Mrs. Rahle Gordon shrieked as a climax to her plea. She flung up her arms in dramatic fashion.

"Court is adjourned" was the judge's response. As he left the bench, Mrs. Gordon, weeping, made a slow exit from the courtroom.

Judge Charges Perjury.

Gordon had perjured himself, according to the judge, in an attempt to evade payment of $400 he owes to the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, which closed last June. When ordered into custody, Gordon shouted that he was being treated unfairly and resisted bailiffs who seized him.

"Gordon committed perjury of the clearest kind," said the judge.

Mrs. Helene Chamales, wife of Thomas Chamales, ex-saloonkeeper and now a real estate dealer, turned over $5,000 in cash to the receiver of the Sheridan bank yesterday as evidence that her husband intended to make a complete settlement of his indebtedness of $125,000. Judge Feinberg in addition obtained from Chamales as security for the debt quit claim deeds to practically all of the real estate interests owned by Chamales. This included the Green Mill Gardens property.

A forthwith attachment was issued by the court for Dr. Louise Klehm, wanted for questioning in the hearing to discover assets of the closed West Central State bank. She refused to answer a subpoena issued some time ago. The judge said he wished to question Dr. Klehm about the whereabouts of her sister, Mrs. A. G. Harms, who is indebted to the bank for several thousand dollars. The Harms have been missing for several weeks.

Plan Reopening at Harvey.

Plans for the reopening of two closed banks in Harvey were explained to depositors last night by Mayor Frank Bruggeman, chairman of the depositors' committee. He urged that every depositor sign an agreement not to withdraw his funds from the banks for a year after the reopening. It was reported that about a third of the 700 who attended the depositors' massmeeting in the Whittier school signed.

The trial of Norman O. Geyer and George Woodruff, charged with conspiracy in connection with the closing of the Waukegan State bank last June, has been postponed to Jan. 25. It was to start next Monday, but Judge Edward Shurtleff, who is to hear the case in the Circuit court at Woodstock, yesterday notified the attorneys that his personal affairs necessitated the delay.

Geyer was president of the Waukegan bank and Woodruff, at the time the alleged overt acts occurred, was vice chairman of the National Bank of the Republic, Chicago. State Auditor Oscar Nelson, named a co-defendant, was granted a separate trial.

WILL SMITH RUN FOR PRESIDENT? IT'S HIS SECRET

Silence on Plans Keeps Friends Guessing.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The refusal of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith to put himself forward openly as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination while in Boston for the "victory dinner" there renewed speculation here today as to whether Mr. Smith intended to make any open avowal of his willingness to be his party's candidate again.

Friends of Mr. Smith declined to guess what course he would pursue, despite the many demands that have been made on him to allow his name to be used, to prevent the delegations in states where there is sentiment for him from going to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt by default.

No Declaration Now.

There never has been any hesitancy on the part of informed observers to view the former governor as a willing candidate, if the path to the nomination could be cleared, but whether he intends to make a public declaration still remains a secret. The only definite statement that could be obtained was that no declaration will come from him in the immediate future.

If several candidates were fighting for the lead for the Democratic nomination, it was pointed out, Mr. Smith could afford to sit back and await a deadlocked convention, which might turn to him after the candidates who had had the early lead had failed to win the nomination.

No Encouragement Given.

The reception given to Mr. Smith in Boston was such that he might well have given the Massachusetts Democrats encouragement, but he failed to do so. Massachusetts was carried by Mr. Smith in 1928.

Far less speculation existed as to the plans of Gov. Roosevelt. The communication of the North Dakota state convention asking him to be a candidate was mailed to the governor, and it will reach him over the week-end or on Monday when he returns to the state capitol. His answer to it, in the form of an open declaration of his candidacy, therefore, is expected early next week, possibly on Monday.

France Opens Headquarters.

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Asserting the Hoover forces are "being deserted on all sides," former United States Senator Joseph Irwin France of Maryland arrived here today to open headquarters from which to conduct his own campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

The former senator declared himself in favor of repealing the Volstead act first and then the eighteenth amendment.

He criticized President Hoover for having "dodged, hedged, and equivocated" on the prohibition question, and said, "any man who is wrong on the eighteenth amendment is wrong on everything."

Mr. France said his name had been entered in the North Dakota primaries to be held March 15. He said the farmers of that state are "in revolt" against the administration. Delegates from two southern states have asked him to have his campaign organized in their states, he said.

The senator also announced that he is looking for a treasurer for his organization.

Doctor and Ex-Wife End Dispute by Alimony Pact

An agreement signed yesterday before Judge Harry B. Miller in the Superior court ended the alimony disputes of Dr. Frank X. Walls, physician, of 219 Lake Shore drive, and Mrs. Cecelia Walls of Miami, Fla., who divorced him in 1916. Mrs. Walls sought to have her husband cited for contempt of court for failure to keep up alimony payments. Under the agreement signed yesterday she received $1,750 in back alimony and $2,750 more for waiving future payments. The agreement also provided $500 for fees for her attorney, Arthur R. Hall.

FREIGHTER HITS U. S. RUM NAVY FLAGSHIP IN FOG

Towing Disabled Destroyer to Port.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Groping through a heavy fog blanketing the sea in a search for rum runners this afternoon, the destroyer Herndon, flagship of coast division No. 3, was rammed and disabled 55 miles south of Montauk Point by the freighter Lemuel Burrows, bound from Boston to Norfolk.

For hours there was anxiety and uncertainty ashore as to the fate of the fragile coast guard ship and the ninety-three men aboard her.

Tonight, however, a radio message from the Herndon received at coast guard headquarters at New London said that there had been no deaths and only a few minor injuries. The Herndon was being towed stern first toward New London by the freighter which struck her. The plates of the destroyer were stove in from the ward room pantry to the No. 1 fire room.

The destroyers Wilks, Wainwright, and Boutwell and the cutter Champlain were standing by to give help in an emergency, and the Burrows and the Herndon, plodding along at only three to four knots, were not expected to reach New London before noon tomorrow.

The Herndon is one of the fastest ships in the "prohibition navy." She was built in 1920 at Newport News as a first line navy destroyer, with a length of 314 feet and a maximum speed of 35 knots. She was turned over to the coast guard to replace an obsolete destroyer. She started out from New London on patrol yesterday under command of Commander C. G. Roemer.

The Burrows is 437.2 feet long, has a beam of 63.7 feet, and her tonnage is 7,610. She carries thirty-five officers and men. Her master is Capt. P. Swanson.

GIVES HIS LIFE TO WARN FRIEND OF RISING FLOOD

GREAT VILLAGE, N. S., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Volunteer searchers of the wreckage left by a flood which swept six miles of countryside after a dam across Great Village river, near Acadia mines, broke, shortly before midnight, today found the body of Thomas Kaulbach, who give his life to warn a neighbor of the onrushing waters.

While other men of the district were rushing women and children through the darkness to the safety of high ground, Kaulbach was seen near the home of Harry Eagles, where he was spending the winter. Friends said he was presumably on his way to the home of James Eagles, about 300 yards down the gulch, to warn him of the flood, and was caught in the swirling water. The home of James Eagles was spared.

A bridge, two houses, a barn, and telegraph and telephone lines were swept away and homes and stores were flooded.

JUDGE KAVANAGH ORDERED SOUTH FOR HIS HEALTH

Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh, 73 years old, dean of the Superior court, where he has served for 30 years, has been ordered south for his health's sake by his physicians, Drs. George H. Coleman and Otis Smith. Judge Kavanagh, who recently slipped on wet pavement in front of the county building and fell, striking his head on the sidewalk, has been living under observation at St. Luke's hospital for the last week, although he has conducted court daily.

"The order for me to go south was rather welcome," he said yesterday. "I think I'll go to Havana. I've never yet been there, although just about this month 33 years ago I started with my regiment. When we were 500 miles on the way the government ordered us back."

Col. Weeks and Successor as Engineer Are Honored

Col. W. C. Weeks, war department engineer assigned to Chicago for the last four years, and Lieut. Col. D. I. Sultan, his successor, were the guests yesterday at a luncheon at the Engineers club, 314 Federal street. Col. Weeks left later in the day for New York to take up his new duties as army engineer of that port.

FOLLOW THESE RULES

1. Each day for 36 consecutive days (except Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a Washington Bi-Centennial Crossword Puzzle. In each puzzle an historic event in Washington's life will be named. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the event.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 36 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 36. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 36 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

MAKING TALKIES LATEST PROJECT OF GOVERNMENT

Film Everything but the Howls of Taxpayers.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—A crisis of the character that upset Hollywood has developed in one of Uncle Sam's far flung paternalistic undertakings, the production of motion pictures for farmers.

It is all because of the talkies. Farmers are bored by silent films, as has been attested by a marked falling off in attendance at the department of agriculture's movies in rural parts. The department has reached the conclusion that Uncle Sam must, like Hollywood, go talkie or quit the motion picture field.

Hence, the announcement that the department has stopped making silent pictures and is now manufacturing talkies only. The first three talkies to be completed, have been placed in circulation.

Need More Money of Course.

But it is going to cost a lot of money, as it did in Hollywood, to transform the federal movie production studios, occupying an entire building in Washington, to engage actors with the proper voice, and otherwise adapt sound to the government films. How to do all this within the $88,000 now allowed annually by the budget is worrying the department.

The first talkie completed, according to a department prospectus, entertains the farmers with a pictorial account of "Sago Making in Primitive New Guinea," another sets forth the results of improvident cutting of forests, and the third, for dairymen, "brings us the voice of Dr. Stephen M. Babcock, the venerable inventor of the Babcock test."

During the fiscal year of 1930, the last reported on, the department "made 3,368 film shipments of 6,398 subjects, totaling 9,990 reels," which were exhibited to seven million people. More than 250 films are catalogued in a booklet issued by the department for the guidance of farm communities in ordering.

A Western Thriller.

"Sir Loin of T-Bone Ranch" is the title of one film which presents "stirring range scenes, with cowboy sports and a tincture of romance" with "special reference to production of good beef."

Another "of general interest" is "She's Wild," depicting broncho busting and Indian dancing. "Mollie of Pine Grove Vat" shows "tick eradication in the south."

"Sheep in Psalm and Sage" illustrates "the fitting use by the psalmist of sheep as a symbol for mankind"; in "The Golden Fleece," Jason, "a progressive farmer, learns that clean handling of wool, grading, and cooperative selling will bring success," while "Exit Ascaris" treats of "methods of controlling round worms in pigs."

Perhaps the masterpiece of Uncle Sam's troupe of movie actors is the four reel drama entitled "Poor Mrs. Jones," depicting, according to the catalog, "the vicissitudes of a farm woman who seeks a rest by visiting her sister in the city, who lives in a 2-room-and-kitchenette flat, designed to teach a lesson in appreciation of the advantages of country life. Then there is 'Home Is What You Make It,' which is a story picture showing how a dilapidated house may be improved by repairs, painting, and landscaping."

"Why Moths Leave Home."

"Why Moths Leave Home" pictures "the life cycle of the gypsy and browntail moths"; a two reel film shows how "the family goes to college," and "what they do after they get there"; in "Mother Takes a Vacation," are displayed "the activities of farm women's vacation camps"; "Carry On" presents "Tom West's experiences at the national encampment of 4-H clubs"; and "Under the 4-H Flag" is based on John F. Case's novel of the same name.

In advertising his wares, Uncle Sam is no whit behind Hollywood, for "Pan and Ceres in the Movies" is a film "illustrative of the diversity of the motion picture work of the department." Another film, entitled "Wild Flowers," is a "description of our native wild flowers and shrubs and a plea for their protection and preservation."

The director of motion pictures production in his annual report, softly hints that if Uncle Sam is to be allowed to go in for talkies in a big way it will be necessary for the taxpayers to come across with additional funds. He states:

"The budget and facilities of the office are based on past needs for silent pictures and are wholly inadequate for the installation of sound equipment and the much greater costs of the production of sound pictures."

The department's defense of its motion picture enterprise is based in part on the premise that the mentality of rural folk is of an extremely low order. It is asserted that frequently in no other way can the farmers be interested in improved practices.

Expensive Puppet Shows.

To put across the department's lessons and propaganda in another form appealing to eye and ear costs even more money. Over at Alexandria one floor of a large building is given over to the government artificers, who fashion the papier maché and rubber mechanical models which are sent to agricultural fairs and similar exhibitions. This undertaking costs federal taxpayers $125,000 a year.

One of these animated exhibits shows "the correct and incorrect styles of clothes for young girls."

One mechanical hen lays an egg, at the same time explaining by means of a concealed phonograph how she should be fed to get the most eggs.

Estonia and Latvia to Fix Disarm Policy Tomorrow

MICHIGAN SELECTS ITS COMMISSION ON WORLD'S FAIR HERE

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Announcement was made today that Gov. Wilber M. Brucker has designated members of the Michigan Century of Progress commission which will be in charge of Michigan's participation in the great exposition planned by Chicago in 1933. The commission will hold its first meeting here next Wednesday for organization purposes.

Members of the commission are:

George E. Bishop, Marquette, secretary-manager of the upper peninsula development bureau; Mrs. Noyes L. Avery, Grand Rapids; William Sparks, president of the Sparks-Wighington company, Jackson, and Joseph F. O'Shaughnessy, Detroit, general manager of the U. S. Rubber company. Senator Alolph F. Heidkamp of Lake Linden and Representative Frank P. Darin, Detroit, will act as legislative representatives serving in an advisory capacity.

The 1931 legislature appropriated $15,000 to take care of Michigan exhibits at the exposition and $5,000 additional for the commission's expenses.

DE PRIEST PICKS TWO CANDIDATES FOR WEST POINT

Names of two Chicagoans and their alternates as candidates for the United States Military Academy at West Point, on appointment by Oscar De Priest, Negro congressman, were announced yesterday by the war department at Washington.

The candidates are Benjamin Oliver Davis Jr., 4524 South Park way; and Francis D'Anglas, 4654 Cottage Grove avenue. The first and second alternates, respectively, of Davis are Benjamin S. Jones, 5742 Wabash avenue, and John G. Bennett, 340 East 38th street. The corresponding alternates of D'Anglas are William W. Thomas, 3810 South Park way, and Jesse Banks, 340 East 38th street. All are said to be Negroes.

Davis is the son of Col. Benjamin O. Davis, of the regular army, now at Tuskegee institute. He is a student at the University of Chicago, specializing in mathematics. The candidates for West Point will take entrance examinations March 1.

FAMOUS EXPERT ON LAW ADMITS COUNTERFEITING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Cornell Salaban, 42, famed juridical expert and author of well known works on international law, was arrested today with his 33 year old wife. They are charged with counterfeiting and circulating bogus coins during the last three years.

Living in a luxurious villa in the suburb of Lichterfelde, with a big staff of servants, Salaban told friends that his income was derived from scientific publications. Actually, Salaban and his wife converted their cellar, stocked with wines of rare vintage, into a coiners' den, where police assert he has turned out coins with a nominal value of $15,000 since 1929.

The counterfeits were so excellent that they were not suspected for a long time. Salaban confessed, but said the coins which were circulated had only a nominal value of $1,000.

They are Milton Stroul, 23 years old, 1566 Milwaukee avenue; Otto Hanson, 19 years old, 2621 West North avenue, and Bruno Orlik, 22 years old, 1566 Milwaukee avenue.

FINDS JOHNSON BACKED BY PART OF HOOVER CAMP

Ickes Reports Senator Is Gaining Strength.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Efforts to bring Senator Hiram Johnson of California into the preferential primary states as a candidate for the Republican nomination for President are being encouraged under cover by some Republicans in the Hoover camp, according to Harold L. Ickes.

Mr. Ickes, who has been a close political friend of Senator Johnson since the old Bull Moose days in 1912, returned yesterday from Washington, where he has been sounding out sentiment among Republicans of various groups. He reports that the Johnson movement is being quietly encouraged by some old time regulars, who fear that with Hoover at the head of the ticket state and local tickets may be defeated next November.

North Dakota Filing Limit.

Johnson so far has not indicated whether he will enter the primaries of any state. The need for action in North Dakota was deferred yesterday when it was found that candidates do not have to file until Feb. 13 for the presidential primaries March 15, the first to be held in the west. The Hoover managers in North Dakota for weeks have been counseling the White House not to enter Hoover's name in the primaries.

The decision reported from Washington yesterday that the Hoover managers have left it to the Hoover committee in North Dakota to determine whether his name should be filed redoubled the activities of the Johnson supporters to file him in North Dakota and to follow it up by filing for the Michigan primaries April 4, Wisconsin April 15, Illinois and Nebraska April 12, and Pennsylvania and Massachusetts April 26. Mr. Ickes reports that Senator Johnson will withhold his decision until he has almost completed the investigation of foreign securities floated in the United States, on which he is now engaged.

Johnson Sentiment Stronger.

"I find sentiment in Washington for Senator Johnson much stronger than a month or so ago," said Mr. Ickes. "The significant thing to me is the friendly feeling displayed toward Mr. Johnson by members of the old guard. They express the fear that if President Hoover heads the ticket candidates for state-wide and local offices in many states will be faced with inevitable defeat.

"With Johnson running in the presidential primaries they say the popular expression registered by the voters might have some effect on the convention itself.

Informal conferences have been held in the last month to sound out sentiment among Illinois Republican leaders, many of whom have been saying ever since the legislature met last January that Illinois could be carried against Hoover by almost any candidate. Further conferences are expected with a view of finding what support Johnson might get from various groups.

Battles Are Expected.

In most congressional districts battles between Hoover and anti-Hoover candidates for national delegates are expected; and the general conjecture for weeks among the politicians has been that a majority of the Illinois delegation in the June national convention may be anti-Hoover.

Similar conditions in Indiana were reported yesterday by the Hoosier Democrats who came to Chicago for the Democratic victory fund dinner on Thursday night at the Stevens hotel.

The Indiana primaries are held May 3, on the same day as those in California and South Dakota.

Benton School Teacher Is Candidate for State Senate

Benton, Ill., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Troy C. Lager, Benton school teacher, today announced his candidacy for Democratic nomination for state senator from the Fiftieth senatorial district.

CONTRACTING FIRM REFUNDS SAVINGS IN WAGES TO SCHOOLS

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Savings in wages caused by the depression will be refunded to the Peoria school board by V. Jobst & Sons, general contractors, now engaged in building a junior high school here.

The contracting firm said its bid for the work was based on labor prices of the "boom" period and that the refund would be made "as a matter of equity" because of the reduction in school tax revenues.

Jobst & Sons, a Peoria firm, constructed the Supreme court building at Springfield.

HOOVER TOO BUSY TO TALK POLITICS WITH CALLERS?

Visitors Say They Did; One Says It Pleased Him.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—Did or did not President Hoover discuss politics with White House callers today? This question agitated perplexed newspapermen as they sought to harmonize the official statements emanating from the office of Theodore G. Joslin, secretary to the President, and the reactions received from a series of callers, two of them political leaders.

On his arrival at the White House this morning, Mr. Joslin declined to discuss the statement by Postmaster General Walter G. Brown on Thursday that President Hoover would stand for renomination.

"The President is giving his undivided thought and attention to the problems concerning the country and to the relief program that is before congress," Mr. Joslin said. "He just refuses to see any one on personal politics, or to discuss personal politics."

Plans His Renomination.

Shortly after Mr. Joslin issued the foregoing statement, James Francis Burke, counsel of the Republican national committee, appeared at the executive offices. Mr. Burke, talking freely with newspaper men, said he had come to Washington to discuss the steps to be taken to bring about the President's renomination.

From his conversation it was gathered that, despite the announced ban placed on personal political chats by President Hoover, his friends were going ahead with plans to elect Hoover delegates to the Republican national convention and to enter the President as a candidate in states having preferential primaries wherever they consider this course advisable.

Hears Word from Kansas.

The President's announced decision not to discuss politics with his callers seemed to be somewhat disarranged by the visit of Mrs. Jonathan B. Carter of Wilson, vice chairman of the Kansas Republican state committee, whose appointment was arranged before Mr. Joslin had let it be known that the President was not discussing personal politics with his callers.

Mrs. Carter said she had reported to the President on conditions in her state. Asked if she had discussed politics, Mrs. Carter said:

"I certainly assured him that his Kansas friends were going to stand by him."

DOG SAVES FAMILY, BUT LOSES OWN LIFE IN FIRE IN MICHIGAN

Benton Harbor, Mich., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Rudolph Berkey, 40, wife of the proprietor of Berkey's villa, rendezvous at Paw Paw lake for pleasure seekers, and five others narrowly escaped with their lives early today when fire, the origin of which was attributed to a bolt of lightning during an electrical storm, destroyed the building.

"Arney," the family's pet police dog, rescued the family, but perished in the flames. His barks awakened Mrs. Berkey, and he clawed the clothing off the beds, alarming Mrs. Berkey's aged mother, her son, Edward, his wife, their infant child, and a decorator known as "Pete," living there.

Mr. Berkey, who was in Chicago on business, arrived home today and estimated his loss at $15,000.

The dog's remains were found today.

Serbians Riot; Shout "Down with Premier!"

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 15.—(AP)—University students rioted on the occasion of the joint parliamentary session today. They threw bricks and other missiles at the police and shouted, "down with Zivkovitch, long live the king!" Between 75 and 100 were arrested. Similar scenes were enacted at Zagreb. Gen. Peter Zivkovitch resigned as premier on Jan. 4 and the following day formed another cabinet.

JUDGE FREES DOCTOR.

Dr. J. L. Mitchell, 757 West 79th street, was freed by Judge James F. Fardy in the Felony court yesterday on a charge of murder by abortion in connection with the death of Mrs. Ethel Vaughn on Dec. 10. Coroner's physicians found that an illegal operation had not been performed.

Grandfather Gets Prison Term on Boy's Charge

Judge Philip Sullivan yesterday sentenced Horace C. Griffin, 65 year old La Grange grandfather, to serve from one to twenty years in the penitentiary as the result of charges made against Griffin by an 11 year old schoolboy. Griffin, former janitor at La Grange High school, was discharged on six similar charges by a local magistrate in La Grange, whereupon parents of the village took the case to State's Attorney Swanson. Griffin was indicted and was found guilty Tuesday before Judge Sullivan in the Criminal court.

GOVERNOR HOLDS FAST FOR RELIEF, FRIENDS ASSERT

May Call Third Special Session if Needed.

Commenting on the call for a second special session of the legislature, some of Gov. Emmerson's friends quoted him yesterday as saying that he intended to keep the assembly at work until it provides relief for Chicago and Cook county. Even a third session seems probable if a relief program is not enacted by the one now in progress or the second, which will be convened at 5 p. m. Tuesday.

JAMES T. BURNS.

The governor is not a candidate for reëlection, but he is determined, he is reported to have told these friends, to see some measures passed to help Chicago before he leaves office.

Seeks Salary Reductions.

The call for the second session specifies that the reduction of state and municipal officers' salaries shall be considered as well as the advisability of calling a constitutional convention to revise the revenue and other sections of the state constitution.

First reactions among the Chicago legislators when they read that the second session had been called was that its effect would be to prolong the life of the relief session. Some Democrats protested, saying that the move was only for the purpose of providing a reduction in salaries to any Democratic officials who might be elected to take office next year.

This attitude was communicated to Representative James T. Burns, Kankakee Democrat, who already had introduced bills at the current session to cut the salaries of elected officials 20 per cent, and others to abolish three offices—county superintendent of highways, county veterinarian, and township treasurer.

Expected to Cut Expenses.

"That isn't the proper feeling," said Mr. Burns. "It's good Democratic policy to reduce governmental expenses and the people expect the Democrats to do it.

"My bills would abolish three offices which are all but useless and actually cost the state almost $1,000,000 a year. The governor's salary is $12,000 and that of the other elected state officials is $10,000. They would be cut 20 per cent by my bills."

Seeks Aid for Tax Reform.

The week-end recess until Tuesday has been productive of much talk among the legislators of what success senate bill 14—the Kelly plan to revise the Cook county taxing machinery—will have in the house on Tuesday and Wednesday. It will be called for second reading Tuesday and then probably on Wednesday for the third.

Representative Henry Sonnenschein, Mayor Cermak's secretary, met last night with Thomas H. Donovan of Joliet, state chairman of the Democratic party, and with Patrick A. Nash, county chairman, and Representative James P. Boyle to consider ways of winning 102 votes for the bill. Sonnenschein is confident it will get that support.

Resolution to Governor.

The business interests of Chicago sent a resolution yesterday to Gov. Emmerson and the assembly members urging that senate bill 14 be passed "as the only means of preventing a complete breakdown of government in Cook county that may endanger life and property."

The resolution was adopted by the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. It says that "the legislature, in the opinion of this organization, does not seem to realize sufficiently the responsibility resting upon it and the necessity for prompt an deffective action."

Another paragraph states that "the legislature, in failing to promptly adopt house bill 11 [identical to senate bill 14] omits an essential part of the relief program which can alone serve to restore public confidence in the efficiency and integrity of our tax assessing and collecting organization."

One paragraph says that the association "records its extreme regret at the failure of the special session of the legislature to pass relief legislation and respectfully urges the prompt and immediate enactment of the essential features of the program submitted by the governor's tax conference and particularly the passage and enactment into law of house bill 11, or senate bill 14."

Held in Slaying of Present Wife's Mate 15 Years Ago

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 15.—The body of Tony Kwiatowski, Pallas lake homesteader, was found hanging from a rafter in his barn 15 years ago. He was buried as a suicide. His widow married Egnus Kwiatowski, the dead man's cousin. Today a coroner's jury examined the 15 year old skeleton and brought in a verdict of murder. A recent police investigation led to exhuming the body. The skull was found cracked. Egnus Kwiatowski is held by police.

WESTERN SPRINGS GETS $22,000 TO RUN ITS SCHOOL

Funds Raised in Tax Warrant Drive.

Western Springs residents, according to an announcement made at a massmeeting in that town last night, have raised sufficient funds to guarantee that their one school, the Wolf road, will be kept open through the present scholastic year.

The school was closed for one week after the pre-New Year holiday, but a plan whereby the teachers give their direct obligation secured by tax anticipation warrants was put into effect. Of the estimated $22,000 needed, $18,400 had been subscribed up to last night and an additional $3,347 was obtained at the meeting.

Legislators Explain Votes.

State Senator Arthur Huebsch and the three state representatives of the district which includes Western Springs—Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes, Emmett McGrath and Frank E. Foster—attended and were asked to explain their votes on the Kelly plan for the reorganization of the Cook county tax machinery.

The state senator, who voted for it both as an emergency measure and as straight legislation, was cheered when he asserted it offered the only hope of getting out of a financial muddle. Mrs. Ickes and McGrath, who voted for the Kelly bill as emergency legislation and against it later, declared that it was valueless. They blamed the troubles on the assessment, which they asserted favored the loop as against small home owning taxpayers.

Representative Foster called the bill "dust in the people's eyes." He added that it was a tool of the big taxpayers against the little ones and for that reason he had voted against it throughout.

Speakers from the audience decried a "Small-Igoe" alliance and predicted that the Cook county legislators who voted against the bill would be defeated at the next election.

Need $50,000 in Park Ridge.

Other suburbs reported less favorable news about the possibilities of keeping their schools open until July.

C. E. Lang, superintendent of the Park Ridge schools, yesterday sent out a letter to taxpayers informing them that $50,000 was needed to keep the schools open, and that only enough funds were available to carry them through January.

The three Park Ridge schools—the Central, Cuttriss, and Lincoln Avenue—have a total of 1,300 pupils and employ forty-five teachers. The monthly pay roll is $8,500. A campaign to sell school tax anticipation warrants is to begin next Wednesday.

Urge Buying of Warrants.

Parents of children attending the Key elementary school at 517 North Parkside avenue, in Austin, were asked last night at a meeting in the school building to purchase tax anticipation warrants from teachers. Purchasers would pay 20 per cent down and the rest in equal monthly payments. According to L. C. Barnet, 422 North Parkside avenue, author of the plan, the transaction would be handled through headquarters in the Austin State bank.

HELD UNDER MANN ACT.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Edward Anderson, former carnival employé, was arrested on a Mann act charge, and Mary Martindale, 17, of Keokuk, Ia., was held as a witness here yesterday, soon after they ended a hitch hiking trip from Keokuk to Detroit in search of work.

Divining Rod Bares 9 Mile Lake of Oil in Bavaria

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Dispatches from Aschaffenburg, Bavaria, today said experiments with a divining rod have disclosed the existence of a subterranean oil lake nine square miles in area at Dittlofsroda, near Wurzburg, and also sixteen square miles of potash deposits extending towards the River Main.

CONFESSES THREE HOLDUPS.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Three holdups in southern Michigan were cleared up today by the confession of Raymond Ottwell, 32, of Buchanan. He said he helped rob Murray Stewart, school caretaker, and F. E. Hall, prominent Buchanan apple grower, and holding up a gas station.

SCHOOL BOARD FINDS IT DOESN'T NEED ANY DOCENT

Also Ditches Pupils' Art Institute Buses.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

One frill—so classed by the trustees—has been eliminated from the Chicago school system in the 1932 budget. This was disclosed in the detail of the proposed savings submitted to School Auditor H. H. Brackett yesterday.

This frill consists in the superservice given art students in visiting the Chicago Art institute.

It has been the practice of the school board to haul its public school pupils in buses to the art institute. The original draft of the 1932 budget contained an item of $1,200 for this service.

Calls Item Ridiculous.

"This is the most ridiculous item I have found in the entire budget," commented President Lewis E. Myers when he noticed the proposed appropriation.

Also it is planned to eliminate the one docent employed by the board. The docent who has been drawing $3,000 a year. According to the dictionary a docent is "a person licensed to teach in a university, but without the dignity of a professor." The trustees have been told that the docent is employed in the bureau of art of the elementary schools to act as guide and instructor to art students sent to the art institute.

Await Better Times.

The board thinks it can get along without the docent until times get better and until the $24,147,040 owing its employés have been paid. Supt. William J. Bogan, who was called upon to trim more than $7,000,000 out of the educational budget, recommended the elimination of the docent and the art institute buses as one means of economy.

The trustees who had heard of the elimination were pleased yesterday. As they viewed it, this is the first frill to be eliminated from the budget after six weeks of labor. They said they were hopeful that other so-called "frills" may be banished.

Aviation Notes

Miles flown by American Airways increased 13 per cent in 1931 over the total for 1930, according to the annual report to the postoffice department. During the year 1,191 miles of new routes were added to the system, which now serves fifty-eight cities in twenty states, with a total of 8,625 miles of airway, and is the longest system in the United States. Air mail poundage and express poundage increased in 1931 over 1930 totals, while the number of passengers carried decreased.

Warning of a deep ditch along the north side of Chicago airport and power lines to the south and east has been issued by the department of commerce.

DETROIT FIRES 700 EMPLOYES AT ONE SWOOP

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—In accordance with departmental economy orders, about 700 city employés were dismissed today. The jobs of 136 firemen were saved for the time being, pending the investigation of a plan to keep them on the pay rolls, and the city council ordered the director of public works to study a plan whereby he could stagger the employment of 237 engineering employés in an effort to prevent the discharging of 127 of them.

In harmony with the scale of pay cuts for city employé laid down in the ordinance recently passed by the city council, members of the council today voted unanimously to accept a salary cut of $600 a year.

Judges of the recorder's court today announced they "must insist" on payment of full salaries. After receiving their checks, however, they will decide on what contributions they should make to the economy program.

Thirty-four employés of the Institute of Art were dismissed, including curators of European, American, Eastern and Oriental arts; and curators of prints.

Captain's Daughter Trapped as Boat Sinks; 9 Lose Lives

SENATORS HARP ON CUTTING, BUT TAKE NO ACTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Economy was the keynote in the senate today as the first deficiency bill with its appropriations of $126,294,119 came up for debate.

SENATOR PAT HARRISON. [Fotograms.]

Economy was the keynote and the senators harped at it so loud and so long that they did not even get around to debating the deficiency bill and that task had to be put over until tomorrow.

Instead they defended and attacked the politically shrewd resolution thrown into their midst by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], providing that it should be the sense of the senate that the appropriations as transmitted in Mr. Hoover's budget should be pared down by 100 million dollars.

No senator wanted to vote against such economical sentiments. But few believed that they could tell beforehand just how much the appropriations could be cut.

Many were the speakers who spoke bravely of wanting to lop off not 300 million dollars but 500 million or one billion. But, said they—and it was a big "but."

Crustily, Senator McNary of Oregon, the assistant Republican floor leader, said that Senator Harrison's resolution "didn't mean anything, and wasn't intended to accomplish anything."

Naïvely, Senator Trammell [Dem., Fla.] said that of course he was for economy and the resolution, but he certainly wasn't going to cut federal aid roads, public building construction, the lower and medium federal salaries, or river and harbor appropriations.

Add to Total in Senate.

Senator Jones [Rep., Wash.], chairman of the appropriations committee, wondered whether the federal government could afford to let employés go in this time of unemployment. Patiently he sat with the deficiency bill in front of him, with its figures shouting only too loudly that the senate committee had added $1,135,076 to the bill as it came over from the house.

The only considerable decrease was in chopping another $50,000 from Congressman Sol Bloom's George Washington bicentennial commission, leaving it $200,000 instead of the $427,000 the ambitious Sol originally asked for.

Figures Over 11 Billions.

Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] added up the money necessary to meet the budget requirements and the appropriations contained in the President's program of emergency relief legislation and got a figure of $11,204,000,000, with only $3,500,000,000 in expected taxes to meet this outlay.

It was Senator Key Pittman, [Dem., Nev.], who finally came to the rescue with a substitute resolution saying that it was the sense of the senate that appropriations should be cut as much as possible without injuring the power of the government to meet present conditions. And, thankfully, the senate voted for the substitute, adopting it, 50 to 9.

NEW YORK LOPS $22,500,000 OFF ITS EXPENSE BUDGET

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The board of estimate, acting on a resolution by Mayor James J. Walker, lopped off $22,500,000 from proposed expenditures this afternoon as a part of the city's new policy of strict economy.

The board voted on the mayor's recommendation to amend a resolution approved on Dec. 12, 1930, setting aside $25,000,000 for parks and playground sites, making the resolution read instead, $2,500,000. This sum was left in to cover money already spent or contracted for, it was explained, leaving a proposed saving of $22,500,000.

In presenting his resolution the mayor said that the money appropriated could not be used now for park or playground development, but that the city intended returning to its liberal policy on playgrounds.

AL SMITH'S SON ARRESTED WHEN CAR KILLS MAN

Faces Technical Charge of Homicide.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Walter J. Smith, 22, son of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, was arrested early today on a technical charge of homicide as the driver of an automobile that struck and killed Harry Wallace, 55, of 319 Bowery.

Young Smith, who was accompanied by Francis B. Smith, formerly of Malden, Mass., and said to be a relative, was arrested by Detective Michael Miniter when he took the victim of the accident to Harlem hospital, where physicians declared Wallace was dead.

The youth, after passing the night in the detectives' room, appeared in Homicide court before Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud. His eyes were bloodshot, apparently from weeping, and he covered his face with his hands.

Alfred E. Smith Jr., his brother, and John Glynn appeared as attorneys for him. They asked for and were granted an adjournment until Friday, Jan. 22. Bail was set at $1,000, and was arranged. The youth is a student at Manhattan college in the Bronx.

The accident occurred on Lexington avenue, south of 128th street, shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. The police said the former governor's son was driving north when Wallace, who was crossing the street against the lights, stepped directly in front of the car.

Former Gov. Smith said that since Wallace apparently had no kin, expense of the funeral would be paid by the Smith family.

WETS IN HOUSE UNITE ON BILL FOR HOME RULE

Men of Both Parties Back Move for Repeal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The house wets, both Republicans and Democrats, have united in support of a resolution calling for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, it was announced today by Representative Beck of Pennsylvania, leader of the Republican wing, and Representative Linthicum, leader of the Democratic wets.

The amendment is designed to give home rule and protection of the states, wet or dry, in the matter of prohibition.

The proponents of the proposed amendment declared their belief that it will destroy the rigidity of prohibition by constitutional fiat and substitute political power in congress to regulate or prohibit the traffic in intoxicating liquors.

Follows Wickersham Report.

It follows the recommendation of the entire membership of the Wickersham commission as to the form of any such amendment, they declared. Such power, however, would be subject to the right of any state upon the principles of home rule to authorize and regulate the traffic within its own borders; and, it was pointed out, the amendment would further give the greatest possible protection and home rule to states which prefer to prohibit such traffic by providing that the power of congress to regulate shall not permit in any form the shipment of liquors into dry states.

The amendment, therefore, the house wet leaders claimed, is a home rule method solving the liquor problem and one in accord with the best political traditions of the American people.

Text of Resolution.

As contemplated in the resolution which was introduced today, the Eighteenth amendment, as amended, would read:

"The congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, and the exportation thereof, from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof, for beverage purposes, provided, however, that such power shall not be construed or applied to abridge or deny the right of any state to authorize and regulate the manufacture, sale, transportation or use of such intoxicating liquors, wholly within the borders of such state; and such power of regulation or any power of the congress to regulate interstate and foreign commerce shall not be construed to empower the congress to authorize the shipment, transportation or importation into any state, of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, whenever the manufacture, sale, transportation or use of such liquors has been prohibited by the laws of such state; and any such shipment or importation of intoxicating liquors into such state, in violation of its laws, is prohibited, and any such shipment or importation shall be subject to the laws of the state upon its arrival therein."

SLEUTH POSES AS STUDENT TO TRAP UNIVERSITY MAN

John D. Bowers, 27 years old, an assistant in the zoölogy department of Northwestern university, was arrested yesterday by Evanston police, charged with taking a microscope and some books belonging to the university. He was paid $50 a month for part time work in the department while he studied for an advanced degree.

Bowers was arrested after Detective A. E. Feeley had posed as a student and attended classes in the zoölogy department for two weeks in order to clear up the mystery of the missing articles. Feeley, suspecting Bowers, searched the latter's room at 628 Library place, Evanston, and found the microscope and books.

Police Chief William O. Freeman said that he would recommend that Bowers be placed on probation. His home is in western Maryland, and he has been studying at the university for a year.

Some time Thursday night burglars broke into the college of pharmacy of the University of Illinois, 1843 Polk street, and stole eight microscopes valued at $800. The theft was discovered when the building was opened yesterday.

GOLD AND JEWELS FOUND IN ANCIENT TOMB OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Discovery of an ancient tomb described as the richest ever found in the western hemisphere was announced today in a letter from Alfonso Caso, chief of the government archaeological expedition at Monte Alban, in the state of Oaxaca.

"We have just discovered what we consider to be the most important tomb in America," he wrote. "It contains numerous objects of gold, jade, rock crystal, and other precious stones, all carved with the beauty which characterized the workmanship of the Mexican Indians."

HUNT FOR ILSLEY SLAYER IN BLUE RIDGE RAVINES

Mob Violence Feared When Negro Is Taken.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—Search for the slayer of Mrs. Spencer Ilsley and her maid, Mrs. Mina Buckner, shifted from Washington to the mountains of Virginia today after a forty-eight hour search in the capital had failed to result in the capture of George Crawford, the Negro suspected of the killing.

Mrs. Ilsley, socially prominent sportswoman, and her maid were found early Wednesday morning beaten to death in a cottage on Mrs. Ilsley's Middleburg estate.

As the search for the slayer of the two women continued Middleburg seethed with feeling against the killer. Police expressed fear of mob violence if the slayer is brought back to the Virginia town after his capture.

While police in every state along the Atlantic seaboard were keeping a vigilant watch for any Negro answering Crawford's description, Detective Sergeant Dennis Murphy of the Washington homicide squad was on his way to the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains west of Middeburg.

Seven Negroes Questioned.

A Negress and six Negro men were taken into custody in Middleburg last night for questioning in connection with the case. The woman told police that Crawford was armed last Sunday when he called upon her. A scrap of paper bearing her name was discovered in the small coupe which the murderer stole from Mrs. Ilsley's garage to use in making his escape.

The slayer's trail led directly from Middleburg to Washington, where the stolen car was found abandoned on the outskirts of the city. There the trail was lost.

Crawford, an ex-convict, was recently discharged from service as Mrs. Ilsley's chauffeur and it is known that Mrs. Ilsley was in fear of him. She had sworn out a warrant for his arrest.

Fight at Funeral.

Funeral services for the slain society woman were held at noon today in Middleburg. The rites were disturbed when State Trooper T. F. Stafford knocked down Joseph Roberts, photographer for a Washington newspaper, in an effort to prevent him from taking pictures of the ceremony.

Roberts, together with three other news photographers, were later arrested, but released by Magistrate Roy Seaton. Roberts swore out a warrant for the trooper's arrest.

After the funeral Mrs. Ilsley's body was placed on a train for Milwaukee.

Ask Aid in Identifying Supposed Gang Victim

Dr. E. A. Kingston, coroner of Will county asked the aid of Chicago authorities yesterday in identifying the body of a man, believed to have been a gang murder victim, who was found New Year's day near a cemetery at Frankfort, Ill. The man was in hunting costume. It is believed that he was lured to a supposed hunting trip by gang associates and then killed. He was shot three times with a shotgun. He was about 40 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighed 145 pounds, and had a dark complexion.

Makes Family Ride Trolley Car; Wife Sues Conductor

Although he and two of their children had automobiles, Conrad Herget, 2700 West 39th street, a street car conductor, insisted on taking the whole family for a car ride over his regular run every week on his day off, Mrs. Tillie Herget, 3615 West 64th place, told Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday. She appeared to ask temporary alimony pending hearing of her suit for divorce, and was awarded $12 a week.

BOOKS

Early Days of Noted Writers Depicted Again

Ford Madox Ford Tells of Conrad, Others.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Return to Yesterday," by Ford Madox Ford [Liveright]. Published today.

FORD MADOX FORD has written "Return to Yesterday," one of those rich, plummy volumes of reminiscence which are an endless joy to those who are interested in books and the men and women who write them.

FORD MADOX FORD. [From drawing by Juan Gris.]

The "yesterday" of Mr. Ford's memories is the day of Henry James, Joseph Conrad, Stephen Crane, H. G. Wells, Arnold Bennett, John Galsworthy—almost literally yesterday so far as lifetimes in literature go—the yesterday of the young Shaw, of the young Ezra Pound, of many of the most brilliant writers of two overlapping generations. It is a record of literary youth and accepted age in a period of creative writing which, Mr. Ford feels, is definitely a period different from today.

The writers, whom he depicts with vividness and a manner at the same time chummy and fun poking, are writers whose faces every one knows in the photographs which adorn the press, many of whom the world has seen on platforms—all of whom the reading public knows intimately.

There are pictures of the days between the late nineties and 1914 which are illuminating of the times in other phases of life than that of literature. But to most readers of this column Mr. Ford's bookish reminiscences are what will make the volume one of the season's thrills.

It is for that reason, and as a delicious morsel from the feast, that I quote some of the sentences from "Return to Yesterday."

Mr. Ford's association with Conrad was the closest relationship of either of their lives. Despite the volume [almost volumes] which Mr. Ford already has written about that, there is much new material in this volume. Incidentally his "Joseph Conrad" is one of the most exciting, most brilliant books on the subject of writing that ever has been written. It is more a creative study of the art of creative writing than it is a biography of Joseph Conrad.

Of the early Conrad Mr. Ford writes in his new book: "The Conrad of those days was Romance. He was dark, black-bearded, passionate in the extreme and at every minute; rather small but very broad shouldered and long in the arm. Speaking English he had so strong a French accent that few who did not know him well could understand him at first. His gestures were profuse and continuous, his politeness oriental and at times almost servile. Like James he would address a society lady, if he ever met one, or an old lady in the lane, or his own servants, or the hostler at an inn, or myself, who was for many years little more than his cook, slut and butler in literary matters, or Sir Sidney Colvin, or Sir Edmund Gosse, all with the same profusion of endearing adjectives."

The "endearing" quality of Henry James Mr. Ford describes at great length on many different pages, and also the physical James [as he described the physical Conrad]: "At that date," he writes, "Henry James was clean shaven. As clean shavenness was then comparatively rare he had in his relatively brief, quiet moments the air of a divine; when, which was more frequent, he was animated, he was nearly always humorous and screwed his sensitive lips into amused or sardonic lines. Then he was like a comedian. His skin was dark, his face very clear cut, his brow domed and bared. His eyes were singularly penetrating, dark and a little prominent."

W. H. Hudson Mr. Ford describes as "very lean, VERY tall, big boned, long limbed, gray. He was slow in his motion. . . . His head was smallish for his great frame, but as if chiseled by the wind, as rocks are; his cheeks weather beaten. His eyes were small and keen, usually a little closed, as if he were looking up along a strong wind."

Stephen Crane was the fourth of the tetrology of "foreign" writers who caused H. G. Wells once to write to the papers that "for many years he was conscious of a ring of foreign conspirators plotting against British letters at no great distance from his residence."

In comparing Conrad, the Pole, and Crane, the American, Mr. Ford writes that Conrad "represented to me man—humanity as it should be. Crane, on the other hand, was like the angels. He did not seem to have the motives of common clay. Conrad produced with agony and you saw how it was done; Crane hovered over his foolscap sheets using a pen as a white moth uses its proboscis. His work had for me something of the supernatural. He comes back to me always as joyous."

If more of the book deals with those four persons than with others of his contemporaries, "Return to Yesterday" must not be taken as a picture with only four focal points. It is a vast panorama of a period in English letters filled with details as memorable, descriptions as vivid in parvo as the descriptions of the four principal characters.

"Return to Yesterday" is my idea of gossip raised to the realm of delightful social history.

BRITON TELLS HOW ACCIDENT MAY PUT NOVEL BEFORE PUBLIC

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—A book which is going to give much amusement to all those who know, or wish to know, something about the literary life of today, is Ralph Straus' "A Whip for the Woman." This is not a novel. It is the history of a novel.

Mr. Straus, writing in his own person, addresses an imaginary "you," the author of an imaginary novel. He does not pretend to know why you have written the novel, or what it is about; but he shows your ideas of the book's value, and the way in which you regard the publisher and his editor. "Your" book is at last published. You look for reviews, advertisements, displays in the bookshops, and sales.

There are none of these things. But by chance the book receives a start because of a law case in which a man is alleged to have struck a woman with a whip. It becomes a best seller. "You" are famous and wealthy. Mr. Straus then goes still farther behind the scenes, and shows the reader how publishers sit in conference, and how reviewers work. But he does not do this solemnly; his method is the light teasing of one who sees all life as a pathetic jest, and every human being as a child. Thus "A Whip for the Woman" is not a treatise, but a joke; and less a joke than a parable.

Mr. Straus is well qualified to write about such matters. He is a novelist of twenty years' experience. He is the reviewer of novels for the London Sunday Times. And he is a member of the board of Messrs. Chapman & Hall, the London publishers. He knows all about trade terms, and sales, and contracts; and he knows all about the trials and tribulations of the reviewer's life, about the dozens of books that fly from every quarter (no fewer than 127 novels were published last week in London); and a novel reviewer is expected to know about every one of them, and may receive as many as three or four copies of each.

How Bradford Began to Tell Story of Negro

Marc Connelly Reveals a College Prank.

BY MARC CONNELLY.

Both Marc Connelly and Roark Bradford were visitors in Chicago last week. The Pulitzer prize play, "The Green Pastures," which leaves Chicago after tonight's show, was based on a series of Negro sketches, "Ol' Man Adam an' His Chillun," written by Roark Bradford.

I know a story about Roark Bradford which I expected to write one day about a fictitious hero, but as I have been invited to express some opinion on him the story must now be told, because it is so revealing. Psychoanalysts point like chemists to small distillations and say, "Here is a basic chemical of your present individuality." It is seldom, however, that we get any comprehensive picture of ourselves in those small vials. I am inclined to believe my story is unusual, because in it one can see the birth of an individuality which pervades everything Bradford has written.

In Lauderdale county, Tenn., Bradford found himself in his 'teens a bit puzzled by the manifestations of race consciousness. All the white boys he knew had inherited the philosophic clichés of their elders. Bradford was merely puzzled and interested in determining why those clichés existed.

Judge Bradford's boy was expected to be a lawyer, but after a year or so of study in Louisiana he found himself soldiering in Panama. There an interest in law was finally awakened, and his formal education was resumed, this time at the University of California, the scene of my story.

He became a member of the class football team. He was 19 and popular enough to receive the concern of his native California teammates. They couldn't understand why this 19 year old Tennessean did not express some embarrassment over the presence on the team of a young Negro. The fact that Brad hadn't thought it a thing to be concerned about was mistaken for a gesture of loyal sacrifice.

The gratuitous diplomats decided that it was in keeping if not highly necessary to haze the Negro and thus preserve Brad's southern standards. It would also furnish a lot of fun.

It was planned that Bradford and the Negro set out, ostensibly to steal some fruit from a farmer's orchard a mile or so from the college town. In the orchard Bradford was suddenly to shout that the farmer was coming, rush to the road and start the Negro running toward town. His teammates would be stationed behind trees and bushes along the road. As the black boy ran past them they were to fire guns in the air so that the scared Negro would think the farmer was pursuing him.

The pleasantry did not work in accordance with schedule. Some fruit was taken; Bradford shouted the farmer was coming; the two boys reached the road and a shot was fired nearby as they started racing to town. Bradford dropped behind. The Negro had run only a few yards when he turned to see what had happened to his companion.

"Go ahead, run," yelled Bradford. "What about you?" asked the Negro.

Here was a crisis that had not been anticipated. "It's all right. He grazed me here," said Bradford, putting his hand to his left cheek. "You go ahead."

The Negro stopped and then came back to the self-conscious and sudden shamefaced Negro baiter. "Let's see," said the Negro.

Bradford kept his hand to his face. "It's all right," he said, "go ahead."

"Of course, I won't," said the Negro. "Man, you look as if you'd been hurt bad."

Before Bradford could say anything further the Negro picked him up—he didn't weigh very much—threw him over his shoulder and started running the gamut again. It must have been most amusing to those firing revolvers and rifles from the shrubbery to see this added handicap to the black boy's progress.

In front of his dormitory the Negro dropped his silent team mate to his feet. "You stay here," he said.

Bradford managed to find his voice. "Where you going?"

"To get the doctor."

"Look, I'm all right. Don't—don't bother."

"No, you wait here; I'll be right back."

Bradford's hand still was on his cheek when the Negro returned with a physician and a bag of instruments.

"What happened?" asked the newcomer.

"We were out in the country and some hunters were shooting wildly," said Bradford. "A stray bullet caught me here." The hand dropped from the cheek and the doctor examined the bleeding gash.

"That's funny," said the doctor. "Are you sure it was a bullet?"

"My God, we heard firing," said Bradford savagely. "Of course it was a bullet."

"Maybe so — it just looked so jagged."

Perhaps the doctor understood that only a dressing and sympathy were needed here so he asked no more questions. Anyway he paid no attention to a jagged stone with blood on it lying at Bradford's feet.

Bradford never has let the Negro down in anything he has written about him. The young Negro indeed put him on his feet.

"Child of God," his first story, which won the O. Henry prize in 1927, could have been written only by an artist with tenderness and great imagination. I think that artist was born on the day I have recalled.

Arthur Upham Pope Writes Popular Sized Persian Art Book

Arthur Upham Pope has delivered within the last week to the members of the Arts club and the Renaissance society two brilliant lectures on the great international exhibition of Persian art which was held in London last year and of which he was director. These lectures stirred in their audiences a passion to know more about the fascinating subject. Fortunately those audiences—and the rest of us who were not fortunate enough to hear the lectures—may read Mr. Pope's "An Introduction to Persian Art"—either in the English edition published by Peter Davies, or the American edition published by Scribners.

"An Introduction to Persian Art" is the first substantial volume in any language dealing with the complete arts and crafts of Persia. It is written with the same brilliant modesty with which Mr. Pope lectures—that is, it is the result of infinite and detailed research and collation of facts, but it gives the reader no sense of the labor with which its scholarship was accomplished. Three stupendous de luxe volumes of a survey of Persian art are on the presses now of the Oxford University Press and will be published later in the spring. "An Introduction to Persian Art" is the popular gist of the survey.

To the Man Who Knows Its Origin Every Word Presents a Picture

Far Back in the Times of the Primitive Herdsman We Find the Origin of PECUNIARY
In the early days of civilization, before money was created, a man's wealth was reckoned in flocks and herds. The Latin word pecus meant "cattle," and from that word came pecunia meaning "property in cattle." As civilization advanced and a man's wealth was represented by things other than cattle, the same word was used to designate his property. Then, when money came into being and was adopted as the measurement of wealth, the word pecunia took on the new meaning "money." Derived from this was the adjective pecuniarius, "relating to or consisting of money," from which we have our word pecuniary, with the same meaning.
Thus have the words in our language passed through a remarkable process of evolution that is recorded in thousands of fascinating stories in

BRITISH DUBIOUS AS TO VALUE OF PARLEY ON DEBTS

Certain 'Status Quo' Will Be Maintained.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Although it is still uncertain whether the Lausanne reparations conference will be held at all, and quite certain that if it is, it will not get anywhere, great activity is now being shown by the British government to prepare for it.

ALBERTO BENEDUCE.

Today the Italberto Beneduce, ian expert, Alchairman of the recent Basel conference of the Young plan advisory committee, visited the treasury discussing with other experts a suggested plan for British, French, and Italian coöperation. Simultaneously, all high commissioners of the British dominions conferred with Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, on the same subject.

See Quick End for Parley.

The British believe that if the conference is held it will end quickly and will simply arrive at some temporary measure for maintaining the status quo.

After six months or so, it is hoped the atmosphere will be better for a permanent settlement.

It is now definitely settled that Prime Minister MacDonald will not go to Lausanne, but will attend the opening of the disarmament meeting. He will only stop a day or so, however, as he must be back for parliament, which opens on the same day as the Geneva parley, Feb. 2.

ITALY EYES AMERICA

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 15.—This part of Europe adopted an attitude of watchful waiting for signs from America today, following the two big blasts against debts and reparations unloosed from Premier Mussolini's paper, Popolo d'Italia, in Milan.

Fascist writers tonight continued an exposition of the idea of the necessity for a united European front toward Europe's creditors. Forges Davanzati, editor of La Tribuna, and once a member of the Fascist grand council, advanced the argument that if Mussolini's ideas of debt cancellation have not convinced the American people, it is the fault of France.

The Hoover moratorium, he argued, was an implicit admission of the interrelation between debts and reparations. He added that negotiations could have continued along that line if the French had not been obdurate in accepting the moratorium.

With subsequent moves still in the dark the general feeling here appears to be that the debt cancellation appeal has rolled on a tack in so far as it was intended to impress the American public.

Cancel Debts: German Industries.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—The directors of the Federation of German Industries, at a meeting under the chairmanship of Dr. Krupp von Bohlen today, voted for cancellation of reparations, fully backing up Chancellor Bruening's statement of Jan. 9.

The federation believes that the economic situation makes it impossible for Germany to continue political payments, and that any attempt to maintain such payments would lead to a catastrophe, not only for Germany, but for the whole world.

"The necessary premise of economic welfare of the world is the free interchange of goods, which, however, is prevented by reparations, because they force the debtor countries to increase exports, while other countries try to bar them through all available measures," it said in the statement.

Liner Pulls Its Towing Engine Into Panama Canal

PANAMA, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The liner Pennsylvania, en route from the Pacific coast to New York, pulled an electric towing locomotive into Gatun locks today while passing through the Panama canal. The steamer had cleared the third set of the locks and headed into the lake. The towline to the second of the four locomotives was not cast off and the engine was hauled off the track and dropped into fifty feet of water. The operator climbed out through his cab window. He was not injured.

Hoover and Dawes Discuss Plans for Policy at Geneva

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Final preparations for American participation in the attempt to cut world armaments were begun today by President Hoover and Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the delegation of five which will represent the United States at the Geneva disarmament conference beginning Feb. 2.

Ambassador Dawes arrived in Washington this morning and will sail from New York next Wednesday for Geneva. Two other members of the delegation will sail with him, the remaining two now being either in Europe or on the way. The delegation includes Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, Senator Claude A Swanson [Dem., Va.], Dr. Mary Emma Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke college, and Norman Davis, former adviser to President Wilson.

Although preparations for the parley have aroused but little attention in this country, a glance at the agenda reveals that the conference may have a momentous bearing upon this country's ability to defend itself in the future. Complete success for the conference, a conclusion no one in this country anticipates, would mean that virtually every branch of American national defense would be limited by treaty.

The draft drawn up by the preparatory commission to serve as a basis for discussion at the Geneva parley calls for limitation of man power in the army and navy and limitation of land and of war materials which may be purchased and maintained by any one power. In addition to direct limitation by numbers of ships or weapons and by tonnages the conference program calls for discussion of a possible limitation of each nation's defenses by limiting the annual expenditure of each treaty signatory power in the upkeep, purchase and manufacture on its land and sea armaments.

It is possible the move to limit military effectives may go so far as to place limitations upon police forces and other trained units which could be quickly mobilized for war. National Guard organizations are not affected.

NAVAL BUILDING PLEA VOICED BY ADMIRAL UPHAM

Urges Construction Up to Pact Limits.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Further neglect of the American navy will constitute a peril to world peace, Rear Admiral Frank B. Upham, chief of the bureau of navigation, warned the house naval affairs committee today while testifying in behalf of the Vinson 616 million naval construction bill.

REAR ADMIRAL UPHAM.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

In vigorous language, the navy's second ranking naval officer criticized the failure of the nation to supply needed warships in the past, asserting that the country should constantly keep its fleet up to the maximum tonnage limits permitted by treaty. We cannot reasonably hope for success in any war, said Rear Admiral Upham, unless the needed fighting ships are completed when the national emergency comes.

Headed Towards Second Class.

According to Rear Admiral Upham's testimony, the United States is rapidly headed toward a second class position among the world naval powers. Unless new ships are forthcoming within the near future, he said, this country will be unable to defend its trade, its interests or even the country itself.

The Upham testimony stressing the need for immediate new warship construction was the high light of a day during which Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, called for construction of three more aircraft carriers within the next four years. The rear admiral urged passage of the Vinson bill, asserting such a program would be productive of huge savings which might run as high as a hundred million dollars over ten years.

Treaty Limit Is Six.

Rear Admiral Moffett told the committee that limitation treaties now in effect limited American aircraft carrier tonnage to below the country's national defense needs.

Neglect to build up to and maintain treaty ratios, "would, in my opinion," he said, "imperil rather than safeguard the peace. By building to those ratios we threatened no one, and do but place ourselves in position to maintain our neutral rights when others are engaged in hostilities.

"Were we to defer building until war is upon us, not only will we be unable to stop it or to bring it to an early close, but we cannot hope that ships laid down at once will be in service before the end of the war—in which war we may not reasonably anticipate success, by reason of our very negligence."

New Gas Burner Produces Heat of 2,800 Degrees F.

Development of a new type of gas burner that produces heat of 2800 degrees Fahrenheit without a visible flame was announced yesterday by J. B. Burdett, president of the Burdett Manufacturing company, 19 North Sheldon street. The burner is dish shaped, and gas mixed with air, one part with ten, is deflected down into the dish, which is at white heat. The combustion is so nearly perfect, it is said, that all heat units in the gas are consumed instantaneously, and the flame is invisible.

LEVIATHAN TO RETURN TO TRANS-ATLANTIC SERVICE ON APRIL 26

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The United States liner Leviathan will return to the trans-Atlantic service on April 26, a schedule made public by the Roosevelt Steamship company today revealed.

The list is the first to be issued concerning the ships of the United States lines since they were bought from Paul W. Chapman by the combination of I. M. M. Dollar-Dawson shipping interests.

The Leviathan has remained idle since she came into port Christmas day. She then was laid up in command of a skeleton crew and the date of her return to service remained unknown.

POLICEMAN STILL GETTING U. S. FEES AS DRY WITNESS

Although the six city policemen formerly assigned to the prohibition bureau were ordered back to their stations on Jan. 1, one of their number, George Melican, is still collecting the $2 witness fees from the government, which the police added to their city pay while working with the dry agents.

On Jan. 2, the day after he was sent back to regular police duties, Melican, Capt. Gregory Moran of the Chicago avenue district, and three detectives walked into the Club Rubaiyat, 657 St. Clair street. They had no search warrant, but proceeded to the basement, where they seized 64 bottles of liquors, and then arrested Edward Popin, the owner, and two employés, Robert Giovennetti and Ludwig Hareedein.

Melican collected his federal witness fee yesterday when he appeared against the three before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Although Ben Epstein, defense attorney, brought out that a large part of the seizure consisted of nonalcoholic cordials and sirups, Melican testified that he also found some alcohol, and the three men were held to the grand jury.

Drop Action on Adhesive Tape Discipline in School

Investigation of charges that adhesive tape was put over the mouths of boys in the second grade of the Central Elementary school, Evanston, was virtually dropped yesterday. The inquiry was started on complaint of Mrs. Ralph Watts, 802 Monroe street, who stated her son, Willard, 7 years old, was subjected to such discipline by Miss Vivian Heuss, the teacher. Yesterday District School Superintendent Frederick Nichols announced he did not regard the incident as serious.

ENGINEER DIES AT WORK.

Charles Nigg, 58 years old, 822 Rush street, died yesterday of heart disease while working as an engineer at the Chicago avenue pumping station.

DOORS OF PRISON CELL CLANG ON WIFE OF GANDHI

Short Sentence Touches Old Lady's Pride.

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi's wife, a little old lady of 60, went to jail today for six weeks because she had taken up where her husband had left off in the nationalist campaign for independence. The comparatively short sentence they gave her touched her pride.

"Why do you send me away for only six weeks?" she cried as a court attendant led her out, "do you want me free again so quickly to take the lathi (staves) blows with the rest of my countrymen? I won't keep quiet even after I am released. Give me the same sentence you give my sisters."

But the judge only shook his head.

Enters Cell with Bible.

Mrs. Gandhi picked up her Hindu Bible and her spinning wheel and followed the jailor.

Up to that outburst she had taken no part in the hearing, in accordance with the Nationalist boycott of the British courts. When they took her husband away from her several weeks ago she pleaded to be arrested too.

The court today imposed a sentence of three and a half months at hard labor, with a fine of 100 rupees, on Miss Maniben Patel, daughter of the imprisoned president of the Nationalist congress, for taking part in an unlawful assembly.

Urge Committees Be Boycotted.

The Nationalists, who have been quiet lately under the pressure of restrictive laws, broke into print in their own Free Press Journal today, urging the people to boycott the three round table conference committees on the way from London to carry on the work of the congress.

Meantime the police are having their troubles with Mr. Gandhi's "monkey army," a sort of Boy Scout organization, whose 6 year old members are doing their bit to advance the boycott sponsored by the little man in the loin cloth who is their George Washington. They go about, naked and dirty, shouting, "Gandhi's government is coming soon! Boycott British goods!"

FACTOR'S COURT PLEA CONTINUED UNTIL NEXT WEEK

The hearing on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of John ["Jake the Barber"] Factor, who has been ordered extradicted to England for trial on charges of fraudulent stock dealing, was continued yesterday to next Wednesday morning before Federal Judge George A. Carpenter.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward announced another court call prevented his hearing the case. He suggested that Judge Louis Fitz-Henry of Springfield, who has already heard another petition for habeas corpus for Factor and has ruled against it, be called. The defense attorneys objected and Judge Carpenter was agreed upon.

Meanwhile Factor is still in the technical custody of deputy United States marshals.

Physician Convicted of Illegal Operation Charge

Dr. William Wallace White, 45 years old, a physician with offices at 803 East 61st street, was found guilty of committing an abortion yesterday by a jury before Judge George Fred Rush. He faces a sentence of one to ten years. A 19 year old girl testified that he performed the operation upon her last Sept. 1. She became ill and, believing she was about to die, she informed police of the operation, she said. A charge of murder by abortion is pending against Dr. White in another branch of the Criminal court.

AUSTRIA SEIZES FOUR IN FASCIST "ASSASSIN PLOT"

Accused of Gunning for Cabinet Man.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Jan. 15.—With the arrest today of four members of the Austrian Fascist Heimwehr on charges of plotting the murder of Franz Winkler, minister of the interior, feeling between Socialists and Fascists flamed bitterly tonight. The four Fascists were arrested at Graz.

Winkler belongs to the Pan-German party, which holds the balance of power between the Reds and their Fascist enemies. It was the minister of interior who put down the Heimwehr putsch on Sept. 13, when the rest of the Austrian government, which is preponderantly pro-Heimwehr, invited the Fascists to march on Vienna.

Fascists Gun For Him.

The Heimwehr has been gunning for him ever since, and when he visited Graz this week, it is claimed, they planned to murder him and then march on Vienna. Prompt police action squelched the plot.

Feeling between the Reds and Fascists had already taken an ugly turn on Tuesday, when police seized a Socialist arsenal in the heart of Vienna and found 1,000 rifles, machine guns, steel helmets, hand grenades, and enough explosives to blow Vienna off the map.

Claim They Have More Arms.

The Socialists, who control Vienna, boast that the police found but a tiny portion of their arms, of which they claim to have enough to equip fully the schutzbund of 200,000 men. The Socialists point out that the Heimwehr also has important ammunitnon dumps scattered over Austria, which recently have been augmented by machine guns and other equipment sent free from Italy.

Prince Ernst Stahremberg, who maintains his own private army, threatens to march on Vienna unless the Heimwehr's anti-Red program is adopted by the government.

Seize Dynamite in Germany.

HAGEN, Germany, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Police discovered a hundred pounds of dynamite and a quantity of hand grenades and fuses and printed instructions on their use in a concrete lined cellar today. There also was a bundle of communist propaganda. Four communists were arrested.

REFUSED A DRINK, ART EXPERT PLUNGES 20 STORIES TO HIS DEATH

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—James E. D. Catillaz, 38, wealthy antique appraiser, stood with his fiancée early this morning in the apartment of their friend, Harry Russell Balfe, wealthy stock broker, on the twentieth floor of the Hotel Shelton, demanding a drink.

"There isn't a drop in the place," said Balfe, who had objected to the intrusion of the couple.

Catillaz turned to his fiancée, Miss Irma Hunter. With a laugh he ran toward the window and shouted:

"Well, here goes a dive."

Before the broker or the young woman could move to stop him Catillaz leaped out the open window to instant death. He had only 15 cents in his pockets when police recovered his body.

Catillaz's sister, Mrs. J. H. Foster of Brooklyn, who claimed his body, said he had been in poor health for nearly two years and had been particularly melancholy in recent weeks.

Miss Hunter lives with her father and mother at the St. Regis.

The appraiser and Balfe, estranged husband of Helen Meany, Olympic diving champion, had been friends for more than a year.

HOOVER—AND WHAT DEMOCRAT?

If there were any doubts as to Mr. Hoover's intentions regarding a second term they have been set at rest. Postmaster General Brown has made the announcement for his chief. Mr. Hoover is a candidate to succeed himself. There need have been no doubts. Two terms is the natural ambition of the American elected to the presidency. In Mr. Hoover's case the withdrawal of his name from consideration by his party would have been taken as a confession that he thought the character of his administration had made him ineligible for renomination or that the difficulties of the office had worn out his liking for it.

Mr. Hoover's supporters say that his record in trying times has justified all the high expectations entertained of him. They will go to the people with it. There is talk of other candidates in the Republican convention, but not only has the President the natural possession of a great voting strength, the procurement of which rests in the office—in non-Republican states where patronage prevents opposition—but the party would be embarrassed to repudiate an administration and ask for confidence in itself. On the indications now apparent it would seem to be Mr. Hoover in the Republican convention. That, however, does not assure that it will be the Republican party in the November elections.

In the winter book the Democratic candidate would be the favorite. It is plainly another great opportunity for the Democratic party if it can find the candidate. There's a difficulty, but it is not insurmountable. The probability of success would seem to count Smith out. Gov. Roosevelt does not impress the nonpartisan as a strong man or a natural winner. Jim Reed has everything in him to make a champion, but the internal troubles of his party probably are decisively adverse to him. Newton Baker is thoroughly disqualified unless the country is prepared to go Wilsonian again in the biggest way. If it is then all sensible conjectures are crazy. If the American people are leaguists they have been hiding the evidences of it.

Gov. Ritchie has won a great deal of admiration for most of his proposals and doctrines of government. The party has a boiling kettle of domestic troubles, but in politics a chance of success is a great mollifier. Quarrelsome and uncongenial party leaders do not care to have their dissensions spoil their opportunities. This has the appearance of another Democratic year if the Democrats will lay aside their feudal scraps, concentrate upon sound national doctrines, preoccupy themselves with the United States of America and select a candidate whose purposes cannot be questioned.

PERSECUTING BEREAVEMENT.

The boss of the livery chauffeurs' union has ordered the members to stop funeral processions in which there are private cars or cars driven by chauffeurs who haven't joined up. The community has condoned racketeering violence for years and is paying a stiff penalty, but in this order there is a contempt of law and a callous disregard for human feeling which ought to bring something more forceful than protest. The state's attorney has warned the officials of the union and he can be assured of the support of the public in protecting the rights of the citizens from lawless interference.

The tactics of this boss are discreditable to respectable labor and put his racket in a class with ghouls.

HAWAII.

The drawing of the grand jury to which will be submitted the evidence against Lieut. Massie, his mother-in-law, and their sailor associates in the killing of the native rapist brought out the names of ten Caucasians, six Chinese, five Hawaiians or mixed breeds, three Japanese and two Portuguese. A jury so composed will start a doubt that the United States has been going at the problem of government in Hawaii in anything like the right way.

Here is an admixture of races which no sober conservative would expect to work dependably in a system of law, political action or administration. It emerges from divergent origins. It presents a confusion of ideals, traditions and standards. In any time of excitement it must develop all the prejudices dormant in racial diversities, prejudices which are inherently destructive to a judicial system and which make any kind of organization, political or social, difficult to sustain.

It is easy to understand why the rape case broke down when it was tried in a Criminal court if the jury had a composition similar to that of this grand jury. That would explain why the prosecution failed in spite of evidence which should have convicted. The failure almost inevitably led to the execution of one of the accused by private justice. The jury disagreed. If it was one of mixed breeds confronted with the case of natives against whites it could be expected to disagree.

It is not only in administration of law that the problem of such mixtures will be encountered. Politicians must adjust themselves to the desires of the breeds, and that is bound to reduce democracy to its lowest levels. In one of its moments of republican illusion, in 1900, congress declared that all persons who were citizens of the republic of Hawaii in August, 1898, were citizens of the United States. Such illusions have made much trouble for this careless nation. Its ideals betray it to imprudent action.

So long as Hawaii could be regarded as a land of good natured people, singularly well disposed in a climate made for the graces of amiability and easy going contentment, the United States could indulge itself in its favorite theories of equality, but now it is apparent that the theories are under fire and the islands on fire. A report on the advisability of modifications in the administration of Hawaii is plainly needed. It is more than an island possession thrown in the lap of America. It is the naval outpost of the United States in the Pacific.

GOV. SMITH AS PROPHET.

In his Jackson day address former Gov. Smith of New York said that the federal government should float a large bond issue and use the proceeds for immediate construction of public works. He foresaw the objection that to do so would result in an increase in taxation. But, he replied, why not reduce the present expenses of government by consolidating some bureaus and eliminating others.

Mr. Smith is engagingly naïve. He would borrow money to create employment at federal expense for some citizens and he would finance his borrowing by firing other citizens now on the federal pay roll. It is difficult to see where the advantage of such an exchange would lie. As matters stand, thousands of pay rollers are being paid for services which are of little or no value to the taxpayers who must foot the bill. Mr. Smith would discharge these useless public servants and replace them with others engaged in building useless public works. Tweedledum, meet Tweedledee.

Mr. Smith mentioned postoffices as something needed. That is transparent nonsense, as any one must admit who has traveled far enough to see how much money the government has already wasted in building postoffices which exceed the present and future needs of the towns in which they stand. Mr. Smith suggests roads as something else needed, as if excessive road building were not an important cause of the present business depression. He suggests that the bond issue might pay for arterial highways through cities, the only form of road building for which there is genuine need today, but he cannot be so simple as to believe that congress, with its large rural representation in the house and its preponderant rural representation in the senate, would ever indorse an urban road building program.

Mr. Smith says that New York has been unable to care for its 700,000 unemployed. Private charity and state aid together have accomplished, he finds, next to nothing by way of affording relief. He forgets that New York is the richest state in the nation, paying an enormously disproportionate share of the federal income tax. He says, therefore, that what New York taxpayers cannot do as New Yorkers they can do as the largest contributors to the United States treasury.

This kind of thinking is to be explained as the product of a false assumption. Mr. Smith believes with many of his fellow countrymen that the United States government is capable of doing anything that any one asks it to do. He assumes further that the credit of the United States is inexhaustible, which it most certainly is not. As a matter of fact, if the bond issue which Mr. Smith advocates is piled on top of the two billions of deficit and the billion and a half of reconstruction debentures which are now on the program, Mr. Smith's bonds cannot be sold for lack of buyers. He pretends that a patriotic appeal will bring out the money, but that is nothing more than a guess and it is not flattering to the financial good sense of Mr. Smith's fellow countrymen.

PROGRESS OF PROHIBITION IN KANSAS.

A reader calls our attention to an opinion of the Supreme court of Kansas, City of Topeka vs. Haberkorn, containing the following: "With the rule laid down in the opinion (in State vs. Miller) we have no quarrel. It was written in 1914. At that time the business of making intoxicating liquor in the home was not as common as it is today."

The opinion was written by Smith, J., formerly attorney general, of whom it has been said "he made Kansas dry."

Editorial of the Day

WALKER'S LAST SHOT.

[New York Evening Post.]

The richest city in the world is now on its knees begging the federal government for money—thanks to Mayor James J. Walker.

The focal point of peril to financial and political America has been the extravagant borrowing and spending of municipalities. Mayor Walker would now cap that pyramid by having the United States let these wastrels have more cash or credit to play with. No one, in our judgment, could suggest a more evil proposal. No one could think of anything better calculated to lead to inflation and disaster.

Mayor Walker's mismanagement of New York City, his immense and increasing budgets, the graft and corruption shown in almost every one of his departmental staffs have finally brought the city to the point where the investing public will no longer buy its bonds at par. Investors do not consider a Walker-run city a good moral or financial risk.

This is primarily and chiefly the fault of James J. Walker. He knows it. Yet, like a cornered rat, he rushes out and bites anything and everything nearest to hand. First, it was Seabury, the man that exposed him; next, it was Berry, the controller who tried to restrain him; and now it is the banks, whose aid the city had asked, in writing.

In his contortions two things are evident: his slick, quick demagogic ability and his utter lack of fundamental character and brains. Politically, he can outsmart the banks. He can bring against them the lying charge that they are depriving the unemployed of their money. He can call his wrigglings "a fight for humanity." He can stir in New York the first class war that the depression has brought us. And by his reckless slur upon the general soundness of New York banks, he can send a quiver through this already stricken country.

But in the end he will have to accept the inevitable and show a little business sense—all that is really asked of him. This attitude of the bankers, as shown in the firm yet conciliatory statement of Mr. Lamont, will yet force him to behave. His present tactics are the final pitiful shot in his locker.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THREE CHEERS; WE'RE GETTING ON! First Gov. Ritchie stepped right out and said that he wanted the White House job. Then Gov. Roosevelt came along and either admitted or confessed that he was quite willing to move to Washington. Next Mr. Hoover, through the postmaster general, said he would be willing to succeed himself. And Mr. Smith expresses a willingness to be drafted. Or, at least, he will not regard people who vote for him in the Democratic primaries as deadly enemies. All of which is encouraging. It did look for a while as though all our great men were too modest to admit that they wouldn't mind being elected President. As, at that time, Gov. Ritchie was the only one who said right out that he would jump at the job like a triffic cop leaping at a bird who has driven through a red light, it looked as though the President job would go to Gov. Ritchie by default. But now we have a choice of several candidates, and we are further gratified that our statesmen are willing to sacrifice their modesty for their country's good.

SONNETS IN A SEQUENCE.

VIII.

Frail shadowy dreamers of undying dreams,
O long-lost guardians of the sacred fire,
Within what groves, beside what lonely streams
Are left the broken strings of that lost lyre
That on the years its mighty music flung,
Its mightier music than the years could quell,
And drew, what time th' unwilling hinge was swung,
Beauty unscathed from out the gates of Hell?
Your paths I have forgotten, and no more
Seek after that I sought my whole life long;
I am content upon a quiet shore
With one delight, one memory, one song,
Lightly forgetting what it is to dwell
In starry fields serene with asphodel.

ADD "GOOD NEWS OF GOOD TIMES," "Glad Tiding of Great Joy," "Prosperity Comes Out from Around the Corner," and "It Hain't a Goin' to Rain No Mo'." Babe Ruth refuses a salary of $70,000 for a season's engagement playing baseball. Yessir, when a fellow citizen of this great commonwealth can afford to kick seventy thousand bucks in the pants and say he won't play unless they hand him eighty thousand berries we're not going to believe any more in the so-called depression. There is no such animal! We're going right out and buy us a steam yacht, a twenty-four cylinder car, a radio set of perfumed cedar of Lebanon with diamonds all over it, a new overcoat lined with sable, and a plate of ham and eggs. Whoopee! Come here, you prosperity, and sit in our lap!

Her clothes are Lanvin, Vionnet, or Paul Poiret.
Her words go far out of their way to be risqué.
She fishes for adventures with a safety pin
And wonders why she only pulls a minnow in . . .

Give parties so she'll always know a place to go,
You are her friend until some day she sees that you
Are tiring of the pace—and finds somebody new.

THE AUTO-LIVERY CHAUFFEURS who won't drive in a funeral parade if private cars are in line are just helping kill the old goose that laid the golden eggs. Time was when it was the ambition of every true-born American to have a finer funeral and a longer parade than anybody else who died on his street during the last twenty years. The big funeral idea started back in the barbaric age, and the more civilized men got the more the pomp and display at their funerals. There's been a decided change in fashionable funerals the last few years, though. India has even given up the cherished custom of burning widows at their husbands' funerals, and with us we stopped the garish avalanche of flowers even at bootleggers' funerals. With cremation becoming more and more popular, the simplicity of funerals becomes more marked every day. There is still heard a murmur of protest against a funeral that is as simple and quiet as it is possible to make it. The old idea, "I'll have a fine funeral," still struggles to survive, but it's on the way out. The funeral chauffeurs' action will help. We'll get used to small funeral parades, and the tendency will be to make them smaller and smaller, until finally there won't be any at all. Which won't make us mad. When we move out of this world we'd like to evaporate. But as we can't do that we want to leave so quietly that the government will be chasing after us for our income tax for days and weeks and months before it finds out.

DR. ALLEN SINCLAIR WILL of Columbia university is aghast that the spoken language in these United States is receding into "the jargon of the jungle." Among the grewsome objects the doc exhibited to prove his statement were "O, yeah," "okay," and "didja." Oh, doc, it's more horrible than that. Wait until somebody, instead of answering "Oh, very well," or "All right" to something you have said, answers thus: "Okey dokey." Oh, doc, not even the fiendish head hunters in the very darkest jungles of darkest Borneo would jargon "okey dokey."

YET WE MUST LOVE.

Some day you will forget
That every word we spoke today was half divine,
And that your spirit soared
To heights untold, close linked with mine.

Some day you'll stand
And look at me with cold, unseeing eyes,
While my poor heart
Shrinks in this shell of mine, and dies.

ATMOSPHERIC POLLUTION.

THE subject of atmospheric pollution by smoke and its effect on health continues to be a live subject in Pittsburgh. In a November meeting of the Allegheny County Medical society H. B. Miller of the bureau of smoke regulation told the doctors of the amount of smoke in the air and some of its effects.

The amount of solid matter which will fall out of the air, added to that which is washed down by rain and snow yearly, varies from 200 tons for each square mile of a good, clean residential city district to 2,000 tons per square mile in an industrial and switch track district.

Pittsburgh in 1930 was about a thousand tons per square mile, equivalent to about three tons on each city block 300 feet square. That seems like a lot of fuel to waste when many people are cold. At that, this is only the coarse stuff and does not include the cinders, clinkers, and heavy particles that cannot float long.

Other thousands of tons of products of combustion and pollution are in the air as gases and fine floating particles capable of remaining indefinitely in the air and of rising high and being carried long distances. Much of the harm is done by one of these gases, the sulphur fumes. None of this polluting substance enters into the tables of weights given by those who could weigh and measure solid particles.

Mr. Miller holds that soot, smoke and dust in the general atmosphere does not bring about consumption in the inhabitants of a city. The Pittsburgh consumption rate is low. It does cause pneumonia and common colds. He goes into the anatomical and physiological reasons why dirt in the lungs predisposes a person to pneumonia and interferes with his recovery from the disease.

These were the conclusions of a report made in Pittsburgh 20 years ago, and they are in substantial accord with other reports made from other parts of the world:

Polluted air is responsible for fogs and clouds. These shut out the sunshine. In consequence, smoky air makes thus indirectly for rickets. It has been established that persons with rickets are nervous, jumpy, on edge, and also that they are prone to become infected by pneumonia, colds, sore throats, or whatever other infection comes along. Growing children especially are harmed by this effect of air pollution. And, finally, cloud, fog and dark days cause depression of spirit.

BUGS IN THE FLOUR.

Mrs. A. B. asks: It seems that in any cereal, flour, and even boxes of raisins I find small insects about the size of an ant. They are almost dark brown in color. In the flour there are small white worms. My flour is kept in a can, always covered tightly. The cereal is kept in the ice box.

REPLY.

There are at least a dozen insects that have their habitat in flour, meal, and cereals. The present methods of milling and marketing flours and cereals are based in part on the danger that weevils will develop in the article after it leaves the manufacturer and before it reaches the consumer. That is one reason for white flour rather than whole wheat flour, desquamated meals, sealed packages, and so on. The insects hatch from eggs laid in the grain or cereal. These moths, weevils, and worms are harmless but they are not nice. Report your findings to your grocer.

TOO MUCH CONDIMENTS.

J. R. writes: Is candied orange peel harmful? Many people have told me that it is.

REPLY.

Not particularly so if eaten in small quantities. It is a confection or candy containing a moderate amount of the oil of the peel. This is a condiment. Too much candy may be harmful. The same is true of condiments.

REMEDY FOR SNEEZING.

W. P. T. writes: I used to have very disagreeable sneezing spells lasting sometimes two hours, and other times all day. During one of these spells I tried inhaling old fashioned smelling salts with good results. Since then I have carried a bottle of smelling salts with me. If I start sneezing I take a snuff of the salts.

POLICEWOMAN AND POLICE MATRON.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please give me some information in regard to obtaining a position as policewoman or police matron? I am 30, about 6 feet tall, an American citizen, and have lived in Chicago the last fifteen years. L. A.

No examination is scheduled for the positions of policewoman and police matron. We have, however, placed the name of the writer on our mailing list for notification of these examinations when called. The rules at this time require that applicants for these positions at the time of examination must be not less than 30 nor more than 45 years of age, not less than 5 feet nor more than 5 feet 9 inches in height (in bare feet), weighing not less than 115 pounds nor more than 180 pounds, and with weight and measurements proportionate to height. Applicants must pass a medical examination and meet such physical standards and tests as shall be prescribed by the commission.

JAMES S. OSBORNE, Secretary,
Civil Service Commission.

MUST HAVE ABSTRACT.

Elgin, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I hold two lots in Chicago which I acquired from my deceased brother through quit claim deeds. The purchasing titles held by my brother could not be located when he died in 1921. What must I do to get merchantable title so I can sell same? E. A. C.

It may be that your title is now merchantable. But in order to convince a purchaser you would need an abstract. You can get a preliminary idea by examining the tract index in the recorder's office.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CAR STOPS.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—Do you suppose you could do a favor for the irate citizens who wish to board the northbound Stony Island cars at 73d and Stony Island? The post on the north side of 73d street has the usual white mark, but the motormen will not stop for us. They expect us to walk half a block south, cross street car and railroad tracks, and stand in the mud. This makes us miss these cars which only run "now and then." W. P. K.

An inspector assigned to investigate this complaint reports that an occasional car failed to stop for persons awaiting service. We are assured by the management of the Chicago Surface Lines that the necessary corrective measures have been taken to insure the proper stopping of cars at this point for intending passengers.

JEFFREY A. O'CONNOR,
Commissioner of Public Service.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

This nation has had other serious financial depressions, as the following excerpts from The Tribune files reveal. Each of these periods of hard times has been followed by periods of great prosperity.

1873.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 18.—The prospects of a hard winter in Paterson, N. J., are increasing. The number of men thrown out of employment the last two weeks exceeds 2,000. Small dealers supplying necessities to the families of these idle men are finding great difficulty in meeting their obligations and many of them will be ruined unless the workshops speedily resume. Wages in Camden, N. J., woolen mills have been reduced 20 per cent.

1893.

Editorial, Oct. 4.—A senator says "the cause of the present business disturbance in the country is the fear of hostile tariff legislation. The Democratic party is standing, torch in hand, to fire the industrial interests of the country. Is it any wonder that with such a threat mills and factories have closed?" It is easy to find out how much truth there is in this. Repeal the silver purchase clauses and buy some gold to reinforce the scanty reserve fund and wait a few weeks or so to see what the effect is. If no factories and mills reopen and the streets are filled with idle men demanding bread, then it will be manifest that fears of hostile tariff legislation have profound and widespread effect. But if mills and factories now closed reopen, then it will be apparent that the Sherman law was a great factor in causing the present business depression. Should all factories reopen it would evidently be the sole factor for the present hard times.

1907.

New York, Nov. 15.—Led by New York Central, United States Steel, and the Harriman Pacifics, the share market today moved downward so steadily that general stocks made new low levels for the year.

Chicago, April 1.—Wage cuts affecting 25,000 employés of the Western Electric company's manufacturing plants will go into effect Monday.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 16, 1916.

NEW YORK. — Four men were killed and ten others injured, five of them dangerously, by an explosion on the submarine E-2 while the craft was undergoing repairs in dry dock at the New York navy yard. One of the men killed was an enlisted electrician and the other three civilian workers. At least three of the ten now in hospitals are not expected to live. The dead were R. R. Seaber, electrician, second class; James H. Peck, civilian; J. P. Schultz, civilian, and Joseph Logan, civilian. The cause of the explosion has not been decided. It is hinted that some outside hand may have been responsible.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Great Britain plans to put in effect within the next week or so blockade policies which will cut Germany off from all intercourse by sea with the remainder of the world—shutting off the importation of all supplies. The starvation policy, according to information received here, will provide for a physical blockade by Britain's fleet and submarines of all German ports, not only on the North sea but in the Baltic. This action has been demanded by British press and public for months. Evidence that the British government already has set in motion the machinery by which this result is to be accomplished has been unofficially communicated to Washington.

EL PASO, Tex.—Rioting between United States soldiers and Mexicans at Fort Hancock, Tex., yesterday caused an appeal from citizens there to the sheriff at El Paso for police protection. Civilians and soldiers were "cleaning out" the Mexicans. A half dozen deputies with sawed off shotguns were sent by automobile from El Paso under instructions to quell the disorder.

ROME.—The Montenegrin authorities officially deny that Montenegro ever adhered to or intends to adhere to any separate proposal of peace or to any armistice with Austria. It is declared that King Nicholas and his army and people will continue to fight to the last man.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A special meeting of the isthmian canal commission will be held tomorrow for the express purpose of considering the latest proposition of the French people to sell their rights in the Panama canal for the lump sum of $40,000,000. There is every reason to believe that the commission, which already has reported in favor of the Nicaragua route across the isthmus, will now change its mind and report in favor of the Panama canal line.

PERU, Ind.—Hallucination led Engineer J. E. Sible and Fireman Burt Frick to jump from the cab of the locomotive drawing the speeding Wabash limited. The engineer is dying. The danger which impelled him to jump was imaginary. Unnerved by recent wrecks, he thought the switch lights at Attica, Ind., were turned, and warned his fireman to jump. The fireman was not injured.

CHICAGO.—Superintendent of Police O'Neill gave fair notice to the members of the Policemen's Protective association either to quit the organization or expect trouble. The chief's order stated that he regarded the organization as a menace to the morals and good discipline of the department.

A CONTRAST.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—When practicing the art of noble snooping in looking after the morals of white men and women Uncle Sam's plugugles shoot down innocent people or beat to death a young man offering a glass of wine to his sweetheart at their pre-nuptial celebration, the administration at Washington immediately uses the strong right arm of the federal government to prevent a trial in the local court where justice might be meted out to the offender, arbitrarily takes the case before a federal judge and sends special government attorneys to use their influence on the jury for the acquittal of the lowest type of man walking the streets. All because, I presume, the dignity of the great and noble experiment must be upheld.

But when another of Uncle Sam's servants, devoting his life in the honorable service of the navy, is accused of shooting one of a gang accused of raping his young wife and beating her nearly to death under the very eyes of our naval station in Hawaii, the government's strong right arm cannot reach that far. The young man, being only a sailor inspired by the noblest instinct of a white man to defend the honor of his bride, must be left to the mercies of a jury of half-caste South Sea islanders and orientals who do not care a rap for the white man's code of morals.

A government that has unlimited funds at its disposal to procure young girls to be taken into speakeasy dives that they might the more easily buy a pint of gin for evidence, but will not use its power to defend the honor of its women, nor the lives of the men who are compelled to do so single handed, for fear of arousing race hatred in its far off possession, cannot expect respect there and is not entitled to it at home. The administration could not hear the cries of outraged white women in Hawaii and took notice only after a congressional resolution called for an investigation; but watch them rush to the defense of the next sanctimonious snooper who shoots down a man he thinks might have a pint of gin.

ED CAMPBELL.

CONDITIONS IN HAWAII.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—I don't know where the writer of the editorial "Conditions in Hawaii" obtained his ideas about the Hawaiian islands, but I know one thing and that is that he has been gravely misinformed, or has been to see too many movies.

I am a white boy, was born and raised in Hawaii, and am now attending the Northwestern university medical school. I know conditions in Hawaii and for this reason nothing has made me more disgusted than to read the erroneous statements concerning Hawaii which have been published in THE TRIBUNE during the last three or four weeks.

This false statement [one of the many contained therein] appeared in the above mentioned editorial, "Unless there is prompt and drastic correction Hawaii will have to be put back under American rule with a federal governor backed by whatever forces the circumstances require." Well, the truth of the situation is that Hawaii has been under American rule since 1898, and has had a federal governor since that time, who has more power than any one in the U. S. A. with the exception of the President.

There isn't any race conflict in Hawaii; in fact, Hawaii prides itself on having had no race conflicts, with a population of about 350,000 comprised of practically every race on the face of the earth. The source of all this trouble now brewing in Hawaii, which is not half as bad as it is painted, is the American sailor. The female population of Honolulu [white, oriental and Hawaiian] is more afraid of the uniform of an American sailor coming down a dark street than it is of a civilian. Why is it that only the wives of service men have been attacked, and not the thousands of white girls and women who live in Honolulu? It is because the service men refuse to leave the Honolulu girls alone.

I could write page after page about the false ideas you North American Americans have about the Hawaiian islands and the people there, but I must limit myself in this column. Many people fail to realize that the Hawaiian islands are more important to the United States than many of its own individual states in many respects.

The idea of a senate investigation made me laugh. However, I guess there are a few senators and their friends who have been longing for a trip to Hawaii. I can assure them that they will have a pleasant voyage and that they will enjoy the hospitality, climate and scenery of the Paradise isles—how I do envy them.

RODNEY T. WEST.

POISONOUS REPTILES.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 11.—I was taught in school that there were no poisonous reptiles in the Hawaiian islands. But this seems no longer true.

How can it be said that Lieut. Massie "failed to let the law take its course"? He has been more than patient and apparently gave the law as administered in the island every chance, and its course seems to have been to let these beasts go free.

Probably thousands of our fool extremists will rush to the defense of these savages and overlook the terrible tragedy that has come to Lieut. and Mrs. Massie and the other decent white people involved. I say that Mrs. Fortescue is a noble mother and the enlisted men are of the type needed in the United States navy. Too bad these officers and men and their like have to spend much of their lives in protecting these island possessions. I wish we would wash our hands of the whole lot, Philippines, Cuba and all, with the definite provision that they become free and independent and make it final, and never expect to look to the United States for commercial or physical protection.

I commend you for publishing Admiral Stirling's report on the matter. It is sufficient evidence for any decent minded person.

LOUISA LEE (MRS. GLEN) MACCODDAM.

THE ONE CHRISTIAN NATION.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Jan. 10.—It would be interesting to read an editorial in a representative paper on this subject: The frantic gestures which are being made towards international peace before solving the problem of internal peace. Can thinking persons really believe that we can have international peace while the nations are on a competitive basis, and can the nations cease to be on a competitive basis among each other while each within its own borders is being eaten alive with a competition as deadly as though it still took place in the jungle? There is only one Christian nation on earth—that is, one which practices Christianity, while refusing to preach it. THE TRIBUNE loses no opportunity to slash at that nation.

GANGSTER FACES COURT TODAY ON TRAFFIC CHARGE

Quinlan Gives Bond After Stay in Jail.

Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, gangster and south side beer distributor, posted real estate to cover bonds of $1,000 set on each of two charges of reckless driving yesterday afternoon and was released from the Chicago Lawn police station. He will be arraigned before Judge Frank M. Padden in the Speeders' court today.

Quinlan had been held since early yesterday when his auto crashed into a safety island at 65th street and Ashland avenue, and critically injured two persons. His bond was furnished by Mrs. Agnes Kavanaugh, 7544 South Shore drive, who scheduled a two story building at 8150-52 Merrill avenue.

Victims Seriously Injured.

The victims of the accident were reported seriously injured. Mrs. Julia Borkovic, 42 years old, 6506 Justine street, whose legs were crushed, was in the St. Bernard's hospital. Her husband, James, 45 years old, whose skull was fractured, is in the Englewood hospital.

Four automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday increased the toll since Jan. 1 to 53. The victims:

Shipara Yudelson, 56 years old, of 4900 North St. Louis avenue. Died last night at her home two hours after she had been struck by the automobile of Miss Elinor Galoschan, 19 years old, of 2050 Sheffield avenue, at St. Louis and Lawrence avenues. Her injuries appeared slight and she was taken home. Police said it was possible she was suffering from heart disease and the shock was fatal.

Walter Doemling, 9 years old, 52 West 113th street. Died in the Roseland Community hospital of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was hit by an automobile driven by a 17 year old girl. The accident occurred in front of 11353 Michigan avenue. The girl, Johanna Essenberg, 36 West 110th street, was released on her own bond by Kensington police.

John Scharnak, 50 years old, 1735 McReynolds street. Died in the county hospital from a skull fracture. Presumably the victim of a hit and run motorist, he was found in an unconscious condition at 39th street and Albany avenue early yesterday.

Mrs. Eula McClarty, 49 years old, colored, 1214 Hasting street. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered on Dec. 30 when she was run down in front of 1345 Blue Island avenue. The driver was John J. Jankobsky, 2659 South Central Park avenue.

Son of Fire Chief Hurt.

Jack Phillip, 15 years old, 1539 Schilling avenue, Chicago Heights, son of Fire Chief Malcolm Phillip of that suburb, was seriously injured yesterday when he was struck at 161st street and Western avenue by an automobile driven by Louis Zahn, 1424 South Avers avenue. At the Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey it was said the youth's skull was fractured.

Girl Fails to Prosecute Youths; Ordered Seized

Municipal Judge J. William Brooks yesterday ordered police to search for Miss Anna Kahn, 21 years old, 1534 South Sawyer avenue, when she failed to appear to testify against two youths whom she had charged with rape. The prisoners, John Tominello, 21 years old, 2802 Wallace street, and Joe Guski, 20 years old, 616 West 26th street, have also been identified as bandits.

ITALY LAUNCHES DRIVE TO PURIFY HER LANGUAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 15.—"Chauffeurs" were abolished in Italy today by order of the Fascist National Confederation of Transport Syndicates in the interest of protecting the purity of the Italian language.

Objections were made to the French origin of the word "chauffeur." Hereafter, those who drive taxis will be called "autoisti." Others who drive automobiles will be called "automobilisti" to distinguish them from professional drivers.

Barbers and tailors who have gone in for foreign names are next.

CAREFUL BANKER MARKS 60 YEARS WITH SAME FIRM

Declares Dry Law Repeal Will Help Country.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—A man who was a banker before telephones, typewriters, and stenographers became standard office equipment, today celebrated his eightieth birthday and the sixtieth anniversary of his connection with the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company. He is John Van Buren Thayer, senior vice president of his institution, and he credits his years of success to the fact that he is "no lightning calculator, but pretty careful."

Upon being congratulated for having lived in sound health to a ripe age in New York, Mr. Thayer replied: "No, credit it to Brooklyn."

An Illuminated Parchment.

The banker makes his home across the bridge. He spends a lot of time in Brooksvale, Conn., but he passes the most of his time in his office on lower Broadway. Today he proudly exhibited an illuminated parchment presented to him by his fellow workers. The manuscript pleased him greatly because it described banking as a careful business and Mr. Thayer as a "careful banker."

Mr. Thayer has seen depressions and panics come and go during the years he has sat behind a banker's desk. On his 79th anniversary he described the panic of 1907 as the worst of seven panics he had weathered. Today he said the present depression is worse than anything in his experience, because there is more suffering.

"I am," said Mr. Thayer, "in favor of balancing the federal budget in the shortest possible time, no matter what hardships we may have to endure. I am in favor of taking the postoffice department out of the red, and I believe the repeal of the 18th amendment, if followed by proper restrictive legislation, would be a benefit to our country."

Refrains from Predictions.

Last year Mr. Thayer expressed the opinion that "the worst is over and before many more months the tide will have turned." On his 80th birthday he refrained from predictions.

In recalling early financial days, the banker said that his first financial transaction was a complete failure.

"I was sent to the corner grocery," he said, "with a glass pitcher and a silver dime to get a quart of milk. I paid for the milk and received a 3 cent piece in change. On the way home I fell, bit my tongue, spilt the milk, and swallowed the coin. The catastrophe was depressing in the extreme."

No Intention of Retiring.

Mr. Thayer recalled the great blizzard in 1889, when he waded through snowdrifts waist deep to get to the bank. He was one of six to show up that day. He said he was fond of his desk and his job and that he had no intention of retiring "until my colleagues tell me they do not need me any more or until I find myself unable to do the work."

Born in Buffalo, Mr. Thayer gained his initial business experience with an insurance company that collapsed as a result of the Chicago fire. He came to Brooklyn in January, 1872, and obtained a job as a clerk with the old Union Trust company. He has remained with the company continuously since and rose to the vice presidency in 1903. He has served under four presidents, through mergers and depressions, and has seen his bank grow from a small institution to one of the largest.

FLU INCREASES HERE; BUNDESEN LISTS THE 'DON'TS'

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday that the number of reported cases of influenza in the city is on the increase. Forty-one cases were reported on Jan. 12, while there was only one case reported on Jan. 10.

Of the forty-one cases, Dr. Bundesen said, thirty-seven came from the 2,000 men housed on North Union avenue by the governor's emergency relief commission. All the patients are isolated and the Chicago board of health is keeping in close touch with the situation, the commissioner said.

Dispatches from London have reported an influenza epidemic and 412 deaths in England and Wales from the disease last week.

Dr. Bundesen issued the following precautionary measures against influenza:

"Don't shut out the fresh air. Live outdoors as much as possible.

"Don't associate with people who have colds, and keep out of crowds as much as possible. Don't wear wet clothing; keep your feet dry.

"Don't over-exert; get plenty of sleep, exercise regularly.

"Don't neglect a cold."

Woman Found Guilty of Theft; Put on Probation

Mrs. Jean Brusstar, 116 Nuttall road, Riverside, was found guilty of petit larceny by Judge Joseph David in the Criminal court yesterday and placed on a year's probation. She is alleged to have taken glassware valued at $12 from a gift shop at 606 North State street on Sept. 13. The complainant in the case was Mrs. Jeanne Campbell, owner of the shop. Mrs. Campbell testified that Mrs. Brusstar, accompanied by her husband, Paul Edouard Brusstar, a costume designer, came into her store while she was lying ill in the rear of the place. When the Brusstars had gone she discovered the glassware was missing. Brusstar was found not guilty.

Allows Search of Burning Building Without Warrant

Police do not need a search warrant to enter a burning building, Municipal Judge George B. Holmes ruled yesterday. He overruled a motion to suppress the evidence against Patsy Guinda, 50 year old, 1257 Taylor street, and sentenced Guinda to 180 days in the Bridewell for possessing a still and five gallons of alcohol. Police arrested Guinda when the still exploded and set fire to his house.

U. S. BROADCASTS ARE BLOCKED BY MEXICO STATION

Dill Asks Treaties to Aid Americans.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.] today called upon the state department to arrange an international agreement with Cuba, Mexico, and Canada for allocation of radio wave lengths.

Dill asserted a powerful radio station recently established in Mexico by John Brinkley, a former operator of a Kansas station, who was denied a license by the radio commission, was interfering greatly with broadcasting in the United States.

"Stations WSB in Atlanta and W-G-N in Chicago," Dill said, "find they can't be heard any distance from their home cities without interference from this station in Mexico."

Dill referred to Brinkley as "a man whose use of radio facilities was so objectionable that he was put off the air" and said that on crossing the Mexican line he had established a 75,000 watt station, more powerful than any in the United States, which is interfering greatly with American broadcasting.

Dill charged a "kind of racket" has sprung up under which scheming interests organize a station in Mexico and then go to a great American station, say they intend to broadcast on or near their wave length and ask "how much they will give" to keep them off the air.

THOS. KEARNEY, NOTED RACINE LAWYER, DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Racine, Wis., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Thomas M. Kearney, Democratic leader and one of the best known lawyers in Wisconsin and the middle west, died suddenly of heart disease in his home here late today. He was Democratic candidate for United States senator in 1916. He was chairman of the state committee for several years. Mr. Kearney was 76 years old.

He was a member of the board of Nash Motors, was president of the Montana Coal and Iron company, and until his resignation a few days ago was chairman of the board of the American Trades and Savings bank, Racine.

Mr. Kearney is survived by his widow, Katherine; a son, Thomas Kearney Jr., who was associated with him in the practice of law here, and two daughters, Mrs. James Rood, Park Ridge, Ill., and Miss Katherine Kearney of Milwaukee.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 9 a. m. at St. Rose Catholic church in Racine.

Mrs. William S. Buckie of La Grange Dies in West

Word was received in Chicago yesterday of the death on Thursday in Los Angeles of Mrs. Minnie Ryan Buckie, 63 years old, 172 North Washington street, La Grange. She was the wife of William S. Buckie, president of the John S. Buckie & Sons company, 714 South Clark street, manufacturers of printing rollers. Her husband and three children, Margaret, Roy S. and William B. Buckie Jr., survive. The body will be brought to Chicago for burial.

James McGeean, Father of Police Veteran, Dies at 86

James McGeean, 86 years old, father of Edward E. McGeean, veteran police operator at the Warren avenue station, and of the late Police Lieut. Joseph McGeean, died yesterday in his residence at 4247 Wilcox street. Mr. McGeean for many years served as a station agent of the rapid transit lines. Funeral services will be held at 10:15 a. m. Monday in St. Mel's Catholic church, with burial following at Mount Carmel cemetery.

Sadie Blanche Farwell Funeral to Be Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Sadie Blanche Farwell, wife of Charles J. Farwell, for many years a blank book manufacturer and printer, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the chapel at 2324 West 111th street. CHAS. M. OELRICHS DIES AT HIS NEWPORT HOME, AGED 73 YEARS

Newport, R. I., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Charles M. Oelrichs, member of a socially prominent family, died today at his Kay street residence after an illness of two months. He was 73 years old and had been in failing health for some time. Recently a son, Harry Oelrichs, was summoned from Los Angeles, and was at his bedside today, as were two other children, Mrs. Harrison Tweed and Charles de Loosey Oelrichs of New York.

His wife, Mrs. Blanche de Loosey Oelrichs, and his sister, Mrs. Richard Henderson of New York, also survive. Another daughter, the duchess of Mecklenberg, died last year.

Charles M. Oelrichs was born in Baltimore on Aug. 27, 1858, son of the late Henry Oelrichs.

Mrs. Oelrichs, whom he married at New York in 1880, is the daughter of the late Chevalier and Mrs. Charles de Loosey of New York. Their fifty-second wedding anniversary was yesterday. Mrs. Oelrichs was a sister of the late Mrs. Theodore Havemeyer.

Mrs. Tweed, their daughter, is known professionally as Michael Strange, and is the former wife of John Barrymore and of Leonard M. Thomas.

RADICALS RUSH NEW YORK CITY HALL; REPULSED

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Five hundred communists who tried to get into City Hall park through a line of 200 patrolmen and twenty mounted policemen this afternoon were repulsed without any serious damage, but with a good deal of noise and singing.

The communists marched on the city hall to demand that the board of estimate open home relief stations, a form of an unemployment relief that had been held up because of the lack of available funds, but which was started yesterday when money became available.

Most of the crowd gathered on the Broadway side of City Hall park and with shouting and snatches of the "Internationale" attempted to get through the police line and rush the city hall itself.

There were several fist fights, but no serious outbursts. Finally the crowd was dispersed.

The demonstration attracted a crowd estimated at 10,000 persons.

Foes of Bolshevik Rule Seized on Latvian Border

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 15.—Lettish frontier guards report that fourteen men holding Polish, German, Hungarian, and Rumanian passports were arrested at the Latvian frontier when they attempted to smuggle anti-bolshevik proclamations into Russia. The circulars called upon the inhabitants to overturn the soviet government and destroy communism. The proclamations were printed in Germany. After serving six weeks in prison the propaganda agents will be expelled from Latvia.

Woman Shot 6 Weeks Ago; Just Finds Out About It

Washington Courthouse, O., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Luther Long is over her headaches, and minus a bullet in her head. Suffering for six weeks from headaches, Mrs. Long consulted a physician last night. An examination revealed a .22 caliber bullet under the scalp. It was removed. She was unable to explain how she was shot.

Bank Official Ends Life 3 Days After Resigning

Akron, O., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Gilbert R. Edgar, 40, until Tuesday a vice president of the First Central Trust company, shot and killed himself last night, Coroner M. B. Crafts announced today. Authorities said Edgar's affairs were in good condition.

How Modern Women Lose Pounds of Fat Swiftly — Safely

Gain Physical Vigor — Youthfulness With Clear Skin and Vivacious Eyes That Sparkle With Glorious Health

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes—in 4 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—your eyes sparkle with glorious health—you feel younger in body — keener in mind. Kruschen will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts—the cost is trifling and it lasts 4 weeks. If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money gladly returned.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drug store in the world.

TWO SAY STORY ACCUSING LUCAS WAS FABRICATED

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Myrtle Mercer and Oma Johnson, who gave testimony that helped to send Jesse Lucas of Mount Carmel to prison for twenty-three years for murder, today told the state pardon board that their testimony at the trial was false.

Lucas was released when George Pond, on his death bed in an Indiana village, recently confessed to the murder of Clyde Showalter, for which Lucas was convicted. Lucas is now seeking restoration of his rights as a citizen.

Both women said that Ben Moore, then sheriff of Wabash county, had put them in jail at Mount Carmel until they agreed to tell "carefully rehearsed" stories at the trial.

Myrtle Mercer [now Mrs. Myrtle Ozee of Mount Vernon] today told the pardon board that "The sheriff said to me, 'You want to keep your baby, don't you?' So I agreed to say what they wanted. They drilled me in it just like I were a child at school," she added.

Oma Johnson also said she told a story that was prepared for her.

Lucas was at the hearing today, so was T. W. Showalter of Kansas City, brother of the slain man, who so far he has opposed a pardon to Lucas.

Held for Killing Woman in Religious Argument

Clearwater, Fla., Jan. 15.—(AP)—W. W. Smithpeters, of Tarpon Springs, must face trial on a charge of first degree murder for the slaying of Rose Kelly, Sheboygan, Michigan, widow, during a religious argument. A grand jury returned a murder indictment against Smithpeters, late yesterday. The defendant recently was given a sanity hearing, but the finding of the alienists has not been announced.

SCHOOL BOARD WARRANTS WAIT ON CITY COUNCIL

Unless there is a special meeting of the city council meantime, creditors of the school board will have to wait until after January 28 for the small denomination tax anticipation warrants which are being prepared, it was said yesterday by Thomas V. Sullivan, school board attorney. The warrants require the signature of the mayor and a city ordinance is necessary, Mr. Sullivan pointed out, to authorize a proxy to do this wark.

Meantime warrants aggregating about $11,500,000 have been engraved in amounts ranging from $50 to $5,000. Preparations are being made for their distribution to teachers and others through regular pay roll channels, with a downtown office for the actual delivery of the warrants.

URGES FARMERS TO GET TOGETHER UNDER ONE HEAD

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—A plea for farmers of the nation to unite their organizations under a single head was made by Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, in an address read by his assistant, R. W. Dunlap, at the closing sessions of the thirty-fourth farm and home week of the University of Illinois today. Over 3,000 Illinois farmers and their wives were in attendance.

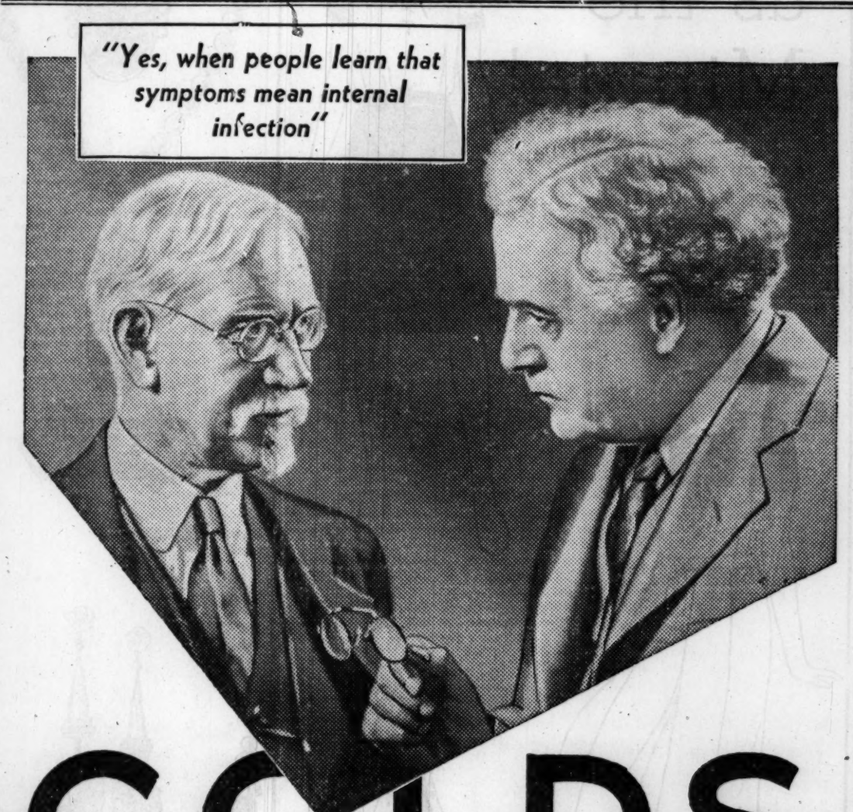
The secretary was credited by farm leaders as directing his remarks at the apparent failure of the three largest farm organizations to agree on legislation in congress again the last few weeks. In the fall the American Farm Bureau federation, National Grange and Farmers' Union had announced a "united front" but failed to stick together on their attitude toward the federal farm board in Washington last week. Less than one million farmers are now paid up members of one or more of these national bodies, it was said here today.

Charles A. Ewing, president of the National Live Stock Marketing association, told Illinois farmers in a livestock conference that "unregulated production and disorderly marketing are costing us millions of dollars annually."

Mild Weather in Canada Ruins Ice Cutting Business

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 15.—A leading Canadian industry during January and February lies prostrate today owing to the continued mild weather. That is the ice cutting industry. At this time of the year hundreds of men are usually employed in cutting ice on the rivers for use of the citizens during the ensuing summer. This winter, however, there is no ice of the required thickness.



COLDS

must be broken up from within

Science has never been able to isolate the cold germ . . . the infection is termed ultravirus—a poison-producing substance that spreads through the system causing the well-known outward symptoms. But treating the symptoms cannot stop inward infection.

Many years of world-wide experience proves that Bromo Quinine tablets destroy this ultravirus and eliminate it from the system—quickly and completely.

Remember, inward infection can be driven out only from within.

You can depend on this safe, proved remedy for colds.

POLICE PERSIST AT DOOR; SEIZE 200 AS GAMBLERS

Sergt. David Levin and his squad of detectives from the state's attorney's office pursued two suspicious appearing youths through streets and alleys in the Fillmore district on Thursday afternoon. The youths ran up a flight of stairs at 815 North Cicero avenue. On the second floor the policemen were blocked by a heavy wooden door equipped with a peep hole.

Sergt. Levin and his men hammered on the door until the peep hole was opened and a man, who said he was Joseph Greenspahn, looked through. Greenspahn said he was sorry but he was unable to admit policemen.

Yesterday Sergt. Levin and his squad returned, armed with axes, and battered down the door. Inside were 200 men who had been playing dice games and betting on the races. Greenspahn, who is the owner, the men said, had left through a window when the battering began. Although the suspects were not among those present, the squad called for six police patrols and took the men to the Fillmore street station.

LAST YEAR'S WIFE

By ALICE M. WILLIAMSON

SYNOPSIS.

Lorne Carlton and Dick Farrow, popular moving picture stars of Hollywood, sail for Europe on a delayed honeymoon after a year's happy marriage. Lorne is sad about leaving, as she has an undefinable presentiment of trouble, but Dick is anxious for the adventure. Dick's parents are famous on the stage, Lorne, who fought her way through poverty to the heights, feels that she is not approved by the elder Farrows. Dolores, the Duchess of Crowninshield, a friend of Dick's parents, has invited the young couple to be her guests in London. She is divorced from the duke, but is one of England's most important hostesses. From the first moment of their meeting Dick is a willing captive of the beautiful and charming duchess. Dolores has a huge program arranged for their entertainment. Lorne carries on a silent tug-of-war to hold her husband.

INSTALLMENT XII.

DIVORCE ARRANGEMENTS.

At night, or rather in the early dawn, they came home tired—or Dick pretended to be tired—and each one, as he said, "hit the hay" as soon as possible. This time, however, Lorne forced a change of program by tapping, pushing open Dick's all but closed door, and walking in upon him. He was sprawled in a deep chair by the window but was not looking out.

There was only the light of a shaded bedside lamp in the room to aid the dusk of a rainy, gray dawn, but Lorne, at the door, saw the sad, deep-set eyes turn to her then turn away to gaze at nothingness.

"You poor darling, tell mamma!" she said, walking briskly in, beautiful in her floating chiffon but utterly unnoticed.

"What do you mean, 'tell'?" Dick asked crossly. "There's not a thing to tell that I can think of."

"Yes, there is," Lorne encouraged him. "I know it already but still it has to be told. All about how mad you are over the duchess and wondering what the devil you are going to do with me."

"Lorne!" exclaimed Dick, springing up from his low chair. He was white with shadows on his cheekbones.

"Let's not shout at each other, precious," said Lorne. "There's no reason why we should. We're not deaf. And did you really and truly think God gave me my large eyes not to see with? I've seen all there was to see for a long time—since there was anything to see. And that was on June 3, about 5:25 p. m., at Croydon."

"This is distinctly a bedroom scene," Lorne announced.

"Good God!" blurted Dick.

"Ever since Croydon I've been preparing to give you up with a beau geste. Now the time has come—and it's all right. O. K.! Let's take that for granted. What we've got to talk about tonight is this: won't it be best for all concerned if you and I run over to Paris and start a divorce suit there instead of our traveling grimly back on board the Leviathan, with you a husband in name only and your heart left behind?"

"Lorne, I don't know you tonight," Dick groaned. "You're as hard as nails."

"I always did have a hard streak," the girl reminded him. "It's carried me through a lot of things and will again."

She sank, with all the gracefulness of "slow motion," into a chair opposite the one from which Dick had risen. It was a very low-geared chair so as he sat down in his once more he was able to face and look down upon his wife with a reasonable amount of dignity.

"This is distinctly a bedroom scene," Lorne announced. "I think the leading lady may smoke." She carefully selected a cigaret from an open silver box on a table close by. "So may the male star," she added.

"Star!" Dick echoed with bitter emphasis. "I'm a fallen star. I'm in the dust, face down!"

"No, you're not," Lorne cheered him. "Nothing fallen about you, not even your arches. When you and I are comfortably divorced the darling duchess will marry and make an honest man of you, won't she?"

"Lorne, for pity's sake don't joke in that ghastly way!" Dick begged. "There's never been any such discussion between us—that is, to speak of——"

"Except love," Lorne ended his dropped sentence.

It was indeed an end, for Dick was silenced.

"She's just as mad about you as you are about her," Lorne gave him his cue. "Or madder—if possible."

"I—suppose she does—er—care," Dick wretchedly admitted. "As for me—Lorne, forgive me if you can. This thing—struck me like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky."

"I saw it strike," Lorne told him, "and as I said to you just now, I began to make my preparations accordingly. You always told me I had good executive abilities, my dear. That's partly why I brought up this subject tonight. We had to have a showdown. Things have got to be decided. They can't go dragging on as they have done. Do you want to fly over to Paris or sail as we intended and wait for a California divorce—or a Reno one, which is quicker, I believe?"

"I don't want to sail!" Dick cried out sharply, ignoring the crux of the question. "I don't want ever to see Hollywood, or the inside of any studio again! I see that what I called my 'career' is only laughable—unworthy of a man. Somehow, I'll have to get out of my contract at any price."

"Well," said Lorne, after she had stifled a faint gasp, "I don't want to get out of mine. I want to see Hollywood and the inside of my studio as soon as I can, but as things have turned out, I'm willing to make a sacrifice. I can send a long cable to the studio saying I'm threatened with—perhaps appendicitis is the best thing—so urgent!—and ask them to change their schedule. If they put off 'Wickedest Women' for a couple of months you and I will have time to hop over to Paris and fix up the divorce. The duchess would be satisfied with a Paris divorce to marry on, wouldn't she? The quicker the better, I suppose!"

"Paris?" flung back Dick, "she'd be satisfied with a Mexican one."

"Ah! Lorne caught him up. "Then you have discussed it?"

"Not—not as concerned ourselves," stammered Dick. "We may have mentioned divorce in general and she—expressed that opinion—impersonally."

"I see," said Lorne. "The duchess must care—as you call it—a whole lot to approve of Mexican divorces because they are quick!"

"She—well, I think she dreads to see me go sailing away out of her life for fear something might happen and I'd never come back again," Dick confessed. "That's why she—er—would take almost any chance to—to——"

"To make sure of you," Lorne supplied the words which would have sounded abominably conceited on a lover's lips. "There are—Mexican divorces and Reno divorces. One kind you have to go there yourself to get, though once in the country, it's quick. The other kind—you just engage a lawyer and he does the trick. You might call it a long distance divorce."

"That's what Dolores would prefer, of course, so I could stay in England and then——" He paused, ashamed. But once more Lorne finished for him.

"Then you and she could marry and be happy ever after. Well, if she'd be contented with that kind of divorce, why shouldn't we be? Why prolong the agony? Why, I needn't even cable the studio! I could sail on the Leviathan as if——" she lost her breath for a second—"as if nothing had happened. And you can stay on in London, perfectly happy and blissful, managing the whole business through a lawyer—or rather, I suppose, I'd have to manage it. I'm taking it for granted that the idea is for me to divorce you? Incompatibility, or something?"

"Of course, you will be the one to ask for the divorce," said Dick. "But if you think I can go on staying in this house with Dolores when you're gone——"

"O, I know I've been the chaperon!" Lorne exclaimed. "But I mean you can stay in a nice nearby hotel and see the duchess constantly, to say nothing of telephoning and writing a letter every night, as you used to do when we were engaged. You could bear that much separation, couldn't you, just till a cable from me arrives announcing: 'Mexico has set you free,' and the legal papers follow? You see, though, I've never thought much about it before, I remember hearing that Mexican divorces are practically spontaneous. A lawyer pays somebody something, not nearly as much as in Paris or Reno, and papers are signed and presto—there you are, free as air! Just like that."

"Lorne, to hear you talk one would think you'd never loved me," Dick protested, hurt.

"It's so hard to define what real love is," said Lorne. "And, anyhow, lots of good it would do to howl and make a fuss." As she spoke she was rather busy lighting her fifth cigaret.

"If you did—make a fuss," Dick confessed, "I shouldn't have the heart to break with you. "I didn't know what the hell to do, or whether to do anything—I felt awful. I never knew what suffering was before. You and I had been so damned happy together! . . . At least I mean we imagined ourselves happy."

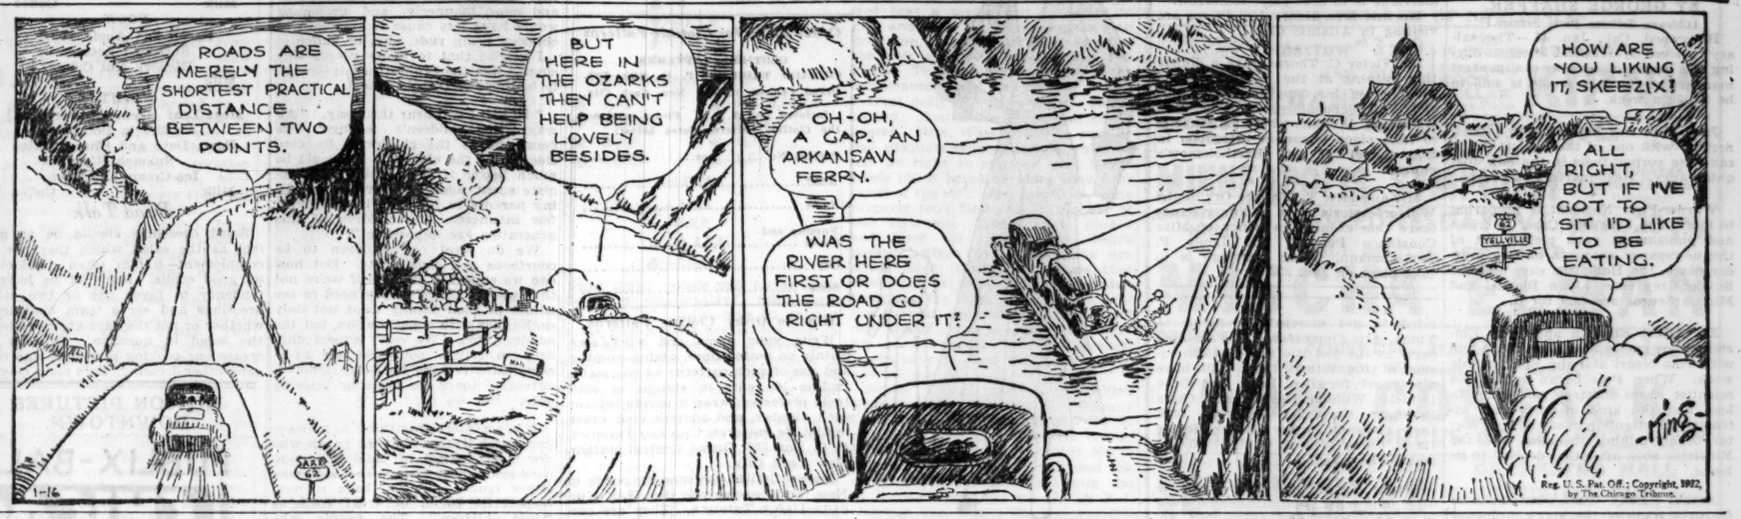
GASOLINE ALLEY—OVER THE HILLS AND FAR AWAY



ROADS ARE MERELY THE SHORTEST PRACTICAL DISTANCE BETWEEN TWO POINTS.
BUT HERE IN THE OZARKS THEY CAN'T HELP BEING LOVELY BESIDES.
OH-OH, A GAP. AN ARKANSAW FERRY.
WAS THE RIVER HERE FIRST OR DOES THE ROAD GO RIGHT UNDER IT?
HOW ARE YOU LIKING IT, SKEEZIX?
ALL RIGHT, BUT IF I'VE GOT TO SIT I'D LIKE TO BE EATING.

Good Morning!

Well, the United Artists' theater is cramming itself fit to burst with crowds impatient to see Greta Garbo's portrayal of Mata Hari, referred to by Maj. Thomas Coulson of the British intelligence service in his book about the worl war spy as "a woman of unusual beauty, moving behind a veil of sensual mysticism."

A few facts about Mata Hari.

Born in Java about 1880. Daughter of a Dutch planter and a Javanese woman. Dedicated to the ritual of a Javanese temple, where she was given the name of Mata Hari, which means "Eye of the Morning." Eloped at 14 with Sim Campbell MacLeod, a British army officer, who married her. After a killing in her household, Mata Hari fled from India to Holland and, later, to Paris. There her husband found her living under the protection of a German official of high standing. She was divorced. She became a dancer and the rage in London, Paris and Vienna. Spied while she danced and lured. Convicted of espionage. Sentenced to death. Faced a firing squad on the parade ground before the fortress of Vincennes.

There's your real story. The screen narrative follows it closely enough and you'll be entranced with the Swedish charmer's interpretation of the strange, fascinating and fated Mata Hari. Cold as ice and hot as fire she makes her heroine, with a strain of feline cruelty and indifference, and a sly, cattish watchfulness that never deserts her till the last when the woman's innate sweetness, which, perhaps has been, after all, her strongest hold on the hearts of men, dominates her and makes her last moments, spent with a blind lover, exceedingly touching.

Miss Garbo's voice is rich, low and exquisitely modulated. Her diction is no longer to be criticized. And the clothes she wears . . ! And the way she wears them . . ! Boy!

A glance at the names listed in the cast will assure you that the star has excellent support—though I must confess to disappointment in Lionel Barrymore.

His characterization of the treacherous Gen. Shubin was, to me, a series of hollow gestures. I don't think he wanted the part, and that, hating to play it, he was unable to put either feeling or conviction into his work. One of the greatest actors on stage or screen, but in this picture he left me cold.

Ramon Novarro is romance personified as the one man the beautiful spy ever really loves. Lewis Stone, as head of the Austrian espionage service, is chill and deadly. Besides these folks, the film boasts other shining luminaries who sparkle brightly as is their wont.

The director has handled his players with intelligence and a feel for dramatic and picturesque effects. Staging and photography are impressive and the sound is splendid.

If Miss Garbo's latest picture doesn't pack 'em in for weeks down there on Dearborn and Randolph streets, one guesser misses her guess.

A City—A Harbor—The Ocean—An Island—A Mother's Life in Balance—The Baby and Its Toys.

This is one of those German rhapsodies where the action hops with such fleallke agility from fact to symbolism that your mind turns somersaults trying to follow its course.

The tale concerns one Erika, who is about to be married to an old baron who would, through her, perpetuate his family. After watching him eat at her betrothal dinner and, later, when he believes himself alone, take out his false teeth and put them in a glass of water, Erika feels that a union with the old goat is too much to ask of any girl.

So, with the speed of an Atalanta, she sprints for the sea, and suicide. She is saved from drowning by a youth named Igor, with nice biceps and a lot of good, strong, white natural teeth. Igor [here's where the symbolism starts] puts her into an iron bucket—I quote now from the synopsis of the program—"instantly hoisted on a crane high over the harbor. She is removed from life, and can look down on it, on man and his works.

"A new feeling is born in her. In Igor she finds the rhythm of her being; their pulses race together: a primordial urge unites them. On land and sea, in past and present, their hearts beat as one.

"Again life fronts them: material facts must be met and faced. Erika goes to the hospital; Igor waits with the intensified anxiety of all young fathers.

"With what travail her child is born! A new life cycle begins . . . from lullaby to manhood. Toys become realities. Play becomes duty. Baby grows—ties are broken, but love and allegiance turn homeward to mother, without who mthere would be no life."

What I imagine is supposed to be a Caesarian operation takes up considerable footage, and much more is consumed with views of all sorts of baby animals and their mothers—just to show how wonderful life is.

I see by the ads that Jane Addams liked this movie. So, I hope, will you. The photography is really admirable.

See you tomorrow.

Dr. L. R. Wilson to Head U. of C. Library School

Chapel Hill, N. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Dr. Louis Round Wilson, librarian at the University of North Carolina since 1901, announced his resignation today to accept the position of dean of the graduate library school of the University of Chicago. He will take up his new duties Sept. 1. He declined the same post when the University of Chicago organized the first graduate library school, back in 1926, but the inducements were too great this time. He will receive a salary of $12,000 plus a large annual contribution available to himself or his estate. He will be granted leave of absence for any or all of the winter quarters, or for such other times as he may desire to spend in research work, travel, or other activities.

SHAKESPEARE SLANGY AND HOW — RETORT OF LEXICOGRAPHER

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Two professors of English and a lexicographer defended slang today against the onslaught of Prof. Dr. Allan Sinclair Will of Columbia university's school of journalism.

Dr. Will deplored the "O, yeahs," the "okays," and the "iota hooeys" of modern speech and said we are returning to a "jargon of the jungle."

"Language isn't a static and frozen thing," said Dr. Hoxie N. Fairchild of Columbia university's English department. "The slang of today may be the literary product of tomorrow."

Prof. William Cabell Greet of the same department said the language was improving, rather than degenerating. He said "okay" was not a "jungleism," but had been in use for 200 years.

"Good slang remains permanent," chimed in Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly, dictionary editor, "and even enriches the language."

Even in Shakespeare's day, it is set forth in a new book called "Slang from Shakespeare," a gentleman might accost another as "you egg," inquire contemptuously, "are you so hot?" or tell about having "a hell of a time."

Public Urged to Give More to Feed Pupils

Parent-Teacher Leader Tells of Needs.

Mrs. T. B. Stephenson, a director of the Illinois Congress of Parent-Teacher associations, yesterday urged the public to renew its support of THE TRIBUNE'S Hungry School Children's fund. Mrs. Stephenson is a member of the citizens' commission that coöperates with the board of education in the administration of the fund.

"We who have been in the schools and observed the immense amount of good THE TRIBUNE lunch fund is doing feel that it is imperative that the fund grow," Mrs. Stephenson said. "We know that the need will continue for some time despite the extra effort of every parent-teacher group to meet the emergency in its own community.

"It may interest readers to know that the committee carefully checks the schools helped, the amount of help given, the methods of investigation and administration, and gives aid in planning when needed. Even the menus are worked out on a scientific basis by Miss Frances Swain's department. There is no overhead expense, every cent in the fund going for food. What equipment the board of education is unable to supply has been collected by parent-teacher associations and other general donors.

The following gifts were received yesterday for THE TRIBUNE'S Hungry School Children's fund:

$32—E. C. D.
$5—Janet and Marjory Williams, Marie T. Ebert.
$2—Peters Machinery Co.
$1.75—Joseph Bryscan.
$1—A friend.

Total	$ 56.75
Previously acknowledged	31,724.69
Grand total	$31,781.44

Contributions should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

JUDGES DECIDE CHARM BRINGS HIGH MARKS TO CO-EDS AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Pity the poor co-eds at University of Michigan!

First the men proved co-eds not human, and now they have proved the vaunted mental superiority of women to be an optical illusion—the effect of feminine charm on susceptible men instructors.

At least the three judges—two men and a woman—decided it was so proved after a debate last night between teams representing Zeta Phi Eta, women's debating society, and Alpha Nu, men's debating club, on the proposition: "Resolved — That Women Receive Their Grades on Other Than a Scholastic Basis."

There was mention of tea parties at which co-eds beamed upon professors, and of the comparative weight of brains, but ancient history provided the climax when an Alpha Nu debater confounded the opposition with, "You know how Cleopatra attained her Mark."

Last year, the Zeta Phi Eta team was unable to convince the judges that co-eds are human.

Author of Old Play Sues Fox Films Because of Talkie

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Half a million dollars was asked of the Fox Film corporation by Henriette Browne, author and playwright, and Corse Payton, actor, in the first of two plagiarism suits in United States District court today. In another copyright action, Serge Walter and Ross Mobley as authors and owners of the song "Jealous," sued Bing Crosby, radio singer, and others, for damages as yet undetermined.

The complaint of Miss Browne and Mr. Payton alleges that they jointly own all right to the play, "Over the Hills," written by the former twenty years ago and played for fifteen years here and on the road by the latter, and that the Fox picture, "Over the Hill," is taken from the play.

In the second action complainants charge the song "At Your Command" was taken from their song "Jealous."

Bishop Callistos to Preach in North Side Church

Bishop Callistos, of San Francisco, who has been in Chicago for the last two weeks, will deliver a sermon tomorrow morning in St. Demetrios church, 2727 Winona avenue, at a special mass in memory of Saint Anthony. The Rev. Dionysios Sakellariou, pastor of that church, and the Rev. Niketais Kesses will assist Bishop Callistos in the service, which will continue from 9:30 o'clock until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Experts at Cornell Tell of New Way to Halt Drug Habits

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Complete breaking of a morphine drug habit in six days by a treatment new to medicine was reported today at Cornell university.

The narcotic patient apparently was completely cured, and with little discomfort.

The treatment is administration of a compound designed to wash the brain and nervous system clean of the "habit." This habit, under the Cornell interpretation, is a thickening of proteins in brain cells, a condition which persists after the narcotic is stopped and which accounts for the continuance of the craving. The new antidote, sodium rhodanate, is a peptizer, or thinner, of the thickened proteins.

The hospital story of this case is to appear in the January number of the proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences. It is told by Wilder D. Bancroft, Ph. D., Robert S. Gutsell, M. D., and John E. Rutzler Jr.

It records the first application to a human being suffering from narcotic habit of discoveries at Cornell about a year ago that anesthesia, unconsciousness from a blow on the head, insanity, alcoholic intoxication and narcotic habits all have a similar physical basis, a change in the brain proteins.

Mrs. E. M. Biddle on Alaskan Trail with Veterans' Dog Sledge

NENANA, Alaska, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—In a temperature thirty degrees below zero, Mrs. Edward M. Biddle, Philadelphia and New York society woman, today was mushing over the snow toward the Kantishna country, traveling behind Mike Cooney's dog team.

After having hesitated many days before making the start, because of the severe weather, a few days of higher temperatures led Mrs. Biddle to decide to accept the trip and a start was made late last night in the dark. Today with Mrs. Biddle and Cooney well out on the trail, the mercury dropped rapidly.

Before leaving Nenana, Cooney indicated he was dubious about Mrs. Biddle's reactions on the trial. The trip to the Kantishna may take them five days or five weeks, he said, depending on traveling conditions upon reaching the Kantishna river.

Wreath Sent by Hoover on the Grave of Franklin

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 15.—(AP)—A wreath sent by President Hoover was among floral decorations placed on the grave of Benjamin Franklin today at a ceremony which was one of the features of the day's observance of the 226th anniversary of his birth. Franklin was born Jan. 17, 1706, which this year is Sunday.

Seeking Cancer Clew in Strange, New Chemical

Doctors Find It Brings Growths in Beasts.

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A synthetic chemical, named 1:2:5:6; Dibenzanthracene, produces cancer in animals.

This is announced today in the American Journal of Cancer as a discovery of three British physicians.

The synthetic compound is another demonstration that the shape in which simple elements are put together—the arrangement of their atoms—sometimes determines their effect on man.

Harmless hydrogen and carbon—nothing else—compose "1:2:5:6 Dibenzanthracene." But these carbon and hydrogen atoms are put together in five rings, having six sides each. These rings are joined so that they resemble a crude sketch by a child of a short, fat worm, having an overgrown head sticking up at one end, and a grotesque lump of a tail hanging at the other.

The synthetic chemical is useful, says Dr. Francis Carter Wood of Columbia university, editor of the journal, as an aid to find out more about cancer.

"The next step," he says, "will be to find out whether any close relatives of this compound, or the compound itself, occur in the structures of the body where the cancer has originated. In other words, whether these or similar chemicals produce only an artificial sort of cancer, or whether they are responsible for the cancer which ordinarily occurs in men and animals."

Seeking possible contributing causes of cancer of the stomach in the life histories of 36 patients, Lloyd F. Craver, M. D., of the Memorial hospital, New York City, reports:

"The following factors stood in the higher ranks: Poor teeth, lack of teeth, other gastro intestinal diseases, heat of ingested food and drink, irregularity of meals, lack of water, seasoning, drugs [cathartics], rapid eating, tobacco and alcohol in the order named."

From a study of cancer of the esophagus in 18 patients Dr. Craver finds: "The following attained the higher scores: Tobacco, alcohol, lack of water, poor teeth, lack of teeth, and drugs [cathartics]."

PAT KELLY, AT 407 POUNDS, CLAIMS TITLE OF BIGGEST COP IN U. S.

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Until two weeks ago Sergt. Pat Kelly of Summit, N. J., was just a big policeman—6 feet 5 inches.

Every Christmas he played Santa Claus at the Summit Home for Children; every summer he won the cup for the largest man in the state Elks' convention parade. At home he wiped the dishes for his wife, "Peaches," 5 feet 4 inches, 98 pounds.

Pat had seen a photograph of Patrolman Harold Freeman of Greenport, Long Island, who weighed in at 333 pounds; and Pat had heard about "Tiny" Gardner of the Dallas police, 388 pounds, who Dallas said was the biggest.

Pat donned regalia, and weighed in at—407 pounds! Pat issued a statement today. "Hard work and clean living," he said, patting his big chest.

Movie Gossip as It's Heard in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 15.—The salary received by Winfield Sheehan during his leave of absence as general manager of the Fox studio is said to be $2,500 a week.

Jack Holt has bought into a partnership with one of the biggest cattle ranching corporations in the San Joaquin valley. Headquarters at Fresno.

Warner-First National is preparing to film "The Ferguson Case," a crime and punishment yarn picked out of the newspaper accounts of two murder cases, the Hall-Mills case and the Snyder-Grey case. Joan Blondel and Miriam Seegar are cast for it.

Dr. Albert Einstein and Frau Einstein were guests at a little tête-à-tête with Pola Negri at Palm Springs this week. When Pola began asking the scientist about matters pertaining to love and the kind of girls that attracted his attention most the good doctor began talking theorems and the Einsteins soon after that decided to go home.

Arthur "Pat" West, comedian who features some of the stage prologues put on by the Fanchon-Marco outfit, and who has played in movies, has this sign on the wall of his bungalow, just where the entering visitor sees it: "The House that Fanchon and Marco Built for Pat West."

Dolores Del Rio was chosen by Sharon Lynn as matron of honor, and Cedric Gibbons, Dolores' husband, as best man for Benjamin Glazer, when Miss Lynn and Glazer suddenly decided to get married by flying to Yuma, Ariz., tomorrow. The wedding party at the Del Rio home at conclusion of the return flight will have places set for Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels, William DeMille and Clara Beranger, Carmelita Geraghty, Mrs. Don Alvarado, John Gilbert, Renée Davis, Carey Wilson, Willis Goldbeck, and Mickey Neilan.

Estelle Taylor has had a relapse after improving from injuries received in a Christmas day automobile accident, and her surgeon has ordered her to stay in a cast for perhaps a week. She injured a vertebra in her neck.

Since a vaudeville house made Jackie Cooper an offer of $7,500 for one week of personal appearances in New York, the lad and his mother have decided to leave the film studios for awhile and take to the road. He will do six weeks of stage shows.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' SPORTS FROCK.

Made of a brown diagonal woolen, this would be a splendid dress for travel, town, or college wear, and is very smart. The trim on the flared cuffs should be in a Spanish tile woolen, the buttons and belt buckle toning in with the trim. The bias cut of the skirt fits the hips beautifully, and the softly falling collar is a becoming feature.

The pattern, 3233, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4⅞ yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yards of braid.

Perhaps It's Our Own Fault When a Child Seems Rude

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

One of my pet beliefs is that grown-ups should show as much courtesy and consideration to children as they show to others of their own age. If they did, children would be happier and more mannerly, and grownups would have less cause to complain of children being rude, shy, or sullen.

I realize that to many people this sounds like the rankest heresy—mostly to those of the old school.

"Huh!" I can hear them say. "Always the children's feelings! Be courteous to the children! Be considerate of the children! It would be much better if these child psychologists spent some of their time advising parents to teach their children a few manners. The children of this generation are impossible!"

We do want our children to be courteous and considerate. But how can we expect it of them if we're not that way to them? They need to see adults in their family treat not only each other with consideration, but the children, too. We can't expect children to return politeness for rudeness, attentiveness for being ignored, agreeable tones for cross or brusque ones. But we do.

It is an interesting thing to notice—you watch it, too—that the people who are most critical of children's manners are almost always the ones who either ignore children, have no real respect for them, or treat them as "just children." The people who complain of children's rudeness the most often are almost always the ones who are "impossible" with children themselves.

The wise old Book tells us to first extract the large beam that is in our own eye before we set about telling our neighbor to take out the tiny mote that is in his. Grownup friends, relatives, fathers and mothers and nurses might try this.

Food Talk

Salad dressings should be as perfect as the salad which they are to complement—a fact often overlooked by good cooks. Many of us have a tendency to favor one or two salad dressings and serve them constantly whether or not they are appropriate to the salad in question. So let's increase our cooking repertoire and consider other dressings than plain mayonnaise and French. Not that the two aren't deserving of their share of the salad limelight, but because they don't always fit the salad to which they are applied.

Years ago we reckoned in terms of boiled dressings, which were varied with chili sauce, or thinned with whipped and plain cream for most of our needs. Lately, the boiled dressing has been returning to favor, so you may consider it good salad etiquette to serve it. The one below is good and may be stored away in your refrigerator for a week or two, if you wish.

TIP TOP DRESSING.

Put one-half cup of vinegar and one tablespoon of butter into the top part of your double boiler. When the vinegar is hot, and the butter melted, add the following:

3 well beaten eggs.
1 level teaspoon of mustard.
1 level teaspoon of salt.
Dash of cayenne pepper.
3 heaping teaspoons of sugar.
1 level teaspoon of cornstarch.

Mix the dry ingredients and stir into them two tablespoons of cold water, and then the well beaten eggs. Mix well, and add to the heated vinegar, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens. Remove promptly from the fire before it curdles. This is an excellent dressing for vegetable salad, fruit salads, or plain lettuce.

A club salad made with malaga grapes or white cherries and pecan meats is served with an unusual dressing. This consists of one tablespoon of grapefruit juice, four tablespoons of olive oil, one-half tablespoon of vinegar, one-half teaspoon of salt, dash of paprika, and one tablespoon of mashed Roquefort cheese.

The salad offered on Monday's dinner menu should be served with mayonnaise.

PEAR, DATE AND CHEESE SALAD.

Canned pears.
Cream cheese.
Dates.
Paprika.
Lettuce.
Orange.
Green pepper.
Mayonnaise.

Take the halves of canned pears. Fill the center of each with a thick mixture of cream cheese and chopped dates. Put another one-half pear on the top of a filled half. Shade the pear by rubbing a little paprika on the bottom of it.

Hortense Henry, Gordon P. Kelley Marry Today

MISS HORTENSE HENRY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Badger Henry of 1500 Lake Shore drive and Lake Forest, will become the bride this afternoon of Gordon Phelps Kelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William V. Kelly of 1550 State parkway and Lake Forest, at one of the most fashionable weddings of the winter.

The Rev. Herbert W. Prince of Lake Forest will read the service at St. Chrysostom's, assisted by the Rev. John C. Evans, at 4:30 o'clock, after which there will be a reception at the Casino. The bride-to-be is a granddaughter on her mother's side of the Edward F. Swifts, among Chicago's most prominent residents, and on her father's side of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Henry, also prominent Chicagoans during their lifetime.

Among the out-of-town relatives here for the ceremony are Miss Henry's paternal aunt, Mrs. Fidelio Sharp Henry of New York, and her mother's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Minotto of Phoenix. The Swift, Henry, and Kelley families and their connections almost would fill the church, so many of them there are, and both the bride and groom are favorites in the young set, so that there will be a crush at the church goes without saying, although admittance cards for the ceremony and the reception were inclosed with the invitations, so that will obviate the danger of there being any of those obnoxious "gate crashers" which have been prevalent at so many weddings and large parties this winter. Miss Henry's younger sister, Annie May, will be her maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be her cousin, Miss Geraldine Swift, Miss Beatrice Kirk, Miss Constance Hasler, Miss Josephine Dennehy, Miss Helen Stanley, Miss Caroline Smith, Mrs. W. Irving Osborne Jr. [Elsa Armour], Mrs. Herbert McLaughlin [Corinne Brewer], Mrs. Walter F. McLallen [Ghita Watson], Miss Rosamond Moore of New York, and Miss Dorothy Laws of Memphis, all of whom assisted at Miss Henry's debut in September, 1930.

Russell Kelley will serve his brother as best man and ushering will be another brother. Phelps Kelley, John Simpson, A. Watson Armour III., John E. Baker Jr., James Heyworth, Frederic McLaughlin II., James R. Addington, Dustin Grannis, Donald F. McLennan Jr., Ezra J. Warner Jr., and Frederick W. Rawson Jr.

Harry G. Selfridge Jr. Will Reach City Thursday.

Harry Gordon Selfridge Jr., whose visits to his native city always create a stir of interest, is expected to arrive in Chicago next Thursday for a five day stay. Mr. Selfridge probably will be at the Blackstone during his brief stop here, but no doubt a great deal of his time will be spent at the homes of his various cousins and at that of his uncle, Frank R. Chandler, who still resides in the red brick house at 744 Rush street where Mr. Selfridge's sisters made their debuts during the war.

Miss Patty Edmonston of Baltimore will arrive next Friday to visit Miss Dorothy Dewes, debutante daughter of Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes of 2314 Lincoln Park West. Mrs. Dewes will give a dinner and theater party for Miss Edmonston the night of her arrival, and Miss Dewes will have a luncheon for her guest the following Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Allen of 1448 State parkway and their son-in-law and daughter, the Hugh R. Wilsons of Lake Forest, are back from a visit in London with Capt. and Mrs. Oliver C. Bryson (Mildred Allen). Mr. and Mrs. Allen have been abroad for about a year. The Wilsons went over to spend the holidays with Mrs. Wilson's sister and her parents.

Mrs. J. R. Offield and Betty Leave for Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. James R. Offield and Miss Betty left yesterday for Phoenix to spend two weeks with Mrs. Offield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley Jr., before they sail from Los Angeles on Feb. 3 for a cruise on the Mariposa to the south seas and the orient. Mr. Offield and Wrigley Offield, who goes to school in California, will join Mrs. Offield and Betty in Los Angeles and go on the cruise, too. It will be quite an extensive cruise, for they will not land in San Francisco until the 28th of April.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Compton of Glencoe are sailing from New York today on the Mariposa for the Hawaiian islands, where they plan to spend the rest of the winter. Mr. Compton has just recovered from an attack of that unusual disease known as Malta fever, which confined him to bed for two months.

George Stuart and his daughters, Miss Harriet and Miss Elizabeth Stuart, will be off in about a fortnight for a 6 weeks' holiday in California. They are having their car shipped west and will motor along the coast, stopping when and where they please.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Morton will leave today to spend the rest of the winter cruising in their yacht, the Freedom, along the coast of Florida and in the West Indies.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds are not to make their annual trip to California this year, but will remain in town all winter.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Howell Undecided About Plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Howell are in New York, but before they left they hadn't decided whether they would go south from there or return to Chicago before going to Florida, where their yacht, Thalia, is anchored. Their daughter, Mrs. John B. Barnes, is not going to Florida this winter.

Among other Chicagoans who have been in New York for brief sojourns this week are Col. and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, who returned yesterday; Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Davis, who will be back on Monday from a week's stay, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, who went east about 10 days ago to see her daughter, Miss Janet Fairbank, off to Europe to resume her vocal studies, and returned to New York for a few days after attending the Democratic committee meeting in Washington.

The Dearborn Seminary Alumnæ association will hold its annual meeting and luncheon today at the Blackstone.

ENGAGED

MISS BETTY R. COYNE.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Coyne of 1924 School street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty Rose, to Joseph A. Bechtold of St. Louis, Mo. Miss Coyne attended St. Scholastica's Academy for Girls. Mr. Bechtold is a graduate of Armour institute and a member of Phi Pi Phi fraternity. The wedding will take place on Feb. 6.

Miss Caroline McIlvaine will give an illustrated lecture on "New Aspects of Dearborn Seminary."

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burnham are giving a buffet supper tomorrow night at their residence in Evanston.

In yesterday's mail was a card from the Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art Institute for an illustrated lecture on Historic Textile Fabrics by Dr. Rudolf M. Riefstahl of New York City on Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 11 o'clock, at the Goodman studio theater.

Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mrs. Howard L. Willett, and Mrs. William E. Wright will preside at the tea urns at the Chicago Drama league's lecture tea next Thursday in the Drake, when Sylvia Thompson will speak on "Contemporary English Drama." Mrs. Clarence Hough, acting president, will introduce Miss Thompson.

The South Shore Country club is being most up to date in having boxing bouts as the feature for ladies' night next Wednesday. A buffet supper will be served in the grill after the matches.

The Woman's National Republican club will hold its annual meeting on Thursday, Jan. 28, at the Chicago Woman's club. Charles S. Dewey will speak on "An American Viewpoint on the Debts."

Elizabeth Lewis and John M. Cabot Plan Wedding in Mexico

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 15.—Announcement was made today of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Lewis, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Frazer and the late Herbert Pickering Lewis, Mexico City banker and formerly a resident of Chicago, to John M. Cabot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey L. Cabot of Boston. Mr. Cabot is third secretary of the American embassy here.

The couple will be married here April 2.

Miss Lewis is private secretary to Mrs. Reuben Clark, wife of the American ambassador to Mexico. After attending the Shipley school in Pennsylvania she graduated from Vassar college in 1927.

Mr. Nichols attended the Nichols Preparatory school in Boston and graduated from Harvard in 1923. He received a degree from Oxford two years later. He entered the diplomatic service in 1926, serving in Santo Domingo and Lima, Peru, before taking his post here.

High School Singers Give Yearly Fete

BY EDWARD MOORE.

GLEE clubs and choruses from some fifteen Chicago high schools engaged in presenting a song program at Orchestra hall last night. Originally planned as a competition festival, the seventh of its kind, it was decided this year to drop the competitive side, wherefore the participants, with the exception of three large choral groups, were the winners of a preliminary eliminating contest held last month.

Girls' glee clubs appeared from Lake View, Tuley, Austin, Marshall, Hyde Park, and Morgan Park. Boys' glee clubs represented Lane, Austin, Tilden and Fenger. Three small mixed choruses numbering less than 100 singers came from Austin, Lake View, Wendell and Phillips. The large glee clubs of more than 100 were from Senn, Morgan Park and Roosevelt.

An extra performance of "Aïda" at the Civic Opera house last night not only completely filled the auditorium, but turned away late applicants literally by hundreds. Claudia Muzio appeared in the name part, the rôle of Radames being taken by Charles Marshall and that of Amneris by Cyrena Van Gordon. Others in the cast were Virgilio Lazzari, Sergio Bononi, Marie Buddy, and Victor Damiani, who appeared in the place of Augusto Beuf, absent because of illness.

Dr. Andrew Dodson, Negro baritone, appeared in a song recital at Kimball hall last night. Presented by the National De'Saible society, he disclosed a deep voice of smooth resonant quality and a good gift for enunciating the English language. His program was divided about equally between songs and arias in the first half and spirituals in the second.

Marion Claire, soprano, and Vanni-Marcoux, Civic opera baritone, will appear in a special performance of Wolf-Ferrari's one act opera, "The Secret of Suzanne" in the Civic theater this morning. The opera is being presented as a special compliment to delegates to the convention of the Civic Music association in session here this week.

Princess Der Ling, Here for Lecture, Is Society Women's Guest

Princess Der Ling, first lady in waiting to Tzu Hsi, the late empress-dowager of China, and a daughter of Lord Yu Keng, a Manchu statesman, arrived yesterday in time to be the guest of honor at several entertainments before lecturing this morning at the Town Hall series at the Palmer house.

On her arrival the princess was the guest of Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed at the Fortnightly club, at a meeting of the Friday club, and was a luncheon guest of Mrs. Waller Borden, followed by a trip to the Symphony concert. She attended a tea at the home of Mrs. Howard Linn, and a dinner at the Quadrangle club, given for Dr. Arthur Upham Pope. Mrs. John Paul Welling, former president of Friends in China, will introduce the princess at the lecture this morning.

At Field Museum.

Guide lecture tours for next week at the Field Museum of Natural History will begin on Monday with "Coal, Oil and Peat" at 11 a. m. and "Africa and Madagascar" at 3 p. m. On other days at the same hours the subjects will be: Tuesday, "Gourds and Their Use" and "Reptiles and Fishes"; Wednesday, "Deer and Antelope" and "People of the South Seas"; Thursday, general tours; and Friday, "Horses and Their Relatives" and "Musical Instruments."

BRIDE TO BE

ELEANOR ALICE ROBBINS.

Announcement was made recently by Mrs. Edna E. Robbins of 4938 Ellis avenue of the engagement of her daughter, Eleanor Alice, to Ellis Earl Busse. Miss Robbins attended Miss Spence's School for Girls in New York city and Belmont college at Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Busse attended the University of Chicago law school and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Big Boss Attitude in Woman Requires Special Treatment

BY DORIS BLAKE.

There is a bit of the big boss in every woman toward the man she loves. Some women manage to conceal the fact with nice effectiveness; others have occasional outbursts of ordering around, and other women, again, love to parade their boss prowess before a crowd.

J. H. S.'s girl is one of the latter. In private, she is sweet as honey. "When we go out anywhere with other couples or in any crowd," J. H. S. tells, "her one ambition is to show who is boss, and I am not it, apparently. I don't want to be it, either. But I don't want to be made a sissy of before people.

"At a restaurant she started her old bossing ways. Well, this time I didn't listen to her and she got mad. When I took her home, she said she did not want to see me for two months."

Instead of giving the girl two months to ponder over her behavior, J. H. S. took the wrong tactic of trying to make it up right away—with apologies. Now, apologies to the big boss type of girl are little more than a red rag. Next time, she is going to play the B. B. stuff a little harder.

What the type recovers on is a good period of silent treatment. Give her a wide berth and plenty of air and she gets to thinking things over. Maybe if she asks someone in confidence what is the matter, she is told. Anyway, she gets around to the right mode of thinking, after a time.

When married men annex this type, their proved and successful trick is to walk out on the boss and give her occasion to worry about whether she is going to lose her victim. He turns up later in the evening, of course, and while he may be treated to a dirty look or two, that couple of hours of worrying has been working on the girl.

Or, a more brusque disposal of the bossing feature with a sweetheart is to come plump right out and tell her to cut it out, that you don't like it; don't like her when she is indulging in it and what's more, you won't stand for it. In other words, take over the B. B. rôle yourself, which is probably exactly what the type is waiting for.

Tie-On Coat Makes Debut in Society

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The newest Paris coat that ties on instead of buttoning had no more than gotten out of the sewing rooms on the Rue de la Paix when fashionable women began to appear in it. Too many coats button, so the smart woman looked about for some other way of holding her exclusive wrap together in this zero weather, and the tie-on coat was her salvation.

Vionnet's fur coats that tie on via a satin ribbon that winds twice around the waist and ends in an impudent bow has been a big hit with particular ladies, and Molyneux' cloth coat with three bows to hold it shut down the center front is another successful winter debutant. This coat is shown in our sketch today.

Besides having bows instead of buttons, this coat, which is made of black ribbed wool, has natural lynx collar and cuffs and this fur is beginning to be revived by the most exalted of the French fashion merchants.

The slender moulded line of the coat is chic, and so is its invisible width at the hem, which is achieved by knife plaits hidden under the seams that edge the bias bands down the center front and back of the coat. The bows that fasten the model shown here are made of wool cloth like that, that forms the coat, and the lowest bow is in one piece with the belt at the waistline.

Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt wears this coat.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

An Opera Contretemps.

During my first visit to the new opera house with my husband and two young ladies from his office, I had my most embarrassing moment. It was suggested that we get a closer view of its beauty and the splendor of the boxes. I wore a new pair of shoes, the soles of which were unusually slippery. Just as I was about to descend the stairs leading to the boxes I was saved the trouble of walking down, for my foot slipped, I rolled down the stairs, and landed at the feet of a stern looking boxholder—and I'm no featherweight, either. E. A.

How many people can an automobile carry comfortably? Silly question, isn't it? Impossible to answer unless you know whether the car in question is a roadster or a seven passenger limousine. Equally foolish is the question: "How many trumps do I have to have in my hand in order to assist my partner's suit?" It depends entirely on how long your partner's suit may be. We call four small cards adequate trump support because it is impossible for your partner to bid with less than four cards of that suit in his hand and therefore if you hold four it must be enough, since eight trumps should be held between the two hands. The moment, however, that your partner shows that he holds five cards, then you only need three. Similarly, if you know your partner holds six cards in a suit all you need is two—if he held seven you would need but one.

Yesterday's play-a-problem was originally played at a good many tables playing duplicate. Some of these tables apparently failed to realize that three of the partner's suit was quite sufficient the moment the partner had shown that he held at least five of the suit himself. Some of them may have known this, but may not have realized that a major suit is easier to play and more apt to make game than no-trump, provided sufficient cards of the suit are held between the two hands. The hand will be found at the commencement of this article.

West dealt and bid a heart. North passed. East bid a spade and South passed. Now, West cannot be sure he has adequate trump support, since he has no right to suppose that East's spade bid is based on more than four cards of the suit. He, therefore, quite properly took East out with a bid of one no-trump. North again passed and East bid two spades. South passed. Since four card suits are never rebid, West now knows that East has at least five spades and, therefore, his three little trumps, normal support, are sufficient. He should now abandon the no-trump and assist his partner's bid to three spades. North passed. East bids four spades, and all passed.

South opened the ♣ 3, which dummy took with the A. Dummy then led the ♠ 2, East played the Q, and South took the trick with the A. South now led the ♣ 6, which North took with the J. North returned the ♣ K, which East trumped with the ♠ 5. East now led out the ♠ K-J, clearing the suit. To the seventh trick he led the ♦ 10 and took it in his dummy with the K. Dummy returned the ♥ 4, which East took with the Q. Next East led the ♥ 3, which dummy took with the K. Dummy then cashed in his good ♥ A-5, discarding the ♦ Q on the latter. He then led the ♦ 9, which he trumped with the ♠ 7, and took the thirteenth trick with the ♠ 10 for four spades—the game and one extra trick.

While game could have been made at no-trump in this hand, it was far easier to play in spades and, of course, more profitable.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Send your bridge problems to Charles True Adams, The Chicago Tribune; inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Happy Expression Does Much to Bring Beauty to the Face

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Let's digress a bit today from the cold creams and the wrinkle eradicators, the hip reducers and the hair tonics, to sing another beauty theme song.

A friend and I ran into a woman the other day who'd just met with a stroke of luck, the financial like of which is not the common lot at the moment. She deserved it if ever any one did. She beamed. Fifteen years had been magically lifted.

My friend said: "There's nothing like happiness to beauty, is there?"

There just isn't, is there? A girl in love, a woman transfigured for the moment after a stunning compliment; a girl who has just won a prize she coveted—the miraculousness of the beauty lotion, "Happiness," is written in the face. In the body, too. It walks on air.

Now, I'm not, and never will be, one of the Pollyanna legionnaires. Life delivers too many of its well known uppercuts to expect humans to go around grinning all the time like chessy cats. Besides, there come moments when you've simply got to grit your teeth, project your fighting chin and barge ahead, regardless of whether it spoils your pretty expression or not. BUT—

You and I know we're made of such brand of human clay that we fall apart far too easily. And we look the falling apart too often. We don't cash in on the happy moments as we might. We're unwilling to carry them over into a next and a next hour. Not, by Ebenezer, if we can think up a worry, or a mad, or a hate, or a grudge against life in general and give it our so-called damask cheek to feed upon.

We go under too quickly. That's what's the matter. And at the current moment it's getting to be a habit, a habit that is writing neither cheer nor good in female faces. We blame the times. If we're not terribly inconvenienced ourselves we can think up a couple of people who are. Anyway, the mouth corners have to slip down, and leave it to us to think up one for the slipping. I don't mean, either, that we should blind our eyes to the misfortunes of others. But people who do not blind their eyes to the misfortunes of others are uniformly kindly faced. It's just those of us who can't see beyond our own temporary inconveniences who bear the sourest, dourest look. Isn't it the truth? Anyway, now we know what's wrong with the face—and that's something, isn't it?

LEVINSKY RALLIES TO WIN OVER UZCUDUN

BAR LONG AT AGUA CALIENTE FOR BETTING COUP

STEWARDS RULE OWNER CANNOT USE HIS TRACK

Ban Is Effective All Over Continent.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Baron Long, part owner of the Agua Caliente race track, today was barred from racing at his own race track by the Agua Caliente jockey club stewards, his own employés.

The action, ruling his horses off the track, was a result of Long's betting coup of last week in which he wagered on every horse in a field, including two of his own entries, at the Agua Caliente mutuels, in order to lengthen odds on Linden Tree, the favorite. The day after his coup, which cost bookmakers in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, and Los Angeles thousands of dollars because of their custom of paying off on the odds at the track, Long issued a statement declaring that, although he had lost $3,600 betting against Linden Tree in the machines, he had won $9,800 on a $1,000 bet which he had wired to an eastern betting commissioner, thereby profiting $6,200 on his maneuver.

Bookies Raise Howl.

Before Long's bet Linden Tree was a 3 to 5 favorite, but when the mutuel odds were posted they quoted for $2 tickets on Linden Three, $21.40 to win, $2.60 to place, and $2.20 to show. Bookies immediately set up a howl, charging manipulation. They said they lost heavily.

The stewards, in issuing today's statement, said that Long "is barred from any further participation in racing at the Agua Caliente track for acts prejudicial to the best interests of racing in general and the Agua Caliente Jockey club in particular."

Stewards making the order include Francis Nelson, presiding steward; George W. Schilling and Walter H. Dupee.

Long Signs Pay Checks.

Their action creates an odd situation, because Long, as vice president of the jockey club and one of its foremost financial backers, is the man who countersigns the stewards' pay checks.

The stewards' ruling automatically bars Long, who owns a large racing stable, from all race courses in the United States, Canada and Cuba, due to the working agreement of the tracks under which a ruling of this nature by one set of stewards is accepted by the others. Long's horses will be permitted to run in a stake races already closed, however.

After receiving notice of the steward's ruling, Long said:

"Regarding the ruling of the jockey club stewards in barring my horses, I think the measure of punishment they have meted out is too strong. I feel, of course, that they must consider they are right."

It Was Only a Joke.

"What I did in the race in question was a joke, and I did not think I was violating any code of ethics. I simply wanted to teach a lesson to the handbook makers throughout the country, who consistently have been giving the public the worst of it in the matter of prices. Building up, or padding prices, is a common occurrence on race tracks throughout the country where there is mutuel betting. It is done very frequently at Jefferson Park and Tropical Park. The fact that I wagered $500 on my own stable in the same race should be taken into account

"The horses in my stable are always racing to win. If I have acted unwisely or placed the stewards in an embarrassing position I regret it."

Comes From Purdue.

Long, a former Purdue university man, who operated the Vernon Country club and the Ship café as night life resorts about Los Angeles for many years, first became interested in Mexican border racing about 1916, when he became a junior partner with James J. Coffroth in the Tia Juana racing plant. The Tia Juana group merged into the new Agua Caliente racing plant three years ago and Long went along as one of the heavy shareholders.

Get Thee Behind Me, 1931, Puffs Penitent Pat Malone

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

So far as Pat Malone is concerned, 1932 is the year of the big reformation. The big Cub hurler, whose social standing dropped last fall when he clouted a couple of newspaper men as a special favor to his then buddy, Hack Wilson, has slammed the door in Satan's face and gone to work.

Pat, who, if he chose, could be idling in some sunny clime, is back in Chicago and giving close attention to a physical training course in which his battery mate, Gabby Hartnett, is a co-pupil.

The two notables can be seen daily at the Lions' club gym going through maneuvers calculated to reduce waistlines and harden muscles so that their early labors in the Catalina island training camp will be less painful.

He Did it by Himself.

Mr. Malone's decision to desert the life of Reilly was of his own making. He had been wintering down in Ohio and was perfectly contented with the place until the stories of wholesale slashing of players' salaries began to seep in. Being face to face himself with a new document, Pat hopped into his car and hurried home to give proof that his plans to put on a big year were more than a promise.

"Weigh 208 in the rough now," said Pat yesterday. "Was up to 215 at this time last year. I'll shave down to about 200 and reserve the remainder of the excess poundage for training camp. I was a bit too heavy all last season, but that won't happen again. After about a week in camp I'll be able to show the hitters some real pitching."

Hartnett also has a few pounds to take off, but his real concern is his arm. He's already doing some throwing with Pat.

A. A. to Use Planes.

American association teams may desert the railroads next season and confine their travels to busses and airplanes. President Tom Hickey yesterday issued a call for a meeting to be held here Jan. 20. The transportation problem will be disposed of at that time.

"We can save both time and money," said Hickey yesterday. "The use of planes will eliminate a number of open dates which now are necessary."

The proposal is to lease two twelve passenger tri-motor ships for the long jumps. Busses would be used on the short hauls.

Report Giants Plan to Trade Terry to Cubs

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Unless plans of the New York Giants are upset, William Terry, holdout first baseman, will be transferred to the Chicago Cubs before the next baseball season opens, it was reported tonight.

In exchange the Giants would welcome Perce Pat Malone, Cub pitcher, together with another performer whose identity has not yet been disclosed.

It was learned today that Charles Stoneham, president of the New York baseball club, has become thoroughly fed up with the stubborn infielder and has entered into negotiations with William Wrigley, head man of the Chicago club. Stoneham has been corresponding with McGraw, who is now on vacation in Havana.

The Giants' pitching staff was augmented by the return to good graces of Joe Genewich, right hander. Joe was reinstated yesterday by Commissioner Landis. He refused to join up last summer because of contract trouble.

In the absence of William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Cubs, and William Veeck, president of the club, both of whom are in the west, no statement on a Terry-Malone deal was forthcoming from Cub officials last night.

HAMAS KNOCKS OUT LOUGHRAN IN SECOND ROUND

Handlers Rescue Tommy After 2 Knockdowns.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—In the Garden ring where he fought some of his most brilliant fights, Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion of the world and one of the greatest boxers of his time, was knocked cold in the second round this evening by a comparative novice, Steve Hamas, who used to play football for Penn State college.

Hamas clipped Loughran on the side of the head with a short right in round two and Loughran plunged into a snarl with the mildewed green plush ropes, where he spent nine seconds unwinding himself. No sooner was he up and swaying on rocker heels than Hamas swung into him again with both fists driving, and cracked him on the chin with both hands, the second punch, a left, sending Tommy down for nine seconds more.

Tries to Rise Again.

Perhaps remembering the time when he retired standing up in his fight with Jack Sharkey and was accused of quitting, Loughran shook his head as he knelt on the moldy canvas and at the last second rose again to try to stand off the young college athlete's rush.

But Hamas was through his feeble fenders with a regardless sweep and mauled him on the face with excited and misdirected punches. None of these was decisive, but Loughran was too badly hurt by the first knockdown punch, which brought a sleepy expression over his face, to stand up against the strain of a vigorous clinch. He teetered backward a couple of steps and was wabbling a couple of strides away from Hamas when he suddenly keeled backward and went down with a boom for the third time.

Handlers Help Him Out.

Loughran half raised himself and was trying to get up, contrary to worried admonitions of his friends in the front rows, who were waving signals to stay down, when his seconds stumbled through the ropes and went out to get him. It being illegal to throw in the towel or other laundry in the New York prize ring, they made certain that their scarred and beaten principal would not have to accept any further beating by hauling him to his corner. He was not counted out, but disqualified by his own handlers, although he was too feeble to have lasted through the round.

In justice to King Levinsky, the Chicago fish eradicator, it should be suspected that Levinsky set Loughran to weaving in their fight here a couple of weeks ago and that Tommy undoubtedly was still swaying from the effects of the King's right hand swings to his jaw.

A Big Night for Hamas.

For Hamas this was a very important incident, because in his brief career of 27 fights he had never met any one of Loughran's reputation, and although Tommy obviously was only a fraction of the old light heavyweight champion, still it was technically important to be the first man to knock him out. When Sharkey stopped him that time, a long while back, Loughran was hit between the eyes and then, calmly, like a man mumbling in his sleep, said to the referee, "I think I will sit down. Get me a chair."

When Tommy awoke in his corner this evening he asked his manager, Joe Smith, "Was I counted out or was the fight stopped?"

He and Smith then announced that Loughran was as good as he ever was and had no thought of retiring, which judgment, if adhered to, probably will retire a great fighter to a sanitarium in the end.

Hamas had no respect for Loughran's jabs and dainty right stabs at the ribs and punched at every chance until Tommy went way. It

JUST ONE MISS IN MILLION OR SO

KING FANS AIR MORE THAN HE HITS SPANIARD

13,500 Watch Fight; Few Aroused.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Our Kingfish, Mr. Levinsky of Maxwell street, looked sort of like a pan fish at the Chicago Stadium last night, but he got the decision over Paulino Uzcudun at the end of 10 rounds of fighting before a crowd of 13,500, which paid $36,000.

A rally in the last three rounds, after he had missed innumerable wild rights, some of them at times threatening to lift the roof off the Stadium, brought the victory to Levinsky. The scorekeepers lost all track of the punches the Kingfish missed as the battling woodchopper from Spain kept ripping and boring into him. So, it might have been a million at least. Scorekeepers don't quit counting missed punches until the million mark is reached.

Two Vote for King.

The decision bewildered the crowd, for most of the persons at the ringside had the woodchopper ahead at the finish. Judge Ed Klein's score read 55 for Levinsky and 45 for Uzcudun. Referee Phil Collins, who had all he could do to rip the two battlers apart round after round, gave Levinsky 52 points and Uzcudun 45. Judge John Bray said it was 50-50 and gave each of the lumbering heavyweights, neither of whom in this battle resembled anything like a champion, 50 points each.

There wasn't much of a demonstration at the finish. The paid customers probably thought they had endured enough punishment, without hooting or howling at the referee and judges. There wasn't a punch that came close to a knockdown, there wasn't a time when either took a commanding lead, and there wasn't anything about the affair that would cause a big community to stay awake late at night to await the result.

Fails to Floor Basque.

Except for those last three rounds, in which Levinsky's advantage was by a very narrow margin, the Kingfish took a whipping all the way. He couldn't hit Paulino and during the fighting at close quarters the Basque was hitting Levinsky with rights and lefts. A terrific right into the Kingfish's left kidney had that part of Levinsky's anatomy purple before the fight had gone six rounds.

Uzcudun kept clear his record of never having been knocked down. If the Kingfish had landed with some of those wild rights which he seemed to be aiming at the roof of the Stadium, the Basque would have gone down. But when the Kingfish aimed and fired, Uzcudun's chin always was over in another part of the ring.

On the other hand, Uzcudun didn't do much except to force the Kingfish to back pedal. He didn't land many damaging blows. Despite Levinsky's advantage in the closing rounds, Paulino appeared to be just as strong as his opponent at the final bell.

More Cheers for Uzcudun.

After Levinsky's hand had been lifted as a signal of victory, the admirers of the Kingfish gave him a long and loud cheer. But when Uzcudun walked out, his head bowed in defeat, there were louder and longer cheers for him.

Two sluggers who could take punishment had met. Folks who like that sort of an encounter were happy. Most of the crowd which expected to see one or the other knocked into the resin dust had been disappointed.

In the first of the light heavyweight elimination bouts, Dave Maier, Milwaukee, knocked out Able Bain, the Newark, N. J., iron man, in the first round. A left to the chin sent Abie down for the full count a few seconds before the round was to end.

George Nichols, Buffalo, N. Y., beat Charley Belanger of Winnipeg in ten rounds.

Baxter Calmes of Chicago got the decision over Bob Olin of New York, a Golden Glove graduate, at the end of ten rounds. It was a slugging match all the way. Calmes did not win by a margin that would indicate he can capture the light heavyweight championship.

In the opening bout, a six round affair, Yale Okun got the decision over Tony Cancella. It was a tame fight.

Purple Swim Team Sets 160 Yard Record

A new world's record for the 160 yard relay was established by Northwestern swimmers last night at Patten pool when they opened their season by defeating the Detroit Yacht club team, 51 to 24.

Art Highland, Paul Troup, Mert Wilcox, and Capt. Bill Wilson composed the Purple quartet which negotiated the distance in 1:11:8, thereby shaving one and four-fifths seconds off the old mark, which was held by the University of Michigan. Highland and Wilcox are sophomores.

Northwestern won the water polo game, 7 to 5.

The visitors took only one undisputed first place, in the 200 yard breast stroke, when Don McClellan eased in a few feet ahead of Frank Lennox. Summaries:

160 YARD RELAY—Won by Northwestern [Highland, Wilson, Troup, and Wilcox]. Time, 1:11.8 [New world record; former record held by Michigan, 1:13.6.

200 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by McClellan [Detroit]; Lennox [Northwestern], second; Mooney [Detroit], third. Time, 2:37.

150 YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Murphey [Northwestern]; Howlett [Detroit], second Boyer [Northwestern], third. Time, 1:40.6.

40 YARD FREE STYLE—Wilson [Northwestern], and Curtis [Detroit] tied for first; Watson [Detroit], third. Time, :19.

100 YARD FREE STYLE—Wilcox [Northwestern] and Highland [Northwestern] tied for first; Porter [Detroit], third. Time, :54.6.

Games Tonight

Michigan at Northwestern.
Wisconsin at Chicago.
Ohio State at Iowa.
Indiana at Minnesota.

Northwestern and Michigan, two of the three undefeated teams in the conference race, will meet at Patten gym tonight before a crowd of 5,000. The Wildcats have won three straight games, while Michigan has won both of its two conference games to date.

Like Northwestern, Michigan has a team composed largely of veterans. DeForest Eveland, star forward, heads the Wolverines in scoring with 16 points, while his teammate, Francis Weiss, is second with 13 points. Other Maize and Blue sharpshooters are Petrie and Williamson. All five starters in the Wolverine lineup are dangerous shots.

MAROONS PLAY BADGERS

Wisconsin's basketball team, potentially a title contender, will seek to climb out of the conference cellar at the expense of Chicago here tonight. The Badgers have already dropped three games to the strongest teams in the league and have reason to begin making their bid.

Harry Ashley, captain and guard on the University of Chicago basket squad, is almost certain to be out of the lineup in his team's second conference game at the Midway against Wisconsin. Ashley sprained an ankle in practice Monday and it has failed to respond to treatment.

Because of Keith Parson's tendency to tire easily, Coach Norgren may use Eyron Evans at center during part of the game, sending Scott Rexinger in Evans' forward place. Lineup:

CHICAGO.		WISCONSIN.
Stephenson	F	Steen (C.)
Evans	F	Bewey
Parsons	C	Oakes

Munn Receives Valuable Player Award Tonight

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—There's a basketball game in the University of Minnesota fieldhouse tomorrow evening, but that will be just a side show to the majority of the crowd which will gather while the Gophers play Indiana university.

Clarence Munn, Minnesota guard, who won THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S eighth annual silver football, awarded to the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team, will be the center of interest. Between halves of the game the popular athlete will walk to the center of the floor and receive from Harvey T. Woodruff of THE TRIBUNE staff the 1931 award.

Undergraduates, faculty members, and alumni will be in attendance and intend to make the presentation a noteworthy celebration and testimonial in honor of the Minnesota football captain, who was the first Gopher athlete to be awarded THE TRIBUNE prize.

DE PAUL BEATS ST. VIATOR, 24-17, FOR 5TH VICTORY

De Paul university's basketball team scored its fifth victory of the season last night by defeating St. Viator, 24 to 17, at the De Paul gymnasium.

The Blue Demons took the lead at the end of the first half, 12 to 10, when Stewart Baker, St. Viator center, sank a long shot into the De Paul basket. Gorsky and Weston featured for the Demons, the former scoring seven points and Weston collecting two baskets and two free throws. Lineup:

Hoppe Passes Cochran in Balkline Cue Match

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe regained the lead in the 18.2 balkline division of his special combined balkline-three cushion billiard test with Welker Cochran at the Strand academy tonight. Winning the fifth block, 250 to 41, in eight innings, Hoppe boosted his grand total in balkline to 1,087, compared to 932 for Cochran.

INGWERSEN GETS COACHING JOB AT LOUISIANA STATE

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Burton Ingwersen, former football coach at the University of Iowa, will be assistant coach at Louisiana State university next season, it was learned here today. Ingwersen has accepted terms offered him by the university and is expected to sign a contract this week-end. Public announcement of his appointment probably will be made next week.

Ingwersen will be assistant to Biff Jones, former Army coach, who last week was appointed head coach at Louisiana State. The former Hawkeye coach is expected to bring with him at least one member of the Iowa football staff, probably Emerson Nelson, star tackle on the Iowa team of 1929, who has been serving as assistant line coach at Iowa City since his graduation from the university.

It was reported that Ingwersen's salary would be approximately $7,500 a year, the same as he received as head coach at Iowa. Ingwersen had been at Iowa since 1924, having gone there from the University of Illinois, where he was in charge of freshman football teams from 1920 to 1923.

IOWA MEETING TODAY

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Appointment of a new football coach at the University of Iowa to succeed Burton Ingwersen will not be made until next week, athletic officials announced today. The athletic board of control will meet here tomorrow to discuss the situation, but no decision will be reached until after the board has interviewed a half dozen prospects who are expected here during the next week to confer with the board.

Illness of E. H. Lauer, athletic director, has delayed consideration of the coaching problem for the last week, but it is generally known that James Crowley, coach at Michigan State college, has the inside track for the position if he cares to take it.

Bradley Halts Millikin Five's Rally to Win, 26-25

NOVOTNY LOSES TO TRYON IN FLORIDA GOLF

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 15. — (AP) — Howard Tyron of Elmira, N. Y., today eliminated Gus Novotny, La Grange, Ill., 3 and 1, in second day match play of the Miami Biltmore invitational amateur golf tournament. Tryon and his opponent played through the 17th hole, the former needing only a 5 for an 18 hole 79.

Tommy Goodwin of Palm Beach swamped Win Day, Chicago school boy golfer, 5 and 4, to advance to the semi-finals of the tournament.

Another feature was the elimination of T. E. Price, Miami, co-medalist in the event, by F. M. Hohlfelder of Cleveland, a newcomer in Florida amateur tournament play. Price went down by a 4 and 3 count to permit his opponent to go into the semi-finals against Goodwin. J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., a frequent titleholder in Florida winter tournaments, finished up a day of long leads by defeating Frank Norman, Miami, 3 and 1.

ENTRY LIST FOR SILVER SKATES EXCEEDS 2,000

Entries for THE TRIBUNE'S sixteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies, Jan. 23 and 24, continue to pour in. While the clerks, deluged with mail, have not totaled the number of contestants, more than 2,000 had filed blanks up to yesterday, either as individuals or members of clubs or other organizations.

The Henry Athletic association, 3646 Montrose avenue, expects to make a determined bid for the men's senior and the boys' junior championships. Of course, this is only a part of the team entry made by Ted Rullman, president of the club.

Have Star Material.

"We expect to see one or more of our boys in the men's senior final," Rullman writes. "Elmer Young, Robert Moore, Fred Eiseman, and Julius Hoeft are excellent prospects. I feel very confident that Richard Flickinger has a good chance of walking home with the bacon in the juniors and our juvenile entry, Earl Rodde, will bear watching."

Julian Verniers, manager and coach of the Belgian-American Athletic association, has entered a team of skaters in the Derbies. "You may notice that the name of our club looks familiar," the coach says in his letter. "It is the outgrowth of the Belgian-American Cycle club. We will participate in all sports events now instead of just bicycle events."

William J. Callahan, director of Kohn playground, 104th and State streets, has entered boys in each of the five Derbies.

Belding Joins Parade.

Otto Kaecke, of Belding playground, also has submitted the names of his contestants for the Derbies. The Callaghan Athletic club is concentrating on the men's senior race. Twenty-four boys are preparing to enter this race.

George Schwartz has been elected president of the Shamrocks Athletic club of Lakeview for the coming year. The club plans to compete in the Silver Skates.

Tomorrow is the last day entry can be made for the derbies. Even if the races must be postponed, the date for entering the meet will not be extended. No post entries will be accepted and the original list will determine eligibility of all skaters.

The preliminary heats in the boys' midget, boys' juvenile and boys' junior races will be held Saturday. All other qualifying races and the seven championships will be held on Sunday, Jan. 24. The time for reporting will be announced tomorrow.

CHICAGO MEETS NEW YORK IN PINGPONG PLAY

Pingpong teams of Chicago and New York will play for the Parker cup, a trophy recently donated by the American Pingpong association, in an inter-city match tonight at the Inter-fraternity club.

Agua Caliente Is Soaked; 3d Round of Golf Postponed

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Torrential rains swept down Tijuana valley today, forcing postponement of the third round of Agua Caliente's $15,000 open golf championship.

Although the necessary delay was scheduled only for the day, weather reports pointed to further rain tonight and again on the morrow, which boded ill for the already saturated course. It was planned to play the final round of the seventy-two hole tournament Sunday.

The drenching left the greens unplayable, and sand traps and bunkers became water hazards.

Reclamation of Lake Is Folly in Minnesota

BY BOB BECKER.

At a time when hundreds of thousands of sportsmen are arguing about the duck shortage and the related problem of unwise drainage of sloughs and marshes, they can't help but turn their eyes to Minnesota. That state has been spending thousands of dollars to destroy drainage ditches completed less than 15 years ago at a cost of nearly $200,000.

The emphasis behind this project should be placed on this fact: The Minnesota Thief lake drainage attempt now being salvaged so that the worthless dry lands can go "native" and again become marshes for birds, is just one example of the nationwide mistake of unnecessary drainage.

Once Famous Fowl Site.

Thief lake once was a part of one of the most famous waterfowl nesting grounds in the United States. For 15 years this area has lain absolutely bone dry, the result of the ditch craze that swept the country about 28 years ago. It cost about $187,000 to put in the ditch system that destroyed Thief lake. Now Minnesota has spent more thousands to wipe out that work and let Thief lake go back to its former state. The project has been financed by the game and fish department out of the sportsmen's license fund.

What happened to the lake itself and the surrounding farm land when the water was drained and farmers were fooled into putting their money in the reclaimed land has been on display for many years. Abandoned farm buildings are falling to ruin and school houses are locked up. Settlers located on the reclaimed land, only to find that the soil was not suitable for farming.

Stand as Stark Reminder.

One authority estimated that it cost more than a third of a million dollars to make the march "up the hill and down again in the Thief lake district."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR Wake: In bringing back to mind the good old business days, here is a little incident regarding Franklin MacVeagh, whose wholesale grocery recently announced voluntarily closing its doors after many decades of usefulness to middle western retailers.

In 1865, P. M. Kinney, a retail grocer in Benton Harbor, Mich., owned several sailing vessels which he used in obtaining retail grocery stock from Chicago. In need of supplies, he entered the "House of MacVeagh."

Mr. Kinney stood around waiting for service and kept on waiting. There were plenty of clerks, but they paid him no attention, evidently thinking he was there just to pass the time. Finally Ben Steinfield, field representative in Kinney's territory, strode out into the store from the office of his employer and asked Kinney why he was waiting.

The Benton Harbor man explained he was waiting to place an $1,800 order, but none seemed interested. Steinfield, of course, was angry and went right to Mr. MacVeagh about the matter. The latter came out of his office and apologized to Kinney in a manner that retained a valuable customer. Thereafter, there was no indifference of clerks in the "House of MacVeagh." John Kinney Sr.

I note reference by "Old Timer since 1866" to the old retail toy store of Sweitzer & Beer, located on present site of Mandel Brothers. When I was a kid of four or five years, we lived in Bloomington. I came to Chicago with father on one of his business trips. There were "big doings" on the lake front in the evening—fireworks an' everything. Afterward, we tried to secure hotel accommodations and failed.

Father had a friend connected with the Sweitzer & Beer store. He took us up to the second floor and we slept that night in hammocks right among the rocking horses, wooden tigers, lions, etc. Imagine what a thrill that would give a boy of five. I don't remember how much sleep I got, but I do remember the experience.

Chrysanthemums.

Flooding every florist's window
Russet blooms, rose, gold, and white,
With their multicolored beauty
Cheering dim and wintry light.

Do the large curled ones remind you
Of crisp balls of popcorn bright,
And the smaller ones of candles
Burning with a starry light?

Does their sharp and pungent fragrance
Bespeak fir and holly rhyme,
That's why folks daily remind you
"Mums" the word in winter time.

Norwegian Ski Stars Arrive Today for Meet

The Ruud brothers of Norway, world ski champions, will arrive today to participate in the Norge Ski club's 26th tournament at Cary hill, Fox River Grove, Ill., tomorrow afternoon.

Sigmund and Birger Ruud are en route from Lake Placid, N. Y., where they will compete with the Norwegian team next month in defense of the Olympic winter sports title. They are regarded by Norwegians with admiration equal to that held for Babe Ruth by American sports fans.

Holds Distance Record.

The older of the brothers, Sigmund, holds the world's record for distance jumping in competition. He leaped 267 feet at St. Moritz, Switzerland, last year. He also took first prize in the last Olympic meet.

Birger, 21 years old, is the only skier to be given a perfect rating. He was voted this distinction by three judges in the international tournament held at Oberhoff, Germany, last year.

The Ruuds are expected to break the Cary hill record of 173 feet, established by Casper Oimen, American champion, in 1930.

However, this will be the first time the Ruuds have competed on transplanted snow, eight carloads of which arrived at Cary hill yesterday from Escanaba, Mich., to be spread on the slide and hill today. They will take practice jumps before the tournament starts at 1:30 to familiarize themselves with the artificial footing.

Paulsen Is Norge Hope.

Guttorm Paulsen of the Norge Ski club is conceded a chance to outdistance the Norwegians. Last Sunday he took first prize in the opening meet in this section at Oconomowoc, Wis., where he established a new record for the hill.

Gunnar Oman of the Ogden Dunes club also will make a strong bid for Chicago's first championship in the event since 1924. He is the best stylist among American jumpers.

MILES JACOBS MAKES EYES AT PRISCILLA LEWIS

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—The more I hear of the negotiations for Max Schmeling's next prize fight, involving that item of Tammany patronage, the heavyweight championship of the world, the more strongly do I suspect that all concerned have no sporting motive whatever but are interested solely in financial gain.

A few nights ago, when Schmeling was performing his dance routines with some of his sparring partners in Boston, Jack Sharkey happened into the place and climbed into the ring to greet him. Now Sharkey has been pouting and sucking his thumb for two years because Schmeling has refused to give him a chance to win the championship and here at last they were together in a ring. This was a great opportunity for Sharkey to yell for a pair of gloves and peel off his coat and pants and start punching informally.

It Takes Only Two.

Given the champion and a challenger and a referee in a ring, the championship could be contested legitimately in private and, since title is the point of contention between Schmeling and Sharkey, if they had been sincere sportsmen, they would have fought it out where they were.

Instead, however, Sharkey said to Schmeling, "Why don't you quit stalling around and give me a match? We would draw a lot of money." Schmeling assured him that he would, at some future date, give him a return match, agreeing that they would draw a lot of money.

Sharkey then wished Schmeling luck and vice versa and the ring was cleared and Schmeling went on with his performance.

This mention of money confirms an old suspicion of mine that when the boys reach the championship flight in pugilism their sporting enthusiasm is completely stifled by their greed for money gain.

The heavyweight championship has been placed in contest eleven times in the last thirteen years. There has been a total of 84 rounds of fighting in these eleven bouts and the financial consideration has been $9,898,364, gross, which would come to $117,837 per round or $39,279 per minute. I would give the price per second, too, except that I am not very good at long division and it took me close onto an hour to divide the gross sum by 84.

It Just Goes to Show.

Anyway, these figures show that the heavyweight championship has been used as a money making device all this time and the number of rounds fought per year [thirteen into 84 goes, I think, about six and one-half times] proves that the champions have rather tended to evade their challengers than to seek them out and make them eat their brash words, which is the traditional way to do when one party hears that another party has been going around bragging that he can lick the party of the first part.

Now I understand the plan to conduct a heavyweight championship fight between Schmeling and Mickey Walker in Florida has been abandoned. And have you heard why? They abandoned the plan because Uncle Will McCarney, one of Schmeling's managers, after scouting the Florida country, reported that they could not make any money fighting down there.

Hi, There, Uncle Nate.

Now Joe Jacobs, who is Schmeling's No. 1 manager, wishes to find some other promoter to produce the Walker fight and I think he is beginning to roll his eyes at Uncle Nate Lewis [all the old managers and promoters in the prize fight industry are called either uncle or professor] of the Chicago Stadium.

But Uncle Nate realizes that the present is a buyer's, not a seller's, market, so he is paying very little attention to Mr. Jacobs, giving him the old indifference, as the fellow says.

I think they are just trying to play on the public's susceptibilities, and when the excitement is at its height, charge the patrons excessive rates of admission to see them engage in a fight which would be quite as authentic and decisive if they fought it in the back room of a saloon for a purse of four dollars, winner take all, which would be the spiritual home of the prize fight, any way, and, on the basis of their last performance, money enough and to spare.

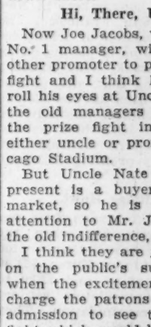
Thurnblad Hopes to Be Surprise of Cue Meet Again

This is the fourth of a series of sketches on players in the world's three cushion billiard tourney which opens here next week.

The surprise of the 1931 billiard season hopes to be the surprise of the 1932 campaign. Arthur Thurnblad, a Chicago representative, would like to repeat his feat of last year in winning the world's championship three-cushion tournament. Thurnblad was an outsider in the 1931 campaign and again we find that despite the fact he holds the world's crown he has been picked to finish ninth in a field of twelve in the title tournament which opens at Mussey's Wabash avenue billiard room Monday night.



ART THURNBLAD.

A little thing like having the odds against him does not disturb Thurnblad. Last season he was selected to finish sixth in a field of eight, yet he won six of his seven games and scored 349 out of a possible 350 points.

The champion's boyhood ambition was to be an artist but he finished by being a draftsman. Later he found that this knowledge of angles he gained in his work was of much help to him at three-cushions. He is a master of the diamond system and he figures shots as rapidly as any player in the game.

Oak Park High school's heavyweight basketball team, defending champion, maintained its lead in the Suburban league last night, defeating Morton, 30 to 18, at the Oak Park gymnasium. Eddie Belzer led the Villagers to their third consecutive victory, scoring five baskets. The Oak Park lights lost to Morton, 19 to 16, in a preliminary game.

St. Patrick and St. Mel went into a tie with De Paul for the north section heavyweight lead in the Catholic league by winning last night. St. Patrick won from St. George, 31 to 16, and St. Mel defeated Weber, 30 to 17.

Leo Ties for Lead.

In the south section, Leo heavyweights, by triumphing over St. Rita, 28 to 27, now are tied with St. Philip, which drew a bye in yesterday's schedule, with three straight triumphs.

Riverside remained undefeated in the West Suburban conference heavyweight race, handing Downers Grove a 25 to 18 defeat on the Riverside court. The league leading Hinsdale lights won their fourth game, triumphing over Glenbard, 27 to 14.

Senn, Schurz Win.

Senn and Schurz were the victors in the opening heavyweight games in the north section of the Chicago Public High Schooll eague. Schurz defeated Waller, 20 to 15, and Senn, led by Hooper, triumphed over Lake View, 24 to 16.

Tilden and Hyde Park, tied at the end of the regulation game, 23 to 23, were forced to postpone their central section lightweight contest because of the 5 o'clock order. The game will be replayed on Monday afternoon. Lineups:

HERE'S IDEA FOR MESSRS. HERTZ, WIDENER, ET AL.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—It was like a scene from an old story book at the Moscow Hippodrome today when the Russians entertained their oriental guest, Timoor Tash, minister of court to the Persian potentate, Shah Riza Khan, with a series of horse races.

It was dark when the racing began this afternoon at 5:30, and there were electric lights around the track. It was bitter cold at 30 degrees witn a small, bright crescent moon.

The Persian visitors and their Russian hosts sat in a glass sided box in the grand stand, open in front. Beside Timoor Tash, there was the Cossack general, Budienny. Below sat a crowd of several thousand, seemingly indifferent to the cold.

On the wide track trotters skimmed like swallows with their wheeled sulkies, their roughed shoes biting into the hard snow and their drivers with fur caps and incongruous gay silk shirts over heavy coats. The horses were hooded and blanketed until they began the preliminary canter for the flat racing or the trial breather for trotters.

Rudolph and Ponzi Divide 9th and 10th Blocks

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Erwin Rudolph of Chicago, world's champion, and Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia, divided the ninth and tenth blocks of their pocket billiard match today. Rudolph now has won seven of the ten blocks and leads in points, 1,128 to 971.

CHICAGOANS TO SPEAK AT REAL ESTATE MEET

Thirteen on Program at St. Louis.

Chicago will play a prominent part in the program of the National Association of Real Estate Boards when it holds its annual midwinter meeting at St. Louis on Jan. 20, 21, and 22. These local realtors are listed as speakers on the program of the three day gathering. There are more than fifty addresses on various phases of present day real estate problems scheduled. The Chicago delegation will leave for the Missouri metropolis next Tuesday at 4 p. m. on the Illinois Central.

JOHN A. CARROLL. [Kamed Studio.]

John A. Carroll, chairman of the executive committee of the Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank, will speak on "The Present Record of Real Estate Investment." Edward Sonnenschein, attorney, will talk on the influence of usury laws on real estate financing. William C. Regelin will discuss real estate exchanges.

Cary E. De Butts and Frank C. Wells will talk on the changing trends in rentals. Thomas J. Fleming is scheduled to talk on renting offices and apartments. The conception and preparation of a subdivision will be discussed by Marshall G. Simonds.

Frank A. McNally to Speak.

Frank A. McNally will speak about the design and layout of apartment units, and Stanley Roe will discuss the average percentage of gross sales which retail stores can afford to pay as rent. Frederick M. Babcock will talk on data requirements.

J. Frank Lindsay will lead the property owners' discussion. Harold H. Egan will discuss percentage leases. Orvin A. Blietz is scheduled to talk on the management and control of a building project.

All thirty-three members of the appraisal committee of the Chicago Real Estate board, which again is headed by S. Charles Iversen, will attend the St. Louis gathering.

Announcement was made yesterday of the appointment of Newton C. Farr, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, to membership on the central committee of the appraisal group, taking the place of Edgar M. Snow, who will be out of the city for several months.

Plans Food Mart.

Benjamin Sacks of the Lakeside Fish and Oyster company, 657 Fulton market, one of the largest wholesale firms of its kind in the city, is remodeling the Lyda theater property, at 315 North Cicero avenue, which he owns, into a modern food market. The general contract has been awarded to J. Taff & Co. R. Bernard Kurzon is architect. Work is under way, with the expectation of having it open about April 15.

The 925 seat playhouse has been dismantled and the entire building is being remodeled. A new front is to be built. Concessions will be leased for the sale of groceries, fruits, vegetables, fish, bakery goods, etc. There'll be a delicatessen and soda fountain. The building occupies a site 60x100. Renting and management will be handled by Mr. Sacks. He states he intends erecting other markets in various locations.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES EASIER; LOSSES SMALL

Moderate reactionary tendencies prevailed yesterday on the Chicago exchange. Realizing cut into recently accumulated gains, but the market absorbed the sales satisfactorily. Net changes were minor except in the case of one or two shares.

Recessions in the lower priced Insull issues were confined to slight fractions. Motor accessory shares followed the general trend, but Bendix was an exception, crawling up a notch on light sales. Selling ex dividend Swift International lost 2¼ to 22, while Swift & Co. shares were steady at 18¾.

Announcement was made that directors of Campbell, Wyant & Campbell have postponed action on the quarterly dividend of 25 cents ordinarily declared at this time. The statement failed to stir any interest in the stock which did not appear on the tape. It was stated that the directors delayed action in order to maintain the working capital position and enable the company to bring out a new product.

Sears-Roebuck Catalog Shows Big Price Cuts

The new catalog of Sears, Roebuck & Co. issued yesterday shows reductions in merchandise prices ranging from 11 to 47 per cent from the prices listed in the catalog last year. Some of the decreases shown are: Dry goods, 20 to 35 per cent; wearing apparel, 16 to 47 per cent; home furnishings, 14 to 40 per cent; paint, roofing and wall paper, 11 to 20 per cent, and hardware and farm implements, 14 to 40 per cent.

N. W. Bancorporation 1931 Net Equals $3.47 a Share

The Northwest Bancorporation yesterday announced earnings of $3.47 per share last year, compared with $3.87 in 1930. Net operating earnings of the company, which has 138 affiliated banking institutions, were $6,614,168 in 1931, compared with $6,774,007 in 1930.

Stock Exchange Seat Is Posted for Transfer

A membership on the Chicago Stock Exchange was posted yesterday for transfer to Jack A. Benjamin, partner of Uhlmann & Benjamin, Chicago. He is also secretary of the Uhlmann Grain corporation.

AIR REDUCTION.

Wall street hears that the Air Reduction company 1931 report will show net profit of slightly better than $4 a share. In 1930 earnings were equal to $6.32 a share.

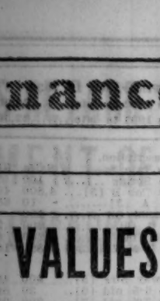
LOWER VALUES CUT INVENTORY OF WILSON & CO.

Depression Slices Packer Income.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The final chapter in the tale of depression in the meat packing industry is written in the annual report of Wilson & Co., the last of the "Big Four "packers to issue a statement. It repeats the story of heavy inventory losses as the result of drastic declines in commodity prices. The company's inventory loss was more than $4,000,000 and to this was added a loss of $1,000,000 through the decline in value of foreign currencies.



THOMAS E. WILSON. [A. P. Photo.]

After all chargeoffs and charges, the final result was an operating loss of $2,017,155 for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1931. However, this loss and preferred stock dividends totaling $500,071 were partly offset by a credit of $1,548,839 arising from the company's purchase of its own preferred stock in the market at a discount. Therefore, the company's surplus declined only $968,388 and now stands at $4,404,188. However, accumulated dividends on Feb. 1 will total $3,713,472 on the preferred stock and $2,234,581 on the class A shares. On the preceding fiscal year the company had a net profit of $2,542,656, which was equivalent to $8.89 a share on the preferred stock.

Sales Total $212,000,000.

"Sales for the year amounted to $212,000,000, compared with $270,000,000 in 1930," President Thomas E. Wilson says in his report. "The decrease was entirely due to the decline in the sales value of our products, the year's sales tonnage showing an actual increase. Inventory declines have been the most severe in the packing house industry's history. But values have reached a level so low that it seems hardly possible that further substantial inventory losses could occur and there are good reasons for feeling confident that operations in 1932 will show profitable results."

Mr. Wilson also calls attention to economies effected in recent months and the fact that depreciation charges have been equal to previous years. Reserves also are above estimated requirements and the financial condition of the company is strong, with current assets at 9½ times current liabilities. In explaining the company's purchase of its own preferred stock, he says: "The directors feel that in times like these such a reduction of the capital structure is for the best interest of the company and all the stockholders."

CONDITION OF TRADE

At best, trade and industry are improving moderately; at worst, they are marking time. This view may be gleaned from the weekly mercantile reviews which express rather divergent opinions.

"Resumption of buying in some of the leading primary markets has developed quite definitely thus early in the new year," Dun's review says. "The thinness of present inventories continues the outstanding favorable factor and encourages belief in additional activity during the coming weeks.

"Further hopeful phases of retail merchandising are that many stores have abandoned the idea of promotion sales merely to increase volume; more stress is now placed on lines that carry a profit. Another feature is that with wholesale prices fully 17 per cent below those of a year ago, restocking is done at much greater advantage than at the beginning of last year.

Report Fair Sales.

"The majority of the retail stores have had a fair volume of business through advertised January sales. A good upturn in automobile sales is expected during the next two months, as dealers report indicatic for more prospective buyers than at any time in the last three years."

Reports to Bradstreet's from fifty-five leading centers indicate that the new year so far has brought but little life into business.

General Electric Sales of Refrigerators Expand

Domestic sales of General Electric refrigerators in 1931 were almost 30 per cent ahead of 1929 and exceeded those for 1930, according to Rex Cole, metropolitan distributor of the General Electric refrigerator.

Invents Plan Designed to Help Business

BY SCRUTATOR.

Col. M. C. Rorty, vice president of International Telephone and Telegraph corporation and former president of the National Bureau of Economic Research, has invented a scheme which he believes would start business on the upgrade.

He explained his plan publicly last night for the first time in an address at Cleveland before the Adult Education association. Previously, however, he had been trying it out on political and financial leaders in Washington and New York. He proposes a system of bonuses to encourage capital expenditures on income producing projects, the bonus money to be provided by special federal taxes.

In a copy of Col. Rorty's notes on his plan forwarded to this column yesterday his proposition is summed up as follows:

"To impose, for the purpose of the plan, a special federal tax, apart from the normal source of federal revenues. This tax should be, in effect, a consumption tax on a broad base, rather than a luxury or income tax; but, otherwise, would be of such character as may be most readily applied and collected.

Construction Projects.

"To advertise each month for bids for the starting of new costruction projects or other operations of a productive type involving new capital expenditures, such bids to be in terms of the minimum required percentage of bonus upon certified expeditures for materials and wages."

Col. Rorty says he believes that the emergency credit relief now being provided may put an end to credit deflation, restore public confidence, and enable business to start its own natural recovery without artificial aid.

"If, however, business activities continue to hang fire at a low level," he says, "or if popular and political pressure threaten to force through some form of dole or schemes for large scale public construction on the basis of governmental borrowings, then I should suggest the plan here outlined as one involving the minimum elements of risk and the maximum probability of positive effect.

Given as Alternative.

"Now as to my own feelings, first of all, I wish I didn't have the bear by the tail, but I suspect that is my real position. I shall safeguard myself only by saying that I do not propose it except as an alternative to other 'make work' plans in case present efforts at credit relief are ineffective.

"All proposals made to date to force a business revival have seemed both theoretically and practically defective in that they attempt to apply only a single stimulus to business activity, which stimulus might readily be offset by a counter wave of credit contraction, leaving conditions worse than before.

"All plans dependent upon bond issues or other borrowings are fundamentally unsound, since the borrowing possibilities even of the federal government are limited.

"To be fundamentally sound such a plan must be financed out of current public revenues. But, most important, each dollar of public funds expended must be so applied as to stimulate the expenditure of several dollars of private money and private borrowings."

Private Capital's Risk.

He contends that there would be little danger of unwise and uneconomical overbuilding because most of the cost of each project wolud be covered by private capital, and those who would supply it would be careful to see that it was not misdirected. He adds that whereas some five billions of annual expenditures are required solely for reconstruction purposes the present annual rate of all construction is three billions or less.

"In the field of private construction," he says, "there might be included projects for the reconstruction of slum areas and for other special housing operations, as well as for hospital, university, and other institutional construction.

"Furthermore, when railroad credit is adequately restored it would be entirely appropriate to pay bonuses toward the cost of grade crossing elimination, highway danger signals, automatic block signals, etc."

C. H. M'DOWELL RESIGNS FROM ARMOUR WORK

Retires as Fertilizer President.

Charles H. MacDowell announced yesterday his resignation as president of Armour Fertilizer works and vice president of Armour & Co., after a service of nearly forty-five years with Armour & Co. He will continue to serve as a director of that company.

John E. Sanford, for years executive vice president, will succeed to the presidency of Armour Fertilizer company.

C. H. MacDOWELL.

Mr. MacDowell started work as printer's "devil" on the Fulton Democrat, Lewiston, Ill., his home town paper. Later he learned shorthand and served several years as court reporter. He began work in Chicago for the Armours in 1887.

Directed Armour Exhibit.

In 1893 Mr. MacDowell was placed in charge of the Armour exhibit at the World's Fair. While there he became a student of the possibilities of the use of manufactured fertilizers in this country. He saw the part that packing house byproducts would play when combined with potash from Germany, nitrate of soda from Chile, and other plant food materials in this country and abroad.

As a result, he asked P. D. Armour to be allowed to take charge and develop this end of the company's business. Mr. Armour's "O. K." marked the beginning in 1894 of the present Armour Fertilizer works and a more scientific utilization of the packing house byproducts, many of which at that time went to waste. He planned the first soap works for Armour & Co., which was built to use the large quantities of tallow and grease produced at the packing plants.

Mr. MacDowell served as fertilizer department manager of Armour & Co. until 1909, when Armour Fertilizer works was incorporated and he became its president, remaining in that office until today.

Active in the War.

In April, 1917, Mr. MacDowell was appointed a member of the committee on chemicals of the Council of National Defense, and in 1918 when the war industries board was organized under B. M. Baruch, Mr. MacDowell was made director of chemical supply, which included munitions material, and further developed the chemicals division. For his work in the war he was awarded medals, etc., by the United States, France, Belgium, and Italy.

Mr. MacDowell was president of the National Fertilizer association for four years [1904-'05 and 1921-'22] and has been chairman of its public relations committee for many years.

General Motors to Make Gas Operated Ice Box

Dayton, O., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Tooling operations have been started for production of an absorption type, gas operated household refrigerator to be known as the Faraday, a new General Motors product. It will be placed on the market within the next few months by the Faraday Refrigerator corporation, newly formed to sell the unit. R. F. Callaway, as vice president, will be in active charge of sales. Marketing at first will be confined to a restricted territory in the east and middlewest, Mr. Callaway said, and present merchandising organizations of gas utilities will be utilized to sell it.

STERLING EXCHANGE HITS HIGHEST POINT SINCE LAST NOVEMBER

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Most foreign exchanges were strong against the dollar today. Sterling again led the rise, getting to the highest point since last November. Cables closed 2 cents higher at $3.48½:

Dealers attributed the rise in part to European fears that an inflationary movement was to be started here. This feeling, it was said, was apparently based on reports of the federal reserve system's easy money policy. The French franc, Japanese yen, German mark, and the Scandinavian monies firmed.

Withdrawals of gold for export today amounted to $16,678,000, the largest for any day since the end of the year. They were, however, largely offset by a decrease of $15,723,000 in gold earmarked for foreign account.

The New York Federal Reserve bank statement showed shipments to France of $12,269,000, Belgium $4,091,000, Holland $210,000, and Switzerland $108,000. Imports amounted to $111,400 from Mexico. The net result of the day's movements was a decrease of $843,600 in the country's monetary stock.

NOTE CONFIDENCE.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Foreign confidence in Great Britain's ability to make economic recovery rather than material improvement in the situation here is held to have been responsible for the rise in the value of the pound in the last few days. The New York rate touched $3.50 today.

According to reports from the continent, the selling of dollars was due partly to speculators taking a less favorable view of the dollar in relation to sterling on reports of the supposed intention on the part of the United States banking authorities to resort to inflation of credit for the purpose of helping trade.

BOND MARKET STAGES RALLY AFTER DECLINE

U. S. Issues at New Lows for 1932.

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The bond market today staged an expected reaction, but as offerings diminished on the decline traders took heart and counter attacked with a last minute rally.

United States government issues early began to give up portions of their recent profits. At times they attempted to recover, but some of them sagged to new lows for the year before the end of the session.

Rails Fall, Then Rally.

The rails dropped steadily but orderly from the opening of the market, and losses of 1 to 3 points were numerous in those liens which have registered 25 or more points advance since their December bottom figures. In the last hour of trading, however, there was a rush of buying orders which saved the day for the carriers.

Reports from Chicago that the conference of rail executives and union leaders on wage reductions had developed a "hitch" was blamed for the early decline. Later news, however, indicated that the conference would proceed, and the sellers of transportation bonds quickly switched their positions.

Industrials, Utilities Strong.

Industrials and utilities also closed somewhat higher after recording cheaper prices during most of the day. Communications bonds eased, but the oils and miscellaneous issues raised their prices sufficiently to put up the averages.

While foreign obligations generally were irregular, individual obligations took on substantial gains. South Americans were in demand, the Argentine loans leading the movement with advances of from 1 to 3½ points. French 7⅛s and British 5½s were higher, and most Japanese bonds recovered substantially, oriental developments gaining from 1½ to 2½ points.

Discount Rates on Bank Acceptances Are Reduced

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—In a further effort to attract bankers' acceptances into the market to fill an active demand, all dealers in that paper again reduced the discount rates today on maturities of 60 and 90 days another ⅛ of 1 per cent. This put all the short maturities—30, 60, and 90 days—on the level of 2⅞ bid and 2¾ asked.

The reduction in 90 day bill rates has totaled ¼ of 1 per cent since the federal bank of New York announced on Tuesday that it was willing to buy bills at a lower discount.

PROGRAM FOR RECOVERY GIVEN BY ECONOMISTS

Relief Measures Are Outlined.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—A program for business recovery, sanctioned by leading economists and based in general upon the use of credit facilities to reverse the present process of deflation, was announced by the recently formed advisory board of economists today, through Warren M. Persons, former Harvard professor and the board's chairman.

Similar in some of its provisions to President Hoover's plan for economic readjustment, the program advocated not only the checking of deflation, but also "some expansion."

Attached to the anouncement was a list of thirty-five specialists who offered their services to the country to carry out the proposals put forward. Included were Profs. Irving Fisher and T. S. Adams of Yale; F. W. Taussig, T. N. Carver, John H. Williams of Harvard, and Edwin R. A. Seligman, emeritus professor of political economy at Columbia.

Describe Program.

The program itself, described as "the least common denominator of effective platforms upon which fairly general agreement appears possible," was put forward with a statement that failure to include other relief measures did not mean that the economists have disapproved omitted items. Modifications, particularly additions to deal with world recovery, may be made later, it was indicated.

A statement of the board's preliminary findings, recommendations, and expected results follows:

"Though some important adjustments of various elements of cost and overhead remain to be made, the general contraction of credit and deflation of prices have gone far enough.

"The United States can have substantial business recovery without waiting for a solution of Europe's difficulties.

"Recovery is possible on a sound money basis without recourse of monetary panaceas.

"The depression will not cure itself and requires prompt, intelligent, and vigorous action.

Recommend Steps.

"We recommend the following steps:

"1. The enactment of the bill establishing the reconstruction finance corporation to deal more effectively with emergency situations.

"2. Proper economy in municipal, state, and national budgets, and increased taxation.

"3. A liberal federal reserve policy designed to check credit decreases and encourage some expansion.

"4. A commercial banking policy cooperating with the reserve banks in checking credit decreases and encouraging increases, including [a] an increase in sound investments, [b] cooperation in aiding necessary treasury financing, [c] borrowing from the federal reserve banks when necessary to meet these and other sound needs.

Likely to Be Effective.

"We believe vigorous prosecution of these policies is sound, involves no important risks, and is likely to be effective in [a] stopping the downward trend of prices, [b] stopping hoarding and returning hoarded money to the banks, [c] restoring the normal value of securities, and [d] starting the beginning of business recovery."

With the assistance of industrialists, bankers, and business men recovery could undoubtedly be initiated by these means, Mr. Persons declared.

Atterbury Is Hopeful Over Rail Outlook

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 15.—The outlook for regulation of competing forms of transportation, the benefits expected from the railroad credit and the reconstruction corporations, together with some adjustment in railroad wages, are hopeful spots in the railroad situation now, according to W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

W. W. ATTERBURY.

Mr. Atterbury addressed a joint luncheon of the Traffic and Transportation club and the chamber of commerce here today. The speaker said that for the permanent restoration of railroad earning power the great need is a return to something like normal traffic, but that in the meantime the other measures could give emergency assistance.

On Wage Reductions.

On the subject of labor Mr. Atterbury said:

"The necessary reduction of the organized railroad employes' wages to correspond at least in part with the railroads' reduced ability to pay, and with the general deflation in practically all other values, is under discussion. I am hopeful that these important and powerful groups will, as their contribution in helping the country recover from the depression, voluntarily offer to accept a reduction of 10 per cent.

"I am hopeful also that they will permit it to take effect without delay. The saving would amount to from 200 to 225 million dollars per year. If these hopes are disappointed the railroads will be compelled to proceed formally under the terms of the transportation act, which will involve regretable and harmful delay.

Cites Opportunity.

"I believe this is the greatest opportunity in the history of organized labor for statesmanlike action and demonstration of a point of view broad enough to acknowledge responsibility for sharing in the protection of the public welfare and interest as a whole.

"I am greatly encouraged by the fact that some 26,000 organized employés in various parts of the country have already acted independently and voluntarily accepted 15 per cent reductions. On most railroads the official and supervisory forces took voluntary reductions some months ago, as have also large numbers of those clerical workers with whom there are no group agreements."

View on Merger Plan.

Alluding to the four party merger plan for railroads in trunk line territory, Mr. Atterbury said:

"The consolidation plans of the eastern railroads for grouping into four systems are in the hands of the interstate commerce commission and the hearings well advanced. I am hopeful for early and favorable action. Few events, in my belief, would do more to restore public confidence and stiffen railroad credit.

"The plan as it stands has been worked out with the greatest care. It represents the only alignment upon which all parties directly involved have been able to agree in negotiations extending over years. We believe it to be thoroughly sound. It will result in four well balanced, soundly financed and competently managed systems in the eastern territory."

May Retard Improvements.

Pending financing of the remainder of its huge improvement and electrification project, the Pennsylvania railroad is planning to slow up on its improvement program, it was reported today. Although the plans are still of a flexible nature and may be modified by changed business and financial conditions, it is understood that the inauguration of electric service between New York and Philadelphia, which was planned for the coming summer, may be deferred until next year, possibly until the opening of the new West Philadelphia terminal in the summer of 1933. Completion of this work also may be delayed for several months.

Buick Reports Increase in Retail Car Deliveries

Retail deliveries made by the Buick dealer organization from the introduction of new 1932 models on Nov. 14 through the first ten days of January totaled 13,562 units, according to C. W. Churchill, vice president in charge of sales. This represents a substantial increase over a year ago.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—Preferred stocks cut up a bit in today's dealings on the share exchange, but elsewhere the market was a pretty drab affair. Only about 1,600,000 shares were turned over in the whole five hour session.

Price movements on the whole displayed considerable irregularity. The loud talk was still bullish, but the boys seemed somewhat chary about parting with their hard earned simoleons to give substance to their conversation. Some of the experts allowed the market was going through the process of consolidating its gains. If so, it was certainly taking its own good time about it.

Even the railroad shares refused to perform, being discouraged by news that negotiations aimed at the much discussed 10 per cent wage cut on all lines of the country had bogged down at Chicago. There was no particular pressure against the group and the prominent issues here and there managed to record further gains, but the predominating disposition was to await fresh advices from the conference before getting rash.

Ups and Downs.

Such issues as Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Kansas City Southern, Missouri Pacific, and others which have been up in front on the advance therefore chose to recede slightly from the forward positions they had assumed. Most of the reactions were fractional, but Union Pacific had to give up more than two points of its recent gains. On the other hand, New York Central, New Haven, Illinois Central, and Southern Pacific wound up as usual with plus signs to advertise their prowess.

Individual features were few and far between. One was provided by a sensational runup in the preferred stock of International Combustion Engineering, which jumped to 21, a rise of more than 100 per cent on a brisk flurry of trading inspired by reports that the reorganization committee of the company had completed its plans to remove the corporation from receivership. Later came word that the report was "a bit premature" and the stock quieted down. The closing sale was at 14, however, representing a net gain of 5 points. It is understood that the committee charged with the plan for reorganizing the company is making substantial progress in its undertaking, but the project is said to be still far from completed.

Solvay American Up.

Other preferred issues to execute broad jumps included Solvay American, which advanced 7 points on two sales; Goodyear firsts, which rose 3½; American Ice, up 3, and Gillette, up 2½ points.

Bear operators hammered United States Steel and other pivotals at intervals in an effort to emphasize their contention that the big advance was over and a reastion in order, but their efforts encountered stiff resistance. U. S. Steel in particular met with good support and succeeded in keeping on the right side of the field most of the time. Many brokers reported increasing difficulty in borrowing U. S. Steel for short covering purposes.

A. & P. SALES IN DECEMBER OFF 8.8% FROM 1930

Sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company for the five week period ended Jan. 2 were $91,310,661. This compares with $100,101,068 for the same period in 1930, a decrease of $8,790,407, or 8.78 per cent.

December sales, expressed in tons, were 516,171 this year, compared with 514,356 in December, 1930. This is a gain in quantity of merchandise sold of 1,815 tons, or .35 per cent.

Average weekly sales in December were $18,262,132, compared with $20,020,213 in 1930, a decrease of $1,758,081. Average weekly tonnage sales were 103,234, compared with 102,871 in December, 1930.

PRICE ADVANCE FOLLOWS EARLY BREAK IN WHEAT

Shipments from Southern Countries Expand.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Trading against bids and offers furnished a good part of the business in wheat yesterday. An early break due to disappointing cables from Liverpool and a reaction in the stock market resulted in holders of bids being able to buy against the latter, while later there was short covering and also commission house buying which advanced prices into the offers. Closing trades were at the best figures of the day with March finishing at 55c; May, 56⅝@56¾c, and July, 55⅞@56c.

According to the gossip of the trade a leading local professional has been selling both bids and offers of late, and with a light speculative interest prices have held within the limits of the indemnities. In the past 5 days the May delivery has held within a range of 2¾c, with the trade generally disposed to pay little attention to the news.

Large Wheat Shipments.

There was scattered selling early which carried the May off to 55⅝c on the clearance of 9,274,000 bu wheat from Argentina and Australia during the past week, which compared with 4,951,000 bu the previous week, and 8,256,000 bu last year. Under 56c, however, there was commission house selling which absorbed the surplus in the pit with the assistance of holders of bids and little opposition to an advance was encountered when the pit element started to cover on the rebound in the stock market.

General liquidation developed in the Liverpool wheat market during the day, owing to the unexpected heavy exports from the southern hemisphere and despite an advance of 4 points in sterling to $3.49 futures there closed equal to ¾@⅞c per bu lower, May being 55⅜c. Buying on resting orders at 62c for May checked the early decline in Winnipeg and the finish was unchanged for the day at 62½c in Canadian funds. Discount on Canadian exchange was slightly firmer at 15½ per cent. Buenos Aires closed unchanged.

While cables from Europe expressed apprehension of inflation in the United States due to the Reconstruction Finance bill now before the House and the reduction in the rate on bills, the grain trade at the present time is not disposed to pay much attention to the theory in view of the slow demand for North American cash wheat. There were scattered sales of Manitobas reported at the Pacific coast and a little hard winter at the Atlantic, but the latter business was said to have been done at relatively low prices.

Corn Lowest Since October.

Prospects for colder weather over the corn belt with increased country offerings to arrive was responsible for a selling movement in futures early which carried prices off around ½c with May touching 39¼c. The latter broke into new ground since Oct. 16. Buying against bids and the rally in wheat caused local buying later and the May rallied to 39⅞c. Final trades were about the top, with net gains of 1/16@⅜c, March being 38c, May 39⅞c, and July 41⅜c.

Ohio and Indiana continue to undersell Chicago on corn in the east, and shipping demand is greatly restricted, although sales of 29,000 bu were reported for the day. On the other hand the country sold 56,000 bu to arrive, and the trade is inclined to look for a liberal movement from Illinois before March 1.

Oats market developed a firmer undertone, and while the incentive for buying came largely from the strength in other grains there was no material pressure. Closing trades were ¾@⅞c higher with May, 26c and July, 25¼@25⅜c. Rye advanced ⅝c in sympathy with wheat and closed with May at 45⅞c, and July, 46⅛c.

NEW HIGH ON COTTON

Cotton prices moved to a new high for the present upturn yesterday and held part of the gains, there being net advances at the last of 1 to 2 points in New York with Chicago unchanged to 5 points higher and New Orleans unchanged to 3 points higher. Spots were unchanged at 6.75c in New York, 6.40c in New Orleans, 6.55c in Galveston, and 6.50c in Houston. Liverpool was 4 to 5 points net lower. Fair buying was on early with the stock market stronger and higher and trade sentiment was rather more favorable to the buying side. Consumption is in egcess of last year despite trade depression. Exports are lagging with gains over last year, and an optimistic forecast is being made for the future. Spinners takings for the week are estimated at 298,000 bales against 266,000 bales the previous week and 223,000 bales last year. Into sight movement for the week was 370,000 bales against 425,000 bales the previous week and 169,000 bales last year. Prices follow:

Top yesterday, $6.85; average, $6.00

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 300; hogs, 10,000; sheep, 3,000.

Storms and extremely muddy roads slowed down the marketward movement of livestock yesterday and all but cattle responded to the influence of light supplies and colder weather. Active buying on eastern account drove hogs and lambs to the highest price levels of the week. Swine showed most action and recovered all that was lost in the last week. There were slightly higher spots in the cattle trade, but not much strength was in back of the advance and the bulk of the limited supply met a sluggish and barely steady trade, with prices sharply lower than a week ago.

Receipts of hogs at the 20 leading markets were cut down 47 per cent, the total yesterday at 94,000 comparing with 179,000 a week ago. Receipts were below any corresponding day in recent years. All leading markets reported substantially smaller supplies. Local offerings were estimated early at 23,000 and later at 19,000, the second smallest for Friday since middle of last September.

Meet Local Competition.

The drop in temperature added support to the position of the trade and outsiders encountered a good deal of local competition when filling their eastern orders. Shippers bought 45 per cent of the fresh receipts and only pen holders remained at the close. The top price jumped 20c to $4.35, highest since last Saturday, while the general average at $4.10 showed 15c gain and equaled the highest day since Thursday of last week.

Little action was reported in the hog futures trade yesterday. May light were bid $5.00 and March bids were $4.50. Most January and February bids were down to $4.00. No offers to sell were made.

Cattle Trade Dull.

Generally, yesterday's cleanup trade for cattle was a dull and uninteresting affair, which exhibited more weakness than it did strength, and some sellers question its ability to handle more than light supplies next week. Good grades of yearling heifers sold at the week's full price cuts, while some strength was evidenced in poorer grades of beef steers, emphasizing the tendency to narrow the price range.

Steers selling at $5.25 and below got most action, but the rank and file selling at $5.75@6.50 attracted few buyers and some remained unsold. None here were good enough to test the top quotations. The best available averaged 1083 lbs. and sold at $8.00. Butcher cows and heifers met fair demand at the week's decline, while yearling heifers resumed the decline. Calves were fully steady.

Top Lambs $6.85.

The bulge in the lamb market carried the top to $6.85, within 5c of the highest price in three months. The total at the 20 markets was lowered to 58,000 and compared with 76,000 the previous Friday, the Chicago supply showing a decrease of 45 per cent at 15,000. The attempt made by the selling side to bring the 7.00 quotation into use served to slow down trading for several hours during the forenoon, but buyers and sellers finally agreed on a 25c higher level and the later clearance was rapid. Most good grades sold to packers at $6.25@6.60, city butchers paying the peak. Aged and yearling sheep were mostly steady.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 10,000 hogs and 3,000 sheep, against 353 cattle, 17,018 hogs and 4,771 sheep the previous Saturday and 356 cattle, 16,117 hogs and 5,516 sheep, a year ago.
